TERRIFIC STORM

Does Great Damage Up the Capitina Creek Valley in Ohio.

THE WATERS CAME OUT STRONG

Yesterday Afternoon, Doing Great Damage to the Farms Along the Valley--A Wall of Water Ten Feet High Described by an Ohio River Railroad Passenger. No Loss of Life as Far as Could be Ascertained Last Night.

A terrific rain and thunder storm descended upon the often ill-fated Capitina Valley, in the southern part of Belmont county, yesterday afternoon, and without warning, there was another experience of the dreaded high water.

Little or nothing can be learned of the damage that was inflicted by the flood that passed out of Capitina into the Ohio. A passenger who came up on the Ohio River train in the afternoon, says that a wall of water could be seen coming out of the creek into the river as the train passed. Powhatan. He says it was eight or ten feet in height, and that there appeared to be a great amount of wreckage in it.

Late last night it was learned, through the long-distance telephone, that there had been no loss of life so far as was known, but many houses had been entered and a number of small farm buildings were washed away. Twice within the past two years the Capitina Valley has suffered greatly from flood, on both the former occasions there being loss of life as well as great destruction of property. Yesterday's flood appears not to have been so serious as its predecessors.

"WOMAN'S DAY"

On the Wheeling Street Railway Lines Next Thursday--The Ladies Arranging for the Occasion.

Next Thursday will be "Woman's Day" in Wheeling. That means that for one brief, sweet day, woman will assume the reins of the trolley system in Wheeling, and all who ride upon the street cars must pay her tribute, in the shape of a festive nickel per ride.

The deal was consummated yesterday morning whereby the Wheeling Street Railway Company transfers control of its lines for that eventful day to the Woman's Benevolent Union. The fair sex will not get possession of any of the rolling stock, but will collect fares, take on passengers, leave them off at their destination and in general do the business of the pompous conductor. Thursday the regular conductors will have a day off.

The young ladies who are to assume such weighty responsibilities will not meddle with the brakes. That part of the business will be done by the motormen, so citizens can let their dogs and children run loose on that day as usual. There will be 200 handsome young ladies, uniformed with the regulation cap and badge. Each car will have a chaperone, a step taken to insure against attempts to flirt.

This novel scheme to raise funds for charitable objects has found no more ardent promoter than Colonel Sam R. Harrison. For many moons he has propounded the question to himself: "Would it not be a wise, happy thing to have female conductors? And unto this propounding always echoed the answer: 'Verily, it would.' So it behooved him that he do all in his power to foster the idea of the Woman's Benevolent Union, consequently at yesterday's conference with the street railway officials he was there as large as life.

Yesterday morning's meeting was held in the Y. M. C. A. Representing the street car company were Secretary Shirley and Superintendent Michael Loftus. Present from the Woman's Benevolent Union were: Mesdames L. J. Bayha, Dr. R. W. Hazlett, Dr. John L. Dickey, W. A. Wilson, W. F. Butler, M. A. Metcalfe, S. L. Kerner, Freese, and Miss Kelly, Secretary. Mrs. W. J. W. Cowder and Treasurer, Miss Cook Wilson.

The meeting was very harmonious, being happily free from the bickerings that characterize the granting of railway franchises. Messrs. Shirley and Loftus were very generous in their treatment, and the date and other arrangements were soon completed. The names of those to act as conductors and chaperones will be announced later. Suffice it to say that the scheme will be a huge success. Already several trolley parties are being arranged for Thursday evening. It might be added for those afraid of impeding their lives that Secretary Shirley will have control at the power house. The ladies will report at the street car barns in the morning. After that, the fun.

THREE SCORCHERS

On South Jacob Street--Arrests Ticked the Eighth Warders.

As stated in the Intelligencer a few days ago, residents of South Jacob street were threatening summary vengeance upon the "scorchers," who imperil the lives of pedestrians nightly upon that thoroughfare. This is particularly true of the Eighth Ward, whence came the resolution introduced in council by Mr. Hahne to tax bicycles.

From the same ballistics last night three festive "scorchers" were transferred to the police station, where they registered thus: Bert Robertson, Wm. Heisel and Charles Mohler. The arrests were made by Officers Shields and Dudley, and the patrol wagon was also used as the conveyance for the wheels. These arrests are supposed to be forerunners of more, for patience has ceased to be a virtue with the Eighth Warders, and they promise to keep their eyes open for the next unlucky man.

"JULY 18, 1896, our store, four dwelling houses and three barns were washed away by a flood. Soon after the community was visited by an epidemic of bloody flux. In a short time we sold ten dozen of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy and in every case where it was used the results were all that could be desired; in fact our physicians admitted that it would do more toward bringing about cure of flux than they could do."--JULIUS & KNISLEY, Auburn, W. BETTER DAYS A' COMIN'.

Wheeling's Second Baseman Sure to Arrive To-day--Tom Delehanty to be Signed for Third--The Sunday Game at Parkersburg.

Late last night a telegram was received by Manager Herrington from Second-baseman Daly, of Philadelphia, stating that he was about to leave for Wheeling over the Pennsylvania and would arrive in Wheeling this morning. This means that the gap at second will be filled in this afternoon's closing game with Toledo.

Last night a telegram was received from President Coyle, of the Wheeling club, instructing Manager Herrington not to pay Outfielder "Pop" Lytle any advance money. It seems that the player is claimed by the Detroit club, of the Western League, whose terms he is alleged to have accepted. The matter is to be looked into by President Young, of the board of arbitration.

Wheeling has accepted the terms of Third-baseman "Tom" Delehanty, just released by the Kansas City team, of the Western League. "Tom" is a brother of "Ed" Delehanty, who made his reputation as a member of the Wheeling Tri-state team of the season of 1888, and was sold to Philadelphia for $1,200. "Tom" is a quick infielder and hard hitter and should lead the league in this position. Two or three Eastern league clubs were after Delehanty, but he has accepted Wheeling's terms.

Wheeling will go to Parkersburg on Sunday and play an exhibition game with the Parkersburg team of the Ohio-West Virginia league. An excursion rate of $1 for the round trip has been conceded by the Ohio River railroad, and tickets are now on sale at the Windsor, McClure, Horkheimer's and other places. Unless a special train is secured the trip will be made on the regular 6:30 a. m. train.

THE LATE MR. CAMPBELL

Tribute to Her Memory and Her Husband, Alexander Campbell.

Denver, Colo., News: This morning's dispatches announce the death yesterday at her home in Bethany, W. Va., of the venerable widow of the late Alexander Campbell, at the great age of 95 years. Her illustrious husband preceded her to the great hereafter as far back as 1866, having died on the fourth of March of that year at the age of 78. He and his father, Thomas Campbell, were the founders of the so-called Christian church, sometimes spoke of as the Disciples of Christ. Mr. Campbell was identified with this work of her husband from the date of its origin, seventy-five years ago, and was probably the last survivor of the original church at Bethany, W. Va. She lived to see that little band of followers grow to 750,000 people and to become the fourth Protestant denomination in the United States. Two years ago the New York Independent spoke of the growth of this religious body as something phenomenal in denominational history. From 1870 to 1890 it surpassed all precedent. The secret of its growth was not explained. Its own people explain it as the result of simplicity of its tenets and as evidence of the desire of the common people who have returned to the Master gladly to return to the simplicity of His teachings; and of those whom he commissioned to preach His gospel after His death.

The contention of Alexander Campbell was that all creeds were not only unscriptural but were within the anathema pronounced by direct inspiration against those who should promise to add to what had been written in the Word. Therefore he and his followers admit no test of membership in the Christian body save a simple confession of belief in Christ as the son of God and submission to His injunction an example of immersion. More than this, they affirm, cometh of evil and led to all the sectarianism of the Christian world. As fast as the people hear this plea for the faith, "once delivered to the saints," they embrace it because they understand it and have no theoretical embarrassments in regard to their duty. Hence, say these Christian church people, their growth has been phenomenally rapid. It has, according to them, no other explanation. They have no creed save the simple practice of the Apostles. They meet together on the first day of the week and celebrate the Lord's supper and listen to the remarks of their ministers in connection therewith, which they contend was the practice of the primitive church in the days when the world had no half-split theology.

Alexander Campbell, the husband of her whose death we announce this morning, was, as all the world now admits, one of the great and remarkable men of this age. Like Martin Luther and John Wesley, he began an agitation and reformation that bore great fruit in his own day and that has been followed by astonishing results since his death.

"I WAS troubled with that dreadful disease called dropsy, swollen from head to foot. Burdock Blood Bitters has completely cured me. It is a most wonderful medicine." Joseph Herick, Linwood, Ont.

THE DOUBLE SEASON.

A special meeting of the Inter-state base ball league was held at New Castle last night for the purpose of considering the double season proposition. The meeting was called to order at 10 p. m. by President Power, and the clubs were represented as follows: Wheeling, W. J. Coyle; New Castle, G. W. Lamoree; Dayton, Henry Youngman and W. A. Armer; Youngstown, A. A. Anderson; Springfield, Edward Hurd and George Wood; Port Wayne, George A. McCurdy. Toledo was not represented and Mansfield sent in a vote by mail. The Intelligencer's correspondent wired at midnight that the magnates were still in session and that he had just learned that the double season had been voted down. In the face of the approval given the proposition by six of the eight magnates, it is difficult to believe that the correspondent was correctly informed.

This is a Side-Splitting.

Yesterday the Intelligencer commented on the silly outbreak of the Dayton News, which is imbued with the mistaken idea that the double season means that Wheeling, Port Wayne, Springfield and Mansfield shall be given a start of twenty-five games. The deluded News--victim of the Mansfield News' joke--now prints the following: "The Wheeling Intelligencer is trying to 'bull' the idea of a double series of games through at any cost. Everybody will admit that it would be a good thing for Wheeling, as the Wheeling club is next to the foot and has won 19 games and lost 34. Now as we understand it, Wheeling wants to start anew and also wants to be given twenty or twenty-five games to start with. Well, you can put us down as opposed to it from start to finish. We don't want anyone to give us any games; we want to win them if we land in sixth place. The new deal would do the game no good in this city and if it is tried the gate receipts will tell the story. 'What brand of 'dope,' please?"

Bring Out the Castoria.

Toledo Bee: It appears that Wheeling is in earnest about dividing up the season, for they have asked President Powers to take a vote on the proposition. It is to be hoped that the magnates will not prostitute the game by dividing a season that is still so young. Just what Mr. Strobel thinks of the plan is best expressed in his own words, published in the Wheeling Intelligencer of yesterday. He says: "If Wheeling can't hold out I am in favor of continuing with a six club league." That's "hot stuff." If they can't stand the pace let them go to the stable. There are plenty of other towns that would be tickled to death to get in the league. It might not be necessary to drop out two teams. Wheeling is the only weak sister in the outfit and never should have been in the league in the first place. Quitters and "knockers" like the Wheeling people are not entitled to consideration at all.

A Sensible View.

The Springfield Sun reprints the Intelligencer's proposition for the double season and commenting editorially says: The idea is certainly one which should command attention from every city in the league. The Springfield team, which has just employed a new manager is in a position to appreciate this more than any of the others. It has a "clinch" on the tail end for the first season, but possibly under a new management and a strengthened club, it might not be so sure. The Wheeling team seems to be in much the same condition as the local club and they realize as do the Springfield people that something will have to be done to create more enthusiasm and consequently more patronage. As all the clubs are as a matter of fact looking for the same end, and that is to prevent a dissolution of the league, no serious objections should be raised to a plan that means success. If the Springfield club don't get a little ginger in them pretty soon, the patronage will not amount to a corporal's guard. Any old thing to create an interest, so boost the Wheeling Intelligencer's scheme along.

Dayton Herald Favors It.

Dayton Herald: The proposition advanced by the Wheeling Intelligencer, that the base ball season be divided, seems to be meeting with much favor among the eastern clubs especially. The change would be made in order to benefit the clubs that are now standing low in the race, and would do no harm. It would also tend to revive interest in the cities where base ball stock is below par. The teams have now been playing together for some time and it is probable that under a new schedule the clubs would make the race more interesting than at the present time.

Yesterday's winners--Springfield, Toledo, Youngstown, Mansfield.

To-day's games--Toledo at Wheeling, Port Wayne at Mansfield, Dayton at Youngstown, Springfield at New Castle.

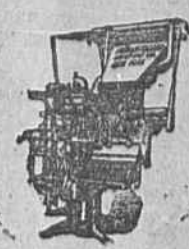

The Wheelings lost the second game of the Toledo series yesterday afternoon. Campbell was put into pitch and met with a warm reception. In the third inning three two-baggers were made in succession, when Coyle came in from right and pulled the Nallers out of a very desperate hole. Then the locals hit hard, batting and went one run to the good, but Coyle weakened through lack of practice and work, and the visitors were again in the lead and were not again headed. Coyle was relieved in the eighth by Hollowell, who was effective, but the change had been made too late. "Kid" Egan was in the box for the visitors, and baring one inning he pitched a steady and effective game. The Wheelings presented a very patched-up team again, so that it was not surprising that they met defeat. Score: WHEELING, AB. R. BI. PO. A. E. BUILDING ASSOCIATIONS GO UNDER

In Louisville on Account of a Recent Decision of the Courts.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., July 2--Within seventy-two hours four building and loan associations, whose estimated assets and liabilities foot up over a million and a quarter dollars, have gone to the wall in this city, finding it impossible to conduct business under the recent decision of the court of appeals in regard to the legal rate of interest. The Kentucky Citizens' Building and Loan Association went under this morning with assets and liabilities of $212,000 each. President Fred Hoertz said that before the constitutionality of the law under which building and loan associations operated in this state was attacked, they were prospering, but since the appellate court had decided that all interest charged or collected over 6 per cent constituted usury that they found it impossible to carry on business except at a loss. He said that he thought all or nearly every such corporation in the state that did business under the law referred to would go under.

At the offices of all the building and loan companies in the state the greatest uneasiness prevails and stockholders are hourly giving notice of withdrawals. It is the general opinion among local financiers that the building and loan business has suffered its death blow in Kentucky, and thousands, perhaps millions, of dollars will be lost to the shareholders in those institutions.

A Disgraced Collector.

SAN FRANCISCO, July 2--The plight of fugitive Internal Revenue Collector Welborn is far worse than the investigation officers of the federal government at first supposed. The inquiry that has brought disgrace upon the collector has opened a veritable mine of fraud. It is asserted that while he was buying champagne with checks he had no right to sign, he was telling saloonmen that they need not pay their license. It is not yet known how many saloonkeepers enjoyed Welborn's favor in this regard, but the investigation will be continued until the facts are discovered.
