Her father said that she had asked him what the editor had on his head. In explanation he said his little daughter was not used to seeing silk hats. We were delighted to meet our friend and former pastor, the Rev. T. W. Sloan, who was on the train, going home in Greenville He had been to New York, and had been preaching in some of the fashionable churches of that city. Miss Ora Bigby went down to Kirksey on Saturday morning, to take charge of a Suggestions.

If the Associate Reformed Synod, which meets on the 15th instant, were to ask the editor of this paper for suggestions, he would propose that the Mexican mission be put in charge of the native Mexican preachers now in the pay of Nynod. Along the same line, hwould order the return of all of our preachers doctors, orphanages, medical colleges and school teachers, and give each of them work at home among our own people

He would require the Mexican missionaries to make report of their actings and doings including definite and specific statement as to the expenditure of our money. The people are entitled to that much. In case report should not be had he would stor the sending

He would urge the propriety of better salaries for preachers. He would cease to farm out of the Female

College, and, would take charge of it even as Synod now takes charge of Erskine. He would raise the salaries of the teachers in the colleges at Due West.

The same editor would suggest that practical effort be made to ascertain the cause, and a remedy for the slow growth of the church, and then he would suggest that Syuod make immediate preparation for applying the rem-

He would urge the better equipment and the endowment of the Due West Female Co!lege. He would change the name of that college for two reasons : First, it is a church institution and not a local school. Second there is no sex in school or college. As well say a female beef market or a female store. He would appoint a citizen of Due West treasurer of the endowment fund of Erskine

Finally, he would suggest that the most able bodied man in the Synod be armed with a base ball bat with instruction to hit any man on the head who proposed to offer suggestions to the Synod.

Apology.

The editor of the Press and Banner makes due and profound apology to the author of the nice piece which appeared last week in this paper in reference to Mr. Britt and his family. It was written by a friend who is familiar with the facts and which piece, from its lack of signature, it would seem that we had appropriated it as our care with the facts and which piece, from its lack of signature. It is due to say that the piece was writ. ten by a correspondent, and in junce to him should have been credited as a tribution to these columns.

The Laundry.

Neither Mr. Norwood nor the people are forgetting the necessity for a laundry at Abbeville.

Mr. Norwood best he establishment of a laundry in mind, and as soon as his deep lant is installed be will give attention to the laundry, or else invite others to go on with it.

A stock company or individuals will see that a laundry is established in case Mr. Norwood declines to go into the business in connection with his other enterprises.

The Edgefield Chronicle wants to write five hundred receipts for subscriptions before the 15th instant. The Press and Banner has no doubt of the ability of our brother to write a doubt doubt of the ability of our brother to write a anybody wanting to collect money from five hundred delinqueuts.

Also South is abruptly and squarely against a most serious condition on the labor question and we all know hat as a laborer the negro is becoming more worthless and unreliable.

Carnivals.

The Camden Chronicle seems to be opposed to street carnivals, and it would appear that its good old neighbor, The Wateree Messenger, is not enthusiastic in its admiration of the recent carnival shows in Camden.

Mr. I. W. Shelor, editor of the Keowee Couier at Walhalia is the superlative in several matters, namely: the best lawyer, the best editor, the richest editor, the luckiest man that ever lived on Easy Street. Several years ago, when the price of land was at its lowest, he bought many hills and valleys around Walhalla. The days of prosperity, high prices, and plenty of money have come. The increased value of lands has added a big pile to his already big bank account.

Clinkseales-Cason. A wedding that will long be remembered as one of the most beautiful home affairs was that of Miss Eleanor Blanch Clinkscales and Rev. John Franklyn Cason, which took place at the home of the brides' Mr. and Mrs. James F. Clinkscales, in Monterey, on the evening of Wednesday, October the thirty first.

The Clinkscales spacious home was indeed a bower of loveliness, showing the exquisite taste of Mrs Clinkscales on every side. The wide front and side porches were hong with southern smilax and numberless Japanese lanterns were festooned among the trailing vines.

In her arms she carried a snower conquet of oride's roses.

As the soft tones of delightful music was played the simple but impressive ceremony was performed by Rev. W. B. B. Cason, the father of the groom, assisted by Rev. H. P. Fennell of Lowndesville.

After the ceremony and hearty good wishes and congratulations the bridsi party was seated around the dining room, here they were served with a delightful two course supper.
