

WHICH is the big mileage tire of today? All over the country men are talking right now of the remarkable wearing quality of Fisk Tires. The reasons are obvious. Look over any Fisk tire and judge for yourself. You are bound to find extra size, strength and resiliency and with these, good looks and a tread that gives real protection.

There's a Fisk Tire of extra value in every size, for car, truck or speed wagon

AND THEY SLEPT "UPSTAIRS"

Childish Prank, Not So Enjoyable as Youngsters Imagined It Was Going to Be.

An Indianapolis woman is fond of telling a story about her girlhood days. There were several children in the family and they went to school with other children, perhaps a trifle better off as to this world's goods than they were. At any rate, the other children were always talking about their upstairs. And there was no upstairs to the cottage where the Indianapolis woman's family lived—it was only a cottage. But children-like, they had to be able to say with cool disdain when they went to school: "Why, upstairs where we sleep—"

So when mother went downtown one day these small children laboriously took their little bed apart and carried it up the narrow, steep dark stairs that led to the attic. Then they carried up the bedclothes; then their little chairs. They were indeed, going to sleep upstairs.

When mother came home she found out what had happened. She climbed the attic stairs, and there amid the dust and dirt and whatnots and cobwebs were the two beds.

So just to punish the children for their disobedience mother made them sleep up there a few nights in the hot weather, until they were glad they had no "upstairs."

TO CUT AUSTRALIAN ESTATES

Measure Almost Socialistic in Character Is Approved by Most of the Landholders.

Large Australian estates may have to be subdivided, according to the Sydney correspondent of a London paper.

The new South Wales government is reintroducing a large holding subdivision bill, compelling owners to subdivide for closer settlement any land exceeding $100,000 in value. If, for instance, the owner of land worth $250,000 refuses to subdivide it the government will compulsorily acquire $150,000 worth and make it available for closer settlement.

The intention is to pay immediate cash or current rates of interest to the owners. The measure, which is approved by most Australian individual landholders, but bitterly opposed by big land companies with headquarters in England, will have the effect of opening for cultivation large areas now utilized as sheep runs. Thus it will afford an opportunity for an increased agricultural population and scope for immigrants.

It is designed to mitigate the existing serious unrest arising out of the inability to provide Australian agriculturists with land. These people are being driven to the cities to swell the ranks of the unemployed, making dangerous centers of discontent.

A TONIC

Grove's Tasteless chill Tonic restores Energy and Vitality by Purifying and Enriching the Blood. When you feel its strengthening, invigorating effect, see how it brings color to the cheeks and how it improves the appetite, you will then appreciate its true tonic value. Grove's Tasteless chill Tonic is simply Iron and Quinine suspended in syrup. So pleasant even children like it. The blood needs QUININE to Purify it and IRON to Enrich it. Destroys Malarial germs and Grip germs by its Strengthening, Invigorating Effect. 60c.

BLAME LINCOLN FOR THE WAR.

Statement by U.C.V. Historical Commission Brings Quick Response.

Richmond, Va., June 21.—"The War Between the States was deliberately and personally conceived and its inauguration made by Abraham Lincoln, and he was personally responsible for forcing the war upon the South," is the statement contained in a report submitted by the historical committee to the United Confederate Veterans at their session here to-day. The report, which recommends that a history, written by Col. Huger W. Johnston, Curryville, Ga., and published by Miss Mildred Rutherford, of Athens, Ga., be used in the schools of the South, was unanimously adopted by the veterans.

Denounces as False.

Springfield, Ill., June 21.—Defending the memory of Abraham Lincoln from the charge made to-day by the United Confederate Veterans at Richmond, Va., that "he was personally responsible for forcing the war upon the South," Henry B. Rankin, 85 years of age, who studied law in Lincoln's law office and has written books about him, to-night declared the charge "a lie."

Lying upon a couch, from which he rarely moves, Mr. Rankin reached up for his "Personal Recollections of Lincoln," and commented as he turned its pages.

"No man that ever lived," Mr. Rankin said, "was more lied about as to his personal manners and purposes of life. He was most essentially a man of peace. He detested war. During the war he went with Seward and met the Confederate cabinet and challenged them to take a white sheet of paper and write whatever conditions of peace they desired except secession, but nothing came of it."

"Active war was started by the South, when the 'Star of the West,' a United States vessel carrying provisions to Fort Sumter, was fired on. Then, and only then, did Mr. Lincoln act. He called for 75,000 volunteers."

When the question, "Do you think it will damage Mr. Lincoln's memory?" was put to him he responded immediately, "No—because it is a lie."

WEAK, WEARY WOMEN.

When the back aches and throbs, When housework is torture, When night brings no rest nor sleep,

When urinary disorders set in, Women's lot is a weary one. Doan's Kidney Pills are for weak kidneys.

Have proved their worth in Walhalla.

This is one Walhalla woman's testimony.

Mrs. S. E. Powell says: "Kidney trouble came on me and my back ached a good deal. When I bent sharp pains shot through me and specks appeared before my eyes. Mornings I was as tired as when I went to bed and I was nervous. My kidneys didn't act properly. I began taking Doan's Kidney Pills and they quickly cured me of the trouble. I have great faith in this medicine."

Price 60c, at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—get Doan's Kidney Pills—the same that Mrs. Powell had. Foster-Milburn Co., Mfrs., Buffalo, N. Y.

Whole Family Wiped Out in Wreck.

Macon, Ga., June 21.—The bodies of six persons killed here yesterday when a passenger train struck an automobile, will be buried here to-day, it has been announced. No close relatives of the dead persons have been found, but Central of Georgia railroad officials claim to have established the identity as follows:

J. P. Taylor and wife, Nicholasville, Ky.

Their daughter, Mrs. Howard Cox, and year-old child.

Lee Taylor, said to be an adopted son of the Taylors, and Marcum Taylor, a grandson.

The family was traced from Nicholasville, Ky., to Fort Lauderdale, Fla., from which place they recently moved to Quitman, Ga., and this week started to return to their old Kentucky home.

A coroner's jury investigating the accident found the train crew blameless.

BOXING MATCH AT ANDERSON

On Fourth of July—Fearless Ferns, Atlanta, and Jack Karr, Detroit.

The boxing match between Fearless Ferns, of Atlanta, and Jackie Karr, of Detroit, two of the best known fighters in the South and the Central West, will easily be the big feature of Anderson's Fourth of July celebration, to be held at Cater Park this year. The Anderson Athletic association, co-operating with Mr. Cater, have signed up Ferns and Karr, while arrangements have been made for two ball games, one in the forenoon at 10 o'clock, and another in the afternoon at 4 o'clock. A barbecue at noon and some "greased pole" and kindred stunts, with fireworks at night, will combine to make the whole day's festivities by far the biggest thing ever seen in Upper South Carolina.

Extra seating arrangements are being made at the park to take care of a throng of 3,000 or more people expected to come here from adjoining counties in South Carolina and Georgia to witness and participate in the observance of the Fourth.

Ferns and Karr, by their records made elsewhere over the country, are thoroughly capable of taking care of the major feature of the program. Both are ex-service men and Ferns served throughout the Argentine movement in 1918. They have never met, and fight promoters and fans over a large territory are anxiously awaiting the outcome of their big 12-round bout here on the 4th. Both are fighters of several years' experience.

The ring in which these two stars will battle will be placed over the home plate of the ball diamond at Cater Park in full view of the grand stand and bleachers. One or two preliminary bouts of smaller fry are being arranged, and the fan who passes the gate at Cater Park on the Fourth is going to witness some of the best boxing ever staged in the South.

Karr made a great record after the armistice fighting abroad, and then came home to take up the ring game in his own home again. He has fought some of the brightest stars in the ring of his size (welterweight), and has won 18 out of 24 battles. Ferns' last fight was at Juarez, Mexico, in March, when he knocked out Battling Kid Brown in a fierce bout of 15 rounds, in the presence of a mighty throng of Mexicans and Americans.

Arrangements will be ample for any throng. Come along and see two of the cleverest men in the ring to-day.

Twelve Hundred Lepers at Large.

A dispatch from Washington says: A recent survey by the United States public health service showed that there were 1,200 lepers at large in 25 States. Dr. C. H. Lavinder, assistant surgeon general, announced in a statement made to-day. There is only one means of preventing further increase in the number of cases, Dr. Lavinder said, and that is by providing isolation facilities large enough to take care of the present cases.

The only leprosarium maintained by the Federal government, located at Carville, La., is limited to 200 patients, and is now filled to capacity. Dr. Lavinder said, and the impracticability of States or cities having their own institutions of the kind results in hundreds of lepers being at large in the country with the risk of communicating the disease to others with whom they come in daily contact.

Death of Pendleton Lady.

(Anderson Tribune, 23d.)

Mrs. W. B. Aull, Sr., of Pendleton, died very unexpectedly yesterday at noon. Mrs. Aull was a popular woman, who had made a host of friends by her splendid and unselfish character, and her death will be a source of general sorrow.

Mrs. Aull had been in ill health for some time, but it was not known the end was near. Recently she had some dental work done, for which she had to take novocaine, and this lowered her vitality. She had several children, and besides her husband leaves Mrs. Leitner, of Marion; Mrs. Campbell, of Florida; Miss Louise Aull, daughters, and four sons, who live here. The family moved to Pendleton from Newberry county a number of years ago, and are prominently connected throughout the State.

SHOULD BE LITERARY SHRIMP

Room in London Where Rudyard Kipling, Thirty Years Ago, Wrote "The Light That Failed."

Thirty years make few changes in a London street, and Villiers street running down to the Thames past the smoke-smudged walls of Charing Cross railway station is much the same as when Rudyard Kipling lived in Number 19, the Embankment chambers, and struggled for recognition from the London editors, says Arthur Bartlett Maurice in "Literary Pilgrimages" in The New York Herald.

The third-floor rooms in the Embankment chambers where Kipling worked in his early twenties are the scene of nearly all the stories with a London background that he has written.

"For example, 'The Light That Failed.' The rooms shared by Torpenhow and Dick Helder were Kipling's own rooms. From the doorway of No. 19 poor Dick, stricken with blindness, groped down to the water's edge for the sense of the Thames' damp and the feel of the ships that waited to his nostrils the pungent smells of the East. Lying across that doorway, Torpenhow first found Bessie Broke, the little street girl from 'south 'o the river,' who fell in love with him, and revenged herself on Dick for his interference by scrapping away the face of the Melancholia. On a table of the Kipling rooms in the Embankment chambers, Charlie Mears, of 'The Finest Story in the World,' scrawled the words, meaningless to him, that told of the agony of the galley slave. The very table once had been. Kipling had been burning the midnight oil and generally overworking himself. On the table he had graven the words: 'Oft was I weary when I toiled at thee—the motto which the galley slave carved upon his oar.'

HAS GRUDGE AGAINST RADIO

One Person at Least Who Cannot See Anything in the Latest Popular Amusement.

"I'm through with Greenwich Village for good," the out-of-towner told her city cousin. "It was false to me in my hour of need. Furthermore, I'm haunted by wireless."

"You don't say so?"

"At home I led a terribly conventional life. It was boring, but I managed to endure it. My brother is a rather clever talker, you know, and we were the best of pals—until he took up wireless telephony."

"So that's why you came to town so suddenly?"

"It is! My life was just one continuous discussion of radiophones, PDQ stations, antennae and wot not! But the thing I hated most was my brother's enchantment with the nightly radio concerts. Every time we settled down for a chat and he promised to reform from his wireless craze, he'd get word that there was a concert in Newark and off he'd dash to his wireless telephone."—New York Times.

Under His Hat.

The Woman and the man from out of town were theater-bound, and at 8 o'clock both discovered that neither knew the street on which the particular theater was located.

"Let's go to a newsstand and get an evening paper," suggested the man.

"Let's ask a policeman," suggested the woman.

"Oh, that looks so out-of-townish," said the man, but as a big policeman hove into view the man went up to him to get the information.

"Lord love you," said the jovial policeman, "I can't keep all the theaters in my head any more than you can, but I do keep them in my hat." Then, winking amiably, he removed said hat, or cap, to be correct, and extracted a tiny guide book which revealed, after a turning of numerous pages, the desired address.—Exchange.

America's Oldest Bell.

In the court house at Barnstable, Mass., is an old bell, cracked and silent, which may be, and probably is, the oldest bell in the United States. So thinks Alfred Crocker of Barnstable county.

The date 1075 is still plainly visible in a photograph recently printed. By this date, however, the old bell had seen nearly a quarter of a century of life in England before it came to America and began calling worshippers together in the church at Sandwich Town.

Gratitude bought the bell in England, for it came as a gift from Mrs. Peter Adolph, whose husband, Captain Adolph, was lost in the wreck of his vessel on the Massachusetts coast in 1607 despite the efforts of the people of Sandwich.—Boston Transcript.

Travel Lore.

The Woman Who Sees had spring longings for a sea trip as she passed a department gay with travel literature.

A bright-looking boy was temporarily in charge. "Have you a booklet that outlines a trip including Jamaica?" the woman asked. He looked helplessly about and said, "Jamaica? Where's Jamaica, lady? The only one I know is Jamaica ginger."—Exchange.

Key Chain That Stretches.

There are times when the user of a key ring and chain wishes the chain were longer. With one such as this, those wishes will come true, for the chain is made of coiled piano wire and will stretch a considerable distance.—M. M. Hunting in Scientific American.
