Arbor Day-Nov. 17th.

Arbor Day-Nov. 17th.

To the Teachers of Abbeville County:—The Legislature by an Act approved Feb. 16, 1398, has directed "That the free public schools of this State shall observe the third Friday in November as Arbor Day, and on that day the school, officers and teachers shall conduct such exercises and engage in the planting of such shrubs, plants and trees as will impress on the minds of the pupils the proper value and appreciation to be placed on flowers, ornamental shrubbery, and shade trees."

Until the observance of this day in our schools has become an established custom, it may be overlooked unless specially brought to the attention of the teachers. I, therefore urge all the teachers of Abbeville county to celebrate the day in their schools as required by law.

County Supt. of Education.

Stockholders Meeting.

We ask attention to the annual meeting of the stockholders of the Seaboard Air Line Railroad which takes place in Atlanta, Ca., on Friday next, the 10th inst. The Seaboard has greatly expanded of late by the addition of several existing roads, and hundreds of hands are now building various missing links by which the whole system will be connected with the shortest and most direct routes from New York to various important centers in the South. The greatest activity prevails in all the departments preparatory to an immense business during the coming season.

Celery.

Celery is regarded as one of the choicest as well as one of the most delicate products of the garden, and wherever it is grown it is held in the highest esteem. When the taste for it has been acquired nothing that grows gives greater pleasures at the table.

Being held in high esteem, lovers of it strive to develope its highest production, and nothing pays better for the extra labor than celery. Nothing responds more readily to good treatment and nothing is more sensitive to neglect or improper culture. Among the most successful growers of this delightful salad is Mr. W. Joel Smith of this city. Specimens from his garden are equal to the beat samples from Kalamazoo, and for exquisite taste and flayor nothing surpasses the plant which he grows.

Efficient Teacher.

Miss Gertrude Moore, of this city has been unanimously elected to take charge of the Oak Grove School, near Donalds. Miss Moore is a graduate of the Abbeville Graded School, standing high in her classes, possessing the love and esteem of both teachers and pupils. With the assistance and encouragement of the patrons of the school she will give abundant satisfaction. She has both the ability and the education which qualify her for the high and responsible position which she has taken.

Gone Into Winter Quartdrs.

Mr. John Wesley Rykard, as honest a man as ever lived, and as sincere christian as you would wish to see, was in town a short time back, selling cows and a wagou load of turkeys. He sold everything that he shad with him, and says that his health is such that he will not come back to Abbeville to follow his business of watch repairing, until next Spring.

Death of Capt, Rook.

CAPTAIN W. J. ROOK of Greenwood died October 31, 1839, at his home aged 58 years. Captain Rook was a half-brother of Mrs. F. F. Gary. Hon. F. B. Gary, Senator Graydon and others, from Abbeville attended the funeral. Question.

Going to the Cotton Mill.

Families are still moving from the farms to the cotton mills. The renter, having a family, can scarcely exist on the farm. At the cotton mills he can make a good living, and have something to lay by. We have heard of several instances where the owners of land found it impossible to raise the mortgage off their land by farming. They moved to the cotton mills made enough money to pay off the mortgage, and then returned to their homes. Some of the people at Abbeville Cotton Mill own land.

Order—Good Business.

But I call it a humbug!"

Another thing which led me to make up my mind never to touch liquor was the damage which I saw wrought by it upon some of the finest minds with which it was ever my privilege to come into contact, and I concluded that what had resulted injuriously to life, and since you could not have a others might prove so to me. I have seen, even in my few years of professional life, some of the smartest, yea, brilliant, literary men dethroned from splendid positions owing to nothing else but their indulgence in wine. I have known men with salaries of thousands of dollars per year, occupying positions which hundreds would strive a lifetime to attain, come to beggary from drink. Only recently there applied to me, for any position I could offer him, one of the most brilliant editorial writers in the newspaper profession—a man who, two years ago, easily commanded one hundred dollars for a single editorial in his special field. The man became so unreliable from drink that the editors are now afraid of his articles, and, although he can to-day write as forcibly as at any time during his life, he sits in a cellar in one of our cities writing nespaper wrappers for one dollar per thousand.

Whatever that means, is urged by many of our esteemed brethren. We fail to see the wisdom of the policy, and we cannot see how "small industries" can succeed, except as individuals can have the money and the talent to manage them. If a "small industry"—a knitting mail, for instance—is owned by a stock company, the manager of it is likely to get a good salary. The stockholders will get nothing, and in the course of time it is too often the case that assessments are made on the stockholders, or else the institution is shut down.

Stepping to one side of the palace, his eye rested on the dark brown niche, small, but in such a striking contrast to the place that he asked the guide what it meant, and why that was not marble, also, and set around with precious stones.

Imagine the young man's surprise when he said, "The fault is yours. This is the Palace Beautiful, and this is your niche. You have been unhap-py because of your lowly station in position of prominence you have spent your time in discontent, while others have been improving their time. It rests upon you alone to make this palace perfect." The young man awoke, saw the lesson taught by his dream, and set to work to marbleize his brown niche.

A commentary on the Bible that even the world will pause to read is a life of obedience to its holy teachings. Nations, like individuals, are powerful in the degree that they command the sympathies of their neighbors. Nothing is sweeter than love, nothing stronger, nothing higher, nothing broader, nothing better either in heaven or earth: because love is born of God, and, rising above all created things, can find its rest in Him alone. When one "has the blues," to use a common expression, he is apt to have the double discomfort of feeling that he has lost his religion. There is no
