The Case of Treasurer Allen.

- The Greenville Mountaineer gives the Treasurer James M. Allen, of Greenville county, for malfeasance in office:

The State was represented by Attorney-General Melton and Solicitor Blythe, and the prisoner by Governor B. F. Perry, Major D. T. Corbin and Mr. Dunbar. It was shown upon the trial that the county treasurer had collected on behalf of the State over fifty thousand dollars, and had paid over to the State treasurer a little over eighteen thousand dollars. For the deficit, he produced on the trial nearly forty thousand dollars' worth of pay certificates and other claims against the State, which he had purchased at a discount. Of these claims, about four thousand dollars' worth were allowed, and the remainder were disallowed, on the ground, first, that they were illegal, inasmuch as there had been no appropriation made for their payment; and, secondly, that many of them bore strong evidence of fraud upon their faces. Great liberality was allowed the prisoner on trial, the case was most ably argued, the judge delivered a clear and succinct charge, and the jury, after about ten minutes' absence, returned a verdict of "guilty." A poll was immediately called for by the defence, and resulted in the complete establishment of the verdict. The counsel for the prisoner asked that he be immediately Treasurer Cardozo and Attorney-General promises of reform made during the last campaign, and they are ably seconded by Judge Cooke. They have firmly withstood the immense pressure brought to bear upon them, and have acted courageously and conscientiously throughout the whole matter. The Case of Treasurer Allen.

- James M. Allen, the County Treasurer of Greenville, who was recently tried and convicted by the Circuit Court at Grenville, for malfeasance as an officer, and sentenced to two years' imprisonment in the penitentiary and to pay a fine of one thousand dollars, was brought before Chief Justice Moses, in Columbia, on a writ of habeas corpus, on Wednesday of last week. When Judge Cooke, before whom the case was tried, pronounced sentence upon Allen, notice was im-Court, and application made for bail until the decision of that tribunal should be rendered. Judge Cooke refused to allow Allen's release on bail, upon which the prisoner was brought before Chief Justice Moses, under the supposition that the power vested in him of revers-

"Chief Justice Moses said he had granted the writ because he always desired to give a liberal construction to the act, and whenever petitioned to grant this writ he always did it. He was sorry, however, he could not grant the petition of the prisoner, and order bail. His convictions of duty would not permit him. He had no jurisdiction in the case. If he could order the prisoner released on bail, Judge Cooke might immediately order him to be brought before him and remand him to the custody of the sheriff. He had no more power than the Circuit Judges. He cited a case in point that occurred in New York. The Supreme Court, however, could issue that writ, and as that would meet on the 10th of June, the prisoner would have but little time to wait. He would never permit ties of friendship to influence his judicial action. The law was plain, and he could see no other way. He was free to say if he had presided when the conviction was had, and the application for bail had been made, he would have granted it, but he could not review the actions of a Circuit Judge. Counsel for prisoner were mistaken when they attributed to him any higher power than that exercised by a Circuit Judge. The Supreme Court had that power, but he had not. The order for bail was refused.

Subsequently, after consideration and a conference with Chief Justice Moses, Judge Cooke granted the application for bail to Allen, the amount being fixed at $20,000. The order was made and sent to the Clerk of the Court at Greenville, with the sureties, for quality.

RAILROAD MEETING AT HICKORY.-In another column will be found the proceedings of the Railroad meeting held at Hickory Tavern last week. We were there, and we must say that we are heartily glad of it. We went there a stranger, and therefore knew but little of the real feeling existing in regard to this enterprise. We did not doubt its importance to the people of this section, but we looked upon it as one in its infancy, thought that this meeting was gotten up for effect, expected to hear a good deal of declamation, and see some show of zeal. But as soon as we saw the grave and intelligent looking men assembled as delegates, we were satisfied at once that this was no such meeting. If there American affoat for Great Britain.215,000 160,000 had been the least doubt on this point, however, it would have been completely dispelled as the meeting progressed, for throughout the whole of the proceedings there was the same quiet, earnest and determined manner, indicating that they had met to accomplish a great work. We heard not a word which was utby Judge Mackey was one of the most remarkable we have ever listened to; there was no attempt at rhetorical display; there was not the least sophistry in it, but it dealt in facts, honestly stated; was full of arguments, perfectly stated; while the manner was earnest. perfectly stated; while the manner was earnest, serious, and most interesting. Every one that heard it must have been satisfied that he was listening to a most gifted man who was fully satisfied that he was laboring in a good cause-and we are sure he must have convinced all who heard him that he was not mistaken.

The Narrow Gauge Railroad meeting held at this place last Wednesday, we are glad to learn, was a perfect success-in point of numbers, interest and harmony. RAILROADS PUBLIC HIGHWAYS. The Supreme Court of the United States has just delivered an important decision regarding the status of railroads as public highways. The case before the court was an appeal from the Supreme Court of Wisconsin, and involved the question whether a State had the right or not to levy taxes for the purpose of aiding in the construction of railroads. The opinion of the court was that railroads are public highways, no matter whether they are built and operated by the State or by private corporations. Being such then, the decision is that it is just as lawful to levy taxes for railroads as for any other public work, and that the collection of taxes for the purpose cannot be resisted by authority of the Constitution of the United States, which provides that private property shall not be taken for public use without just compensation. The importance of this decision reaches much further than the railroads and State of Wisconsin. As public highways the railroads are subject not only to State supervision, but to supervision and control, as far as public interests are involved, of the Federal Government. It is the application of the principle sentenced, which was accordingly done-the that we have contended for when urging Consentenced, which was accordingly delication sentenced being two years in the Penitentiary and a fine of one thousand dollars. The great issue of Governmental control over the railroads is looming up, and this decision of the Supreme Court will tend to infuse into it fresh vitality .- New York Herald.

PUBLIC MEETING.

A meeting of citizens was held at Coates' Tavern on Saturday, the 17th inst., to denounce and protest against the unjust proceedings of the County Commissioners in levying a tax on the county, for the Chester and Lenoir Railroad. The meeting was called to order by A. M. Black. D. T. Lesley was made Chairman and A. M. Black, Secretary.

A Committee of five was appointed, consisting of Dr. W. J. White, John Shillinglaw. W. J. Boyd, A. J. Walker and George Wylie to draw up resolutions for the meeting which, mediately given of an appeal to the Supreme after due consideration, reported the following: Resolved, That we oppose and denounce the action of the County Commissioners of York county in subscribing one hundred thousand dollars to the capital stock of the Chester and Lenoir Narrow Gauge Railroad, without first submitting the same to a vote of the people. and that we regard it as forming a dangerous ing Judge Cooke's action.
