Its First Anniversary.

West Virginia Circle, No. 251, of the Protected Home Circle, celebrated its first anniversary last night at the Pythian Castle, and the occasion was celebrated by a very successful concert. The auditorium was packed, many of the audience coming from neighboring towns, and the entertainment was greatly enjoyed. All the performers acquitted themselves with credit, and there was a concert of gymnastic, musical and literary numbers. Among those taking part was Frank Miller, club swinger, the Kobers, gymnasts, and Bowers and Bero, in musical turns.

King's Daughters Entertain.

The King's Daughters of the Chapel line street M. E. church gave a very successful supper and concert last night in the basement of the church. Supper was served from 5 to 8 o'clock, after which the following programme was excellently rendered:

Their Golden Wedding.

Invitations have been sent out for the golden wedding of Mr. and Mrs. George Orum, of Elm Grove. The celebration takes place at their residence on April 1, and commemorates the fiftieth anniversary of their wedding. As Mr. and Mrs. Orum are well known throughout this section, they will be the happy recipients, next Thursday, of scores of congratulations and wishes for many more years of life.

Mr. George Orum was born May 28, 1821, on Buffalo creek, Washington county, Pa. His parents moved to Ohio county when he was quite young, and he has since made his residence in Marshall and Ohio counties. He has followed the vocation of a farmer with the exception of a few years. He wore the blue during the civil war, enlisting in 1861.

Matilda Eskey was born at Steubenville, May 1, 1822, and became Mrs. George Orum, April 1, 1847.

THE NEW WAY.

A GREAT SUCCESS FOR FITTING ALL KINDS OF EYES WITH GLASSES.

Our new scientific method of examining the eyes and fitting glasses without putting drugs in the eyes and making the patient blind for a week, or having them sit for hours looking at charts and trying to fit themselves until they become so bewildered they cannot tell what they can see. We fit the eyes for examination without depending on the patient and know when they are fitted correctly.

Consultation and examination free.

IT WAS BAD WHISKEY

And Not Poison that Laid Out Young Hays Milligan.

Yesterday afternoon a poorly-clad girl, about fifteen years old, accompanied by her little brother, rushed into an Eighth ward drugstore, and demanded that she be told who had sold poison to her brother, a young man, twenty-two years of age, whom, she claimed, was dying.

She was very excited at first, and insisted that her brother had bought poison at this drugstore, because he told her, and "he never lies." The druggist looked up his memorandum, and found that no poison had been sold from his store for twenty-four hours preceding, and none at any time to Hays Milligan, the young man in question. The little girl then became calmer and gave what she supposed to be confirmatory evidence of the young man's rash act. To the questions of an intelligent scribe, she related somewhat as follows:

"It's all about a dog-gone girl. My brother went to Moundville to get married to her, but he couldn't get the 'marriage lines' in that county. He kem back last night and was all broke up. He said he would kill his self, and co-day at noon he kem home, staggerin' around the house, and looked like a wild man. Then he took to his bed and is frothin' at the mouth ever since. He's told us he got poison here and took it in some whiskey."

The mention of the last word cast a ray of intelligence over the countenance of the "pill roller" behind the counter, and he knowingly winked at the reporter. The newsman went to the scene of the poisoning, "Irish Row," a long, rambling brick structure, on South Wood street, near Thirty-eighth, that "has seen better days." Crawling through a passage way under the building, to an alley, and up a back stairs, a door was opened and inside the room, almost bare of furniture, were several men and women, too many, in fact, for the room, and three gaunt, uncouth looking yellow hounds. This rickety old stove, with its best efforts at attraction for the group. One glance was enough to tell that the inmates were part of the shanty-boat population that infests the river.

"We've lived here nigh on to two months," said the mother, taking an extra rub of snuff, "and we don't know all the ins and outs of city livin', else we'd got a doctor for Hays. The county doctor is the one to get, but we hain't sent for him. We thought mebbe the man what sold him the pizen could fix him up, so I sent my little girl arter him."

"Pizen nothin'," put in a young fellow with a pipe in his mouth. "It's 'nigger' whiskey. Hays has been a-drinkin' that's the way it allus acts."

In further corroboration of this statement, a boy said: "Yes, cause he gimme a drink of it, and it was cheap whiskey. I know."

The reporter did not accept the invitation to "take a look at Hays," who was groaning and rolling in a bunk in the corner, and bidding all adieu, he left.

Ritchie School.

Public day at the Ritchie school main building yesterday afternoon was attended by from two hundred to two hundred and fifty parents and friends. The exercises were very interesting throughout, the boys and girls taking great pride in showing what they could do.

This forenoon the annex building will be open to visitors and no doubt all the rooms will be crowded. The people of the Eighth ward surely appreciate their school and they show it by their presence on these public days. To-night in the grammar school room there will be given a public entertainment for the benefit of the school.

All are cordially invited. A collection will be taken at the close for her benefit.

THE HUB—CLOTHIERS AND FURNISHERS.

A... Great Hit!

Our great purchase last week of the entire sample lines of Boys' and Children's Suits of Harris, Goldber & Co. and Vogel & Levy, two of the largest manufacturers of the finest clothing for boys and children in the United States. We just swept their stock rooms clear as a whistle of every boy's and child's Sample Suit they had. They are not a lot of odds and ends, but a regular line—full and complete in sizes and styles—fresh styles, too—the newest effects—and from makers who are famous for their superior taste and talent. We've possessed ourselves of these thousands of suits—most as many as all the clothing stores in Wheeling together have got—unlike any of them—and marked the princely qualities at beggarly prices. There is as good as an out and out gift in every suit. Now, don't hang back waiting for the rush to subside. Too many of you could't crowd in here for us to serve you promptly. You'll have the benefit of a full stock to choose from.

Be on hand bright and early this morning. Hats, Fancy Caps, White and Percale Shirts. See window display for Children's Novelties.
