HE TOUCHED HIM.—John Phœnix, the American humorist, being one night at a theatre, fancied he saw a friend some three seats in front of him. Turning to his next

"Would you be kind enough to touch that gentleman with your stick?" "Certainly," was the reply, and the thing was done. But when the individual thus no excuse handy, was not done without

BUSINESS AND DEATH.—A man falls from a scaffold. The reporter hastens to the spot and pushes his way to the man's side.

"My life voyage is nearly ended," whispered the dying man, as he held the reporter's hand. "My soul, like an unfinished craft, is being swept from its earthly mooring and coursed out into the great pathless. ing, and carried out into the great pathless ocean of eternity. Oh! how the unprepared spirit shrinks from embarking upon that silent, solemn sea! I have a wife and beautiful child, who will mourn my absence; and now that I see no future, nothing but the dark, impenetrable shadow of death, which will soon hide me from earthly eyes, the world looks more beautiful, and I long-

Oh! how I long to stay. Good-bye, good-farewell. Pre-pare for this—"
His head dropped. "Courage, courage," whispered the report-er, while tears as big as hickory nuts chased each other down his nose; "but business is business. Courage," he whispered; "how-how do you spell your name?"

A couple of medical students disinterred a subject one winter's night, and, having dressed it, placed it sitting upright on the seat of a covered wagon, and started home. Coming to a tavern, and seeing the bar-room lighted up, they left the wagon and went in for a drink. The hostler observing a man sitting in the wagon, attempted some conversation, but receiving no answer, he discovered how the affair stood, and instantly resolved to have a little fun of his own on this occasion. So taking the corpse into the stable, he seated himself in the wagor. The students soon returned and took their seats by the side of the supposed dead man, when one of them remarked tremulously to his companion: "He is warm, by heaven!" "So would you be warm," replied the corpse, "if you had been where I have been as long as I have."

LOVE OF HOME.—The affections which bind a man to the place of his birth are essential in his nature, and follow the same law as that which governs every innate feeling. They are implanted in his bosom along with life, and are modified by every circumstance which he encounters from the beginning to the end of his existence. The sentiment which in the breast of any man is an instinctive fondness for the spot in which he drew his early breath, becomes, by the progress of mankind, and the formation of society, a more enlarged feeling, and "The Lord will surely prosper all who aid into the noble passion of patriotism. MINGLING STOCK .- Stock, to be perfectly healthy, must have an opportunity of mingling with other living things of various kinds. The old idea of the healthy effect goats have upon stable horses, is only one phase of a great truth that it takes the emanations of all active life to perfect every subscribe $300, and have the Lord bring her or in conjunction with hogs and horses. The action of one upon the other is always beneficial; and the young, playful and socia-ble, always make friends with each other in such a way that much inconvenience may ase a buggy horse.

> How to KEEP ONIONS .- Many complain that onions do not keep. The trouble is in keeping them too warm. The onion is a bulb—a plant at rest—and the least warmth starts it into activity. It is much better that onions should remain frozen through the winter, provided they can thaw gradually, than to be put into a cellar or other warm place where their vegetative powers will be aroused. If put in large heaps, onions will be sure to spoil; but if spread in thin layers and converted with hay or straw, so that if frozen the thawing will be gradual, they will keep well through the winter. It is the custom with onion growers to get their crop to market as soon as possible. they were to provide proper storage they would realize much more from them when sent to market later in the season.

LEGS AND FEET OF HORSES.—The feet was done. But when the individual thus assaulted turned round, Phœnix saw he was not the man he took him for, and became at once absorbed in the play, leaving his friend with the stick to settle matters with the genteman in front, which, as he had in from severe protracted service should be rubbed down dry. His legs, from his knees and hocks down, should be well hand-rubsaid:

Didn't you tell me to tap that man with bed, so that the friction will create insensible perspiration; that will tend to prevent swelled legs, stiff joints and sprung knees. When the legsare revered from over-driving they should be bandaged with wet cloths to "Oh," said Phœnix, with imperturbable take away the heat and prevent wind galls gravity, "I wanted to see whether you diminishing his gravity, without would be would not." that prove eyesores, and which, without diminishing his capacity for labor, materially affect the market value of the horse.

> THE ORIGIN OF WHEAT.-Wheat ranks by origin as a degenerate and degraded lily. The pedigree of wheat is traced from the time when its ancestors first diverged from the common stock of the lilies and the water plantations to the time when the savage man found it growing wild upon the untitled plains of prehistoric Asia and took it under his special protection in his little gar-den plats around his wattled hut, whence it was gradually altered under his constant selection into the golden grain that now covers half the lowland tilth of Europe and America. There is no page in botanical history more full of genuine romance than this; and there is no page in which evidence is clearer or more convincing for those who will take the easy trouble to read it aright.

PROTECTING FRUIT TREES .- Take of pine tar one part, ashes or soot three parts, pulverized clay three parts, and soft soap two parts, with water sufficient to give the mix-send her son to Eaton, and afterward to Camture the proper consistency, and apply to the body of the tree as high as a rabbit can reach. The scent will remain on the tree through the winter. The rains wash the strength of the solution down, by degrees, around the collar of the tree and keep out the borers. No fear of injuring the tree. A gallon of tar will make enough of the wash for a thousand trees, from two to three inches in diameter, and is said to be a complete protection from rabbits and mice, as well as the borers.

REMOVING STAINS .- A mixture which is excellent in removing grease spots and stains from carpets and clothing, is made of two ounces of ammonia, two ounces of white castile soap, one ounce of glycerine, one ounce of ether, cut the soap fine, dissolve in one pint of water over the fire; add two quarts of water. Mix thoroughly and wash soiled garments in it. For removing spots, use a sponge or clean flannel cloth, and with a cloth, rub as dry as possible. Wool-len goods may be made to look bright and fresh by being sponged with this.

It is a part of this American land; and yet, by the power of their government, American citizens are rigorously excluded from it.
By treaties made with some foreign "nations," known as tribes of wandering barbarians, it has been consecrated to their excluoccupies one corner; the Choctaw "nation," "nation" of a like number, a central section; and the Chickasaw "nation," of 6,000 individuals, a section south of that. Besides these the territory contains the following "nations:" The Comanche, 2,800 persons; Pawnee, 1,200; the Pottawatomie, the Otoe, the Seneca, the Ponca, the Sauk, the Nez Perce, the Shawnee, the Modoc, the Ottawa, the Quapaw, the Kaw, and three or four others, numbering from 300 down to no more than fifty persons each. The aggregate population of all these "nations" is somewhat over seventy thousand persons, and, as the area of the territory is over 70,000 square miles, it will be seen that the average density of population is one person to every square mile, or 640 acres of the best land in America to every male, female, adult and infantile Cherokee, Choctaw, Chickasaw, Comanche, Quapaw, etc.—Chicago Times.

BRIGHAM YOUNG'S PROGENY.-Speaking of the Young family—what a part it has played in Utah history! You encounter the descendants of old Brigham everywhere. As he left fifty-four living children out of a progeny numbering seventy-two souls, it is not to be wondered that they turn up everywhere. Some of the sons who are in business here, be it said, are exemplary and most agreeable men; while among the daughters are numbered some ladies who are unexcelled in graces of heart and mind.

But alas! there has been a sadly large number of male scamps and female sirens in the list. The daughters may be found among the demi monde of this city, San Francisco and New Orleans. At least two sons are already in drunkard's graves. Scandal, contention and wantonness have added poison to the family cup. Here is Mormon-ism's own answer to Mormonism! Even Amelia, the favorite, the beloved sevenher liege lord but four short months after his taking off, and then became the "life partner" of another. And there are wives living here who bitterly tell now of the days when Amelia rode about behind Brigham's best span while they, more faithful wives, took in washing to earn a subsistence. Two of the daughters were married on the same night to a leading Mormon, and are now living together in his harem on one of the principal streets here.—Salt Lake City Cor. of the St. Paul Pioneer Press.

trials; but the perpetual recurrence of petty evils and trials is the ordinary and ap-pointed exercise of the Christian graces. To bear with the failings of those about uswith their infirmities, their bad judgment, their ill breeding, their preverse tempers; to endure neglect when we feel we deserve attention; and ingratitude where we expected thanks; to bear with the company of disagreeable people whom Providence has placed in our way and whom he has provided on purpose for the trial of our virtue, these are the best exercises of patience and self denial, and the better because not chosen by ourselves. To bear with vexation in busi-If ness, with interruptions of our retirement, with folly, intrusion, disturbance,-in short, with whatever opposes our will or contra-dicts our humor—this habitual acquiescence appears to be more of the essence of self-denial than any little rigors or afflictions of our own imposing. The constant, inevitable, but inferior evils properly improved, furnish a good moral discipline, and might, in the days of ignorance, have superceded ilgrimage and penance.—Hannah More.

SALUTARY USE OF WATER.—As regards the free use of water, under some conditions of the digestive organs, it may be said that no agent can prove safer or more salutary. Those who have morbid conditions of the stomach and bowels, which do not so far impair the general vigor as to prevent attention being given to the ordinary duties of life, can often use large drafts of water, especially in the morning, with manifest advantage. Obstinate constipation is thereby emoved, the normal peristaltic motions of the bowels are restored, and the secretions may be vastly improved. We notice the salutary influence of water-drinking upon many of those who resort to the so-called mineral springs which abound in the country. It is not necessary that these springs should hold abnormal quantities of salts of any kind to effect cures; it is only necessary that the water should be pure. Spring waters that are charged heavily with saline ingredients, like some of those at Saratogu are positively injurious to nearly or quite all who use them freely.—Popular Science

THE AUTHOR OF THE "ELEGY."-Gray, like the majority of eminent men, owed much to his mother beyond the accident of his birth. She was compelled to separate from her husband on account of his ungovlife-long devotion and affection, remaining unmarried for her sake, and leaving nothing undone that could contribute to her comfort and happiness. She was buried in Stoke Pogis churchyard, the scene of the "Elegy," and he sleeps by her side in the lovely spot that is now one of the shrines of literature.

That lightning killed his soil is the belief of a farmer in Newton, III. He writes: "This summer, when my corn was two feet high, the lightning struck it, killing a patch about 100 square feet in extent. It seemed to have killed the ground, as neither weed nor spear of grass has grown on it since. The ground looks dead, and I believe it is. Occasionally these spots are met with all over the prairies. The people account for them as buffalo tramps, where buffaloes congregated in fly time and tramp ed until they killed the soil, but from the above occurrence I account for them as having been struck by lightning." An Austin small boy was recently discovered purloining some apples from the front of a grocery store. The proprietor gave chase but failed to overtake him, and was obliged to shake his fist and shout after him: "Never mind, my young kid, I'm going to see your mother about this."

"That's all right," yelled back the small boy. "You just go right along up there. Pa filled a man full of buckshot the other day for going to see my ma, and I reckon he's got another dose laid away for you.-Siftings.

You will NOT BE DISAPPOINTED in this, though you may have been always heretofore. COMPTROLLER-GENERAL'S OFFICE, ATLANTA, GA., July 9, 1883.

Dr. P. R. Holt, Eufaula, Ala.: Dear Sir: I am pleased to report that I have been entirely cured of indigestion by the use of your Dyspeptic Elixir. I was induced by a friend to try it after having tried almost every remedy known for my disease, without the slightest effect. I took only three small bottles of your remedy before I was entirely well. I suffered several years, and although it has been three years since I used your preparation: I have had no return of it. Yours truly,

W. A. WRIGHT, Comp. Gen., State of Ga.

Many as good evidences can be shown. If you will see them, ask for Dr. Holt's Dyspepsia Elixir.

Swift's Specific has cured me of Scrofula, which is hereditary in my family. I have suffered with it for many years, and have tried a great many physicians and all sorts of treatment, but to no purpose; and when I began to take Swift's Specific I was in a horrible condition; but thanks to this great remedy, I am rid of the disease. There is no doubt that it is the greatest medicine in existence, and I hope to the state of the disease.

any who doubt will write to me.
E. C. HAWES, JB., Clarksville, Ga. After suffering twenty-five years with a painful Dry Tetter, and trying many physicians, I was at last relieved by the use of Swift's Specific, and I cheerfully commend it to all similarly afflicted.

OLD NEWSPAPERS,

WOMAN HER BEST PRIEND!

DR. J. BRADFIELD'S FEMALE REGULATOR

This famous remedy most happily meets the de mand of the age for woman's peculiar and multiform afflictions. It is a remedy for WOMAN ONLY, and for ONE SPECIAL CLASS of her diseases. It is a specific for certain diseased conditions of the womb, and proposes to so control the Menstrual Function as to regulate all the derangements and irregularities of Woman's MONTHLY SICKNESS. and to doubt the fact that this medicine does positively possess such controlling and regulating powers is simply to discredit the voluntary testimony of thousands of living witnesses who are to-day exalting in their restoration to sound health and happiness. BRADFIELD'S FEMALE REGULATOR is strictly a vegetable compound, and is the product of medical science and practical experience directed towards the benefit of SUFFERING WOMAN!

It is the studied prescription of a learned physician whose specialty was WCMAN, and whose fame became enviable and boundless because of his wonderful success in the treatment and cure of female com plaints. THE REGULATOR is the GRANDEST REMEDY known, and richly deserves its name: WOMAN'S BEST FRIEND. Because it controls a class of functions the various derangements of which cause more ill health than all other causes combined, and thus rescues her from a long train of afflictions which sorely embitter her life, and prematurely end her existence.

WOMAN! take to your confidence this PRECIOUS BOON OF HEALTH! It will relieve you of nearly all the complaints pecu-liar to your sex! Rely upon it as your safeguard for health, happiness and long life: Price-Small size, 75 cents; Large size, $1.50. Sold by all Druggists. Prepared only by

Oh! what a multitude of living witnesses can testify to its charming effects.
