

L. M. GRIST & SONS, Publishers.

A Family Newspaper : for the Promotion of the Political, Social, Agricultural, and Commencial Interests of the People.

JANUARY COTTON CORNER.

On New York Cotton Exchange.

Excited short interests made a lively

the opening of the market, reached

January cotton closed on Saturday mands for delivery this month, and many such notices were sent out. Be-ply of the staple in the New York mar-bales. Some inkling of the conditions had spread abroad earlier in the month and there had been a rush of cotton toward this port, so that those who had sold what they hadn't got, could have cotton to deliver: but as it seemed un-

It was said freely on the exchange

that those whose interest it was to do comparatively new, that of Fernie,

Wilson & Co., appeared as a seller and

The house, which has New Orleans and

New York Sun.

NO. 10.

YORKVILLE, S. C., SATURDAY, FEBRUARY 2, 1901.

ESTABLISHED 1855.

BY HAROLD MACGRATH.

Copyright, 1900, by Harold McGrath.

that it was my desire to bring to the CHAPTER V. Hillars went to the sideboard and dinner a person who though without rank was a gentleman, one who would emptied half a glass of brandy. Coming back to his chair, he remained in a grace any gathering, kingly or otherwise. My word was sufficient. I knew reverie for a short time. Then he rebefore I asked you that you would sumed his narrative: come. Twenty-four hours from now The princess looked up into my face we-that is, you and I-will be on the and smiled.

"Yes; thence to France. Ah. I could way to the French frontier. I shall be go alone. But listen, monsieur. Above ever in your debt."

Silence fell upon us. I knew that I all things there must be a scandal. A princess elopes with an American ad- loved her with a love that was burning venturer. The prince will withdraw me up, consuming me. And the advenhis suit. The king may or may not for- ture was all so unheard of for these give me, but I will risk it. He is still prosaic times! And so full of the somewhat fond of me notwithstanding charm of mystery was she that 1 had the worry I have caused him. This not been a man not to have fallen a way is the only method by which I victim. What possibilities suggested may convince him how detestable this themselves to me as on we rode! Once engagement is to me. Yet my freedom across the frontier I should be free to is more to me than my principality. confess my love for her. A princess? Let the king bestow it upon whom he What of that? She would be only a will. I shall become a teacher of lan- woman-the woman I loved. I tremguages or something of that sort. I bled. Something might happen so that shall be free and happy. Oh, you will she would have to turn to me. If the have a merry tale to tell, a merry ad- king refused to forgive her, she was venture. You will return to your coun- mine! Ab. that plain carriage held a try. You will be the envy of your com- wonderful dream that night. At length -too shortly for me-the vehicle drew patriots. You will recount at your clubs a story such as men read, but up in front of my hotel. As I was never hear told." She was growing a about to alight her hand stretched toward me. But instead of kissing it l bit hysterical. As she looked at me she pressed my lips on her round white saw that my face was grave. arm. As though my lips burned, she "Is there no other way?" I asked. drew back.

"Can it not be accomplished without "Have a care, monsieur; have a scandal?" care," she said icily. "Such a kiss has "No. There must be scandal. Otherwise I should be brought back and for- to be won." 1 stammered an apology and stepped given, and no one would know. In a certain sense I am valuable. The Ho- out. Then I heard a low laugh. "Good henphalians love me. I am something night, Mr. Hillars. You are a brave of an idol to them. The king apprecigentleman!"

The door closed, and the vehicle sped ates my rule. It gives him a knowledge that there will be no internal away into the darkness. I stood looking after it, bewildered. Her last troubles in Hohenphalia so long as words were spoken in pure English. matters stand as they now do. Still. With the following evening came the there are limits to the king's patience, dinner, and I as a guest-a nervous.

and I am about to try them severely. But monsieur hesitates. He will withdraw his promise."

"No, your highness," said 1. "I have given my word. As for the scandal, it that I wore a medal such as his chanis not for myself that I care. It will be cellor gives to men who sometimes do a jolly adventure for me, and then I shall have such a clever story to tell inquired how I had obtained it. It was Scraps of Local History. said the count. I followed him out of the garden. My indifference to personal safety was due to a numbness which had taken hold of me.

the carriage. I did so, and he got in after me. The driver appeared confused. It was not his fare, according to the agreement. "To the city," he was briefly told. "Your hotel?" turning to me. I named it. "Do you understand German?" "But indifferently," I answered list-lessly. "It appears that you understand nelther the language nor the people. Who are you?" "That is my concern," I retorted.

was coming about and not unnaturally became vicious.

"It concerns me also," was the gruff eply. "Have your own way about it." "How came. you by that medal?" pointing to my breast.

"Honestly." said I. "Honestly or dishonestly, it is all the same." He made a move to detach it, and I caught his hand.

"Please don't do that. I am extremely irritable, and I might throw you out of the window. I can get back to my hotel without guidance."

"I am going to see you to your lodgings," asserted the count, rubbing his wrist, for I had put some power into my grasp.

"Still I might take it into my head to throw you out." "You'd better not try." "Are you afraid?"

"Yes. There would be a scandal. of a miserable adventurer, but it might possibly reflect upon the virtue of her highness the Princess Hildegarde." "What do you want?" I growled. "I want to see if your passports are proper, so that you will have no difficulty in passing over the frontier." "Perhaps it would be just as well to wake the American minister." I suggested. "Not at all. If you were found dead, there might be a possibility of that. But I should explain to him, and he would understand that it was a case without diplomatic precedent."

"Well?" "You are to leave this country at well knew that a gauchere or rudeness, once, sir-that is, if you place any valself conscious guest who started at evue upon your life." "Oh, then it is really serious?"

his country service, he spoke to me and never enter this country again. If you following quaint distich: do, I will not give s pfennig for your life." an affair similar to the Balkistan, only

He found my passports in good of

"Ach, a scribbler, too!" coming across

"Quite right, Herr "Searral," said I.

REMINISCENCES OF YORK.

served by a Septuagenarian.

Dr. Maurice Moore in The Enquirer of 1870. THE TURKEY CREEK NEIGHBORHOOD

the district, a large number of Negroes. the boots for the morrow's wear. As it Being high livers and poor managers, was customary, although the ladies they soon scattered among their thrif- were present, the beaux without hesity up-country neighbors, a number of tancy, submitted to the pulling of their rule with them, to sell one or two Ne- tute offered, until Nat's turn came. groes each year, to bring in a revenue He declined. "His boots were not much for next year's expenses. muddled;" "were very hard to get off,"

"this boy can pull any boot I ever ilies were a valuable accession to York district. They were people of high tone saw-let him take them off for you." of character, warm hearts, genial hos- "No. I thank you," returned Nat urpitality and courtly manners. This banely, "I am sure he could not suc- till they stretched all the way to the parent that a small pool or clique had mingling with the earlier settlers, had ceed with these. I have always to use house. He turned the oxen loose when acquired the greater part of the Janu-

and means. I distinctly remember old in Caesar's efficiency was aroused, and cart came creaking up to his home, for holding at the same time a quantity of Captain Joseph Palmer, the very em- he insisted on his being allowed to try. the sun had drawed up the cow-tugs actual cotton, and when the total supbodiment of an old-school gentleman, Nat was in for it and the stout Negro to the right length again.

always wearing the beautifully plaited laid hold. Nat was a small man; but At the period of which I speak, there ket was believed to be only about 75,000 ruffied shirt, well blacked top boots, just then, a very determined one. He was but one glazed house in the disand riding a fine horse; with a bow of held a stubborn foot and rigid toes, but trict, outside of Yorkville. That was grace and elegant dignity, old Sir the burly strength of the black was too built by old Colonel Bratton. It boast-Charles Grandison could not have sur- much for him; his foot gave way, the ed two or three windows, filled by one Not that I would care about the death passed. During the war he was, part boot slipped off, and there, in full view sash, each, composed of four panes, of the time, commissary for Colonel of the ladies and all, lay the gist of not more than about 6x8 inches in size. Edward Lacy's regiment of mounted the matter. Poor Nat boasted no foot I am under the impression that the infantry. After peace was restored, he to his stocking-a leg and a heel was all building is still standing at Brattonsheld for many years the office of magistrate. He was a surveyor by pro- use the oft-repeated pun, "each toe times were very happy ones. The very spoke its perfect health, for they were fession, and one of the most accomplished of his kind. His plats were all able to be out."

At weddings, quiltings, or parties of aged sociability and hospitality. models for their accuracy of measurement and neatness of execution. He any kind, where there were enough aswas universally looked up to and re- sembled together, the young people spected. Even a stranger was bound to would always have a dance. No one winter, there would be slaughtered al-cents the representative of a house feel the power of his finished manner ever made any religious objection, and ternately a pig, beef and sheep, to furand courtly address. It was really an I've seen an elder, of pure plety as any nish meat. Boned turkey, eggs lacram, advantage to the youth of his vicinity man who ever lived, lead off the reel. etc., were unknown efforts; and a sold all the way from that figure up to enjoy the opportunity of imitating Our minister used to look on and say roasted fowl, baked pig, or big chicken such accomplishments. These, too, he much preferred it to the games pie were the chef d'oeuvre of our cuisometimes introduced to vary the sine. The low-country families of Turheld him a good deal in awe, for they entertainment. When pawns were key Creek usually had as daily diet.

would not pass, in his presence, uncorrected. Over the broad mantel-board unlucky individual in the game, a fre- remember an instance of a gentleman quent penalty in paying was-the of- of the Scotch-Irish stock marrying inin the hall of his house, during the fender being a young man-to kiss to one of those families. On his next no small way responsible for the inge-"Very. It is a matter of life and Christmas holidays, in plain letters, some designated girl through the trip afterward to market-Charlestondeath-to you. Moreover, you must easily deciphered, he would chalk the rounds of a chair, placed on his head he brought home, for his new wife's lively music, than to witness the romppoor auld Robin's died?

"Pray stand aside, sirs, 'tis every one's him. It is a far more pleasant sight barrel of sugar. His relatives looked highest price of yesterday's market, the sirs, to see and feel well as you, declared he felt himself insulted and the boldest half afraid to look behind his calling, the record of his name would leave. The ladies, who were them on the gloaming darkness. might have been one of merit and hon-Vehicles of all kinds were scarce. still in full toilet, came out and met or, instead of the mournful memoriam, him as he was starting, begged his par-Ladies, as well as gentlemen, usually "An unfaithful Shepherd." don, assured him it was but a jest of rode on horseback, and many a well-[TO BE CONTINUED NEXT SATURDAY.] the season, etc., etc. He could not to-do farmer hauled up his corn crop blow them up, as they had the entrails, on sleds. The said corn was made so he rode away in cold dignity. without a trace chain, for they used as Now, my friend, Nat Marion, took his a substitute, laths made of white oak mortification more gently. He escort- As they knew no better, these did ex- Story of Monday's Remarkable Developments ed home one Sunday, from the meetingcellently well except at the end of the house, one of old Col. Beckham's daugh- row, as in consequence of the stiffness ters. There were beside, going to Colo- of the laths they had to lift the plough clear around. It was a great improvement when raw cow-tugs, made of time on the cotton exchange yesterday lina. Among these were the Palmers, and the young men all accepted an ingreen cow-hides, were introduced. The morning, when they found themselves Williamses, Marions, Kings, Normans, vitation of the old gentleman to remain stretching and contracting properties in a corner into which they had been Pierces, and Cotruriers. Some of these during the night. After tea a servant of these gears were exemplified-over- gently shoved within a month. The well, perhaps-by the tale told by a flurry was wholly in January options. came up prior to the Revolutionary entered to remove the boots of the gencountryman, who was swapping lies The price which was 10.30 a pound at creek, that made metheglin of its wa- issue of the five day notices, or detheir slaves, as it was quite a common boots, and the comfortable substiters for a matter of 25 yards. He ran directly home for his cart and yoked bee tree, loaded his cart heavily, and and the opening here yesterday, there then drove off for home. The oxen was an advance of ten points. As soon went well, but the cart never moved a as the market opened there was a rush

-the rest completely worn off; and to ville. I often think those primitive likely that enough could be landed here in time, the short interests vied with each other in efforts to purchase, quoabsence of elegance and luxury stifled tations leaping five, ten and even twenty points between sales. envy and extravagance, and encour-

Bacon was almost invariably out by harvest, and from that time on till so bid up the price energetically. At 12 forfeited by some faux pas, by an the luxuries of coffee and sugar; and I

Liverpool connections, received the credit for manoeuvring the deal in association with another firm. The name of a junior partner in the Wilson firm was mentioned as that of the man in niously engineered squeeze. At the average of 245 points, or 2.45 for the purpose. I must agree with menage, a full sack of coffee and a cents a pound, from the opening to the to see well-taught feet, keeping time to on this as unparalled extravagance. It profit to a person who held cotton pur-

"Get in." he said when we reached Valuable Bits of Local History Pre-

Was settled, in great part, by families nel Beckham's hospitable house, sevefrom the lower portion of South Caro- ral young ladies. Each had an escort, war-some after its close. They were tlemen, bringing a pair of slippers for wealthy, and brought with them into each to assume, while he was blacking with an old acquaintance.

He said he cut down a bee tree about 12.75 in less than an hour. This is the a half a-mile from his house, on the highest price reached in ten years. creek. The tree broke as it fell, and out gushed a stream of honey into the at 10.20. That was the last day for the

Although they were not enterprising he said, and "the servant need not green cow-hides. He drove back to his tween the close of Saturday's market step, for the cow-tugs kept stretching of the shorts to cover. It became ap-and money-making citizens, these fam- black them." "Oh!" replied the colonel, a softening influence in social life, and a boot-jack or get to the crack of the he got there, threw the yoke over the ary options, variously stated in the introduced a gentler element of modes door." Old Colonel Beckham's pride limb of a tree, and in the evening the neighborhood of 75,000 bales, while my friends at the clubs. She saw that I was offended. "Forgive me, monsieur. I know that you would do no such thing. But let me explain to you. At the station we will be intercepted by two trusted and high officials at court."

"What!" I exclaimed. "Do they know?" "No, but I shall write to them anonymously, the note to be placed in their hands immediately we leave the premises."

I looked at the woman in wonder. "But this is madness!" I cried.

"Directly you will see the method in the madness. Without their knowing there could be no scandal. They will try to stop us. You will overpower and bind them. There will also be several other witnesses who will not be participants. Through them it will become known that I have eloped with an American. Oh, it is a well laid plan."

"But supposing I am overpowered myself, thrown into jail and I know not what?" All this was more than I had bargained for.

"Nothing of the kind will happen. Monsieur will hold a pistol in each hand when the carriage door is opened. You will say: 'I am a desperate man. One of you bind the other or 1 fire!' It will be done. You will spring upon the remaining one, and I will help you to bind him likewise. Oh, you will accomplish it well. You are a strong man. Moreover, you are rapid."

I sat in my chair, speechless. Here was a woman of details. I had never met one before.

"Well, does monsieur accept the adventure or does he politely decline?" There was a subtle taunt in her tones. That decided me.

"Your highness, I should be happy to meet a thousand uhlans to do you serv- going away together." ice. What you ask me to do is quite simple." I knew that I should lose my head in case of failure. 1 rose and bowed as unconcernedly as though she had but asked me to join her with a cup of tea.

"Ah, monsieur, you are a man!" And she laughed softly as she saw me throw back my shoulders. There was unmistakable admiration in her eyes. "And yet." with a sudden frown, "there will be danger. You may slip. You may become injured. Yes, there is danger."

"Your highness," said I lowly, comtrusted you!" pelling her eyes to meet mine, "it is not the danger of the adventure or its rerespect for you is as high as heaven sults that I most fear." I was honest enough to make my meaning clear. She blushed. "I said that I trusted that? I am but human. I am not a monsieur's honor," was her rejoinder. "Come," with a return of her imperiousness, "it is time that we were gone." She drew on her cloak and dropped the respect"veil. "I might add," she said, "that "Spare me your protestations. 1 be-

we will remain in France one hour. From there you may go your way, and I shall go secretly to my palace." And the glamour fell away like the last leaves of the year. I had to wake up the driver, who had fallen asleep. "Where shall I say?" I asked.

"To your hotel. I shall give the driv er the remaining instructions." "But you haven't told me," said 1, as on mechanically. I took my place in the carriage, "how I am to become a guest at the dinner tomorrow evening."

"I spoke to the king this morning. I the gate." said that I had a caprice. He replied | I glanced at the princess. She might that if I would promise it to be my last have been of stone for all the life she he would grant it. I promised. I said exhibited.

there was not an army, but a mob. The princess was enchanting. I grew reckthrough some of my papers. less and let her read my eyes more than once, but she pretended not to see come of my notes. what was in them. At dinner a toast was given to his majesty. It was made submitted became I didn't care. with those steins I showed you, Jack. The princess said softly to me, kiss-ery footstep. I was presented to the king, who eyed me curiously. Seeing ing the rim of the stein she held, "My was for Paris. toast is not to the king, but to the gentleman!" I had both steins bundled up and left with the host together with will soon come to his own. Ach!" my address.

"My compliments to him when you It was not long after that the eventsee him!" I called back, not to be outknew that I was basely to abuse the done in the matter of courtesy. "And that is all, Jack," concluded hospitality of the king. But what is a Hillars. "For all these months not an king to a man in love? Presently we hour has passed in which I have not two were alone in the garden, the princursed the folly of that moment. Incess and myself. She was whispering instructions, telling me that I was a man of courage.

"It is not too late to back out," she said.

"I would face a thousand kings rather," I replied.

been.

interrupted.

victor of Sedan. The princess looked

"Come," said the count in broken

We could see at the gate the carriage which was to take us to the station. Now came the moment when 1 was tried by the crucible and found to be dross. I committed the most foolish blunder of my life. My love suddenly overleaped its bounds. In a moment my arms were around her lithe body; my lips met hers squarely. After it was done she stood very still, as if incapable of understanding my offense. But I understood. I was overwhelmed with remorse, love and regret. I had made impossible what might have

"Your highness," I cried, "I could not help it! Before God I could not! It is because I love you better than anything in the world-you cannot be of it-and all this is impossible, this

Her bosoni heaved, and her eyes

He found my passports in good order. flashed like a heated summer sky. "I will give you one minute to leave stead of healing under the balm of phithis place," she said, her tones as even losophy the wound grows more painful and as cold as sudden repression of every day. She did not love me, I wrath could make them. "I trusted know, but she would have been near you, and you have dared to take ad- me, and if the king had taken away vantage of what seemed my helpless- her principality she would have needed you committed this outrage before it less than possible that in time she then. I might have known. Could But now-if she is the woman I believe

"As God is my judge," I cried, "my care."

"I feel sorry for you both," said I. itself! I love you. Is there nothing in "Has the prince married her yet?" "No. It has been postponed. Next me beyond all control. Pardon what in hopes of getting into trouble. I may I have done. It was not the want of never see her again perhaps. Tomorrow, tomorrow! Who knows? Well, I'm off to bed. Good night."

lieve your minute is nearly gone," she And I was left alone with my thoughts. They weren't very good And then-there was a crunch on the company. Tomorrow indeed, I thought. gravel behind us. The princess and 1 I sat and smoked till my tongue smartturned in dismay. We had forgotten ed. I had troubles of my own and all about the anonymous note. Two wondered how they would end. Poor officers were approaching us and rap Hillars! As I look back today I marvel idly The elder of the two came that we could not see the end. The straight to me. I knew him to be as inexorable as his former master, the states.

down through the long years. TO BE CONTINUED.

English. "I believe your carriage is at owes more by $80,000,000 than all the 45 states together.

23" Marble is said to exist in 24 of our

the fire. der. I permitted him to rummage desire.

would thoughtlessly plant himself in front of the blazing logs, to the excluyouth, health and untried hearts are sion of others, would hang his head given by Dame Nature.

abashed, and step deftly to one side, When a few young persons accidentwhen his attention was pointed "to the ally met at a friend's and would gather companiment of fritters, was a feast writing on the wall." in the long winter evenings around the

My luggage was packed off to the station, where he saw that my ticket Some of these families, after a few huge fireplace, which took almost the years, sold their purchases and return-"Good morning," he said as I entered ed to the low-country. Others made they would agree alternately, to tell a the carriage compartment. "The devil York their permanent home, and their descendants still reside in the district. When I was a boy, numbers of the Huguenot families of Pineville would, every summer, travel up in their carriages, spending the season in our more salubrious climate, with their relatives and friends, who were settled here. To a Septuagenarian, nothing is more who sang well were called on repeatedly for songs, and there is a ballad much of the blackamoors. striking than the change of social customs within his recollections. admired, sixty years ago, which I have young man wanting to address a girl, in the olden time, would ask of the serves me so well as to enable me to The compliments of the day being passfather or guardian of his inamorata, recall all but four lines. It is, I think ed, Mr. Williams naturally enquired if "the liberty of the house." This being a pretty sequel to the always popular granted him, whether the attentions Scotch song of "Auld Robin Grey," and were agreeable or otherwise to the cannot refrain from giving it. It was young lady, she was bound by respect called to her father and every sense of polite-THE DEATH OF AULD ROBIN GREY.

ness, to receive the swain's attentions "The summer it was smiling, with courtesy, till he came directly to All nature round was gay; And Jennie was attending, the point with her; when she could give him a decided refusal or acceptance. On poor auld Robin Grey; I recall a practical joke played by a For he was sick at heart. And had no friends besides, gay and beautiful young widow, Mrs. Save only poor Jennie. M., and her niece, Miss Betsy M., who Who newly was a bride. .'Oh! Jennie, I shall die,' he cried, was not far inferior in attractions. It 'As sure as I had birth; would now be deemed a jest unrefined Then see my poor old bones. I pray, beyond fastness-in those days a merry Laid decent in the earth; humor, though I cannot say I would And be a widow for my sake. not now question its propriety, if com-A twelve-month and a day; mitted under my tutelage. But those And you shall have what e'er bewho perpetrated it, would have shrunk longs To poor auld Robin Grey. with blushes, from the indelicacy of a round dance. I laid poor Robin in the earth, It was Christmas week and hog-As decent as I could: And shed a tear upon his grave killing time. Two young gents-Jimmy M., and Mansfield G .- concluded to go For he to me was good. I took my rockall in my hand, a sparking, and the charming widow And to my cot I hied; and Miss Betsy M. were, to each, an Crying wae is me! what shall I do, attraction. The cheery blazing fire inside was a pleasant contrast to the snow on the ground outside. So cozily world, There's none like me forlorn: did the day roll round, they concluded I'm ready e'en to ban the day, they would remain during the night. That ever I was born. About the hearth, the circle gathered; I tried to laugh, I tried to sing, To pass my time away, For father was dead, mither was told stories, asked riddles, and the ness. It is well indeed for you that me in a thousand ways, and it is not evening passed away merrily. When the hour for retiring came, the ladies And e'en auld Robin Grey. is too late. I should have killed you might have learned the lesson of love. made an excuse that the candles were out and that they had not yet another At last the merry bells rang out, could na' guess the cause; ever a woman trust a man?" She her to be-she never could love me aft- supply-the fire light must serve the But Rodney was the man they said. laughed contemptuously. "You would er what has happened, and, knowing gentlemen in their stead, and by it, Who gained so much applause. I doubted if the tale were true, have made me a thing of scorn, and I this, I can't leave liquor alone and they hoped they could make their way don't want to. In my cups I do not to the bed. Jimmy M. said he knew their quarters, having occupied them Said Jeannie 'tis for thee before. Mr. G. was equally complacent. Auld Robin Gray is dead I find. Good-nights were exchanged, and all And still your heart is true, went to their different apartments. G. 'Oh! Jeannie take me in your arms, stone image. And you have tempted Monday I am going back. I am going disrobed before his bed-fellow and ran And I will be so too! and jumped into bed. As he slipped in. Pres' John will join us in the kirk he hastily drew up the covering to ex-And we'll be blythe and gay.' I blushed, consented and replied, 'Adieu! auld Robin Grey.'" clude the frosty air. Out he bounced, crying at the top of his voice, "Snakes! the bed. snakes! !--snakes in "Snakes!" exclaimed the astonished Jimmy. "Snakes, and snow on the tale; and the voice now long silent There had been a larger amount than mystery of life seems simple to us and the surplus was seized by the girls which could the listeners understand, who have lived most of it and can look to blow up, and with them, perpetrate to add interest to notes my old fasionthe joke. A burst of smothered merri- ed ears deemed more torturing than ment from the next room-the domicile pleasing.

The latter, more sensitive, re-dressed, ed imaginations all aglow, made even and had he been true to himself and prices in the oil market.

was the amount of stock usually laid chased at or below the opening figure And the shivering little urchin who ing games which are instituted as a in by a store! With foreboding they would be $12.25, or more a bale. Cotton vent for the exuberance of spirit that prophesied "that woman would surely bought at Saturday's closing price of break Alec." Their habit was a cup of 10.20 and sold at 12 yesterday would coffee for breakfast on Sunday morn- net $9 per bale. There are 500 pounds ings, and this, with its invariable ac- in a bale. No record of actual cost sales is kept on the cotton exchange worthy a laird.

now: but it was stated that the total Practical jokes were much in vogue transactions, 150.000 bales, of which not half of the end of the good-sized hall and usually taken in good part, though a very large fraction was in January occasionally an irrascible disposition cotton. It was said that the people tale, ask a riddle and sing a song. The felt like resenting them. Old Mr. Jarule compelled each to contribute their mie Mc- was an Irishman born, and a most hurt were in New England and Chicago, and that losses were so disshare to the evening's amusement. All perfect gentleman. He, though rich, tributed that no serious financial diffiwould comply, and those whose at- never owned slaves, but had a family tempts were failures, stood being laugh- of free Negroes in his employ, and a culties would ensue. Latham, Alexander & Co., Inman, Swann & Co., Hubed at good naturedly; feeling, in that man-of-all-work-Jim Downs, an Emway, if not the other, they had given erald islander, too. He always ate and bard Bros., Bache & Co., and Chicago their quota to the evening's fun. Those slept in the kitchen, and was a dirtier were buyers.

Natural conditions favored the corspecimen of the genus homo than most ner. The last crop year, which ended One day General Lacy went to Mr. on the last day of last August, was one never seen in print; but my memory Daniel Williams's, on Turkey Creek, of comparatively small production. The stock carried over was consequently less than usual. In this city, it was there were any news afloat. said yesterday by a man whose busi-"Yes: Jim Downs is dead." ness it is to keep informed, the amount "Jim Downs dead? Poor old fellow! of cotton carried in the warehouses was I had not heard he was sick. Well! much less than usual all the fall. Rewhat a life he led at Mc-'s; as bad as ceipts were moderate all the fall, parta Negro. In fact Mc- kicked and cuffly because the price of cotton was relaed him about worse than a Negro. tively a bit higher in southern markets When did he die and what was the than here, in part by reason of a de-matter?" mand by Southern spinners and in part "Old Mc- came home in a frolic the by reason of foreign demand. Shipother night, took a notion and made ments to Liverpool and elsewhere Downs wash himself right clean all over, put on clean clothes, out and out, abroad, no longer go via New York unand, to top all, put him to bed in a der normal conditions, foreign buyers clean feather bed. Next morning they purchasing from Southern points.

This authority said that the total found old Downs dead." A good laugh followed the exposition stock here was estimated at present at of the hoax. It was repeated from 75,000 bales. It would, probably, he one to another until it came to old Mr. said, amount to in the neighborhood of

Mc-'s ears. He did not relish the sar-100,000 bales within a few weeks. casm, and laid up a good tongue bast-The market yesterday did not hold ing, at least for Lacey, when he met its highest advance. It sold off and him. A vendue in the neighborhood closed at 11.05 bid, 11.25 asked. Whethnot long after, afforded the opportunier the flurry will continue today dety. A drink or two taken, however, pends largely upon the shorts succeeddrowned malice and they were soon toing in covering themselves yesterday to gether, merry as boon companions. a sufficient extent to feel reassured or Search every land, throughout the Parson McCarra joined the group, and to take care of their necessary contook more than one social glass. The tracts. Some private settlements were whole party felt their liquor. Mc-. stupefied, fell dead drunk. Lacey's reported. The extent to which cotton merry mischief in the ascendant, with has been rushed to this port within a few weeks in an anticipation of this the parson's help, lifted the prostrate Mc- on some plank, then composed his squeeze may be seen from the statement that the local stock in the middle limbs, like those of a corpse for burial, placed on each eye a silver piece, and of December was stated at 12,000 bales. paid McCarra a silver dollar to preach The immediate rush is such that Supt. Mc-'s funeral sermon over him. When King, of the cotton exchange, has requested members who may have sam-Mc- returned to consciousness, and learned the sport he'd made for others, plers and weighers disengaged to nohis wrath was loud and strong, and tify him, that the work of the inspec-And shewed to me a purse of gold, for weeks after he carried a gun to kill tion bureau of the exchange may be fa-Lacey. However, anger died out becilitated. fore he met the general, and it all at last passed, in its proper light, as a

THE BEAUMONT GUSHER .- The great gushing well near Beaumont, Texas, is drunken humor. I cannot say I commend this scene creating considerable interest in the tion. It will, perhaps, be hard for my Southwest. The well far eclipses any above the doing of the present generareaders to credit me, that two of the ever drilled in the United States, and that suited well the simple tenor of the prominent actors were of the highest the output is 7,000 barrels daily greatprominent actors were of the highest respectability-in fact, among the Russia. It is estimated that this flow ground?" And seizing a blazing pine that poured forth the melody, better leading men of their community-con- exceeds 25,000 barrels every 24 hours, knot, he ran to the bed, threw down far-untaught though it was, by all but sidered themselves as gentlemen and and the flow is constantly increasing in the covering, lying about the middle, a true ear and fine taste—than many a coil of—expanded hog entrails. masters to trill Italian Sonatas and been a higher vocation, and this he had size of the hole gradually increased. A There had been a larger amount than masters to trill Italian Sonatas and been a higher vocation, and this he had solid six-inch stream of oil shoots into forfeited by his own weakness. Not the air to a height of 200 feet. It is preserving the elevated standard of thought that the only way to save the morals usually practiced by the clergy, oil is by dirt reservoirs, and they are being constructed as rapidly as possiwhich raised them so far above comble, in order than none of the oil may As the witching hour of midnight mon men, they were revered as those be wasted. As is usual in such cases, 13 Statistics say that New York city the young men. Jimmy M. was bad- drew near, the tales would increase in to whom "it was given to be called the almost fabulous prices are being the young men. Jimmy M. was badpaid ly in love-took the trick in good part, horror and mystery. Each one of the sons of God;" while he was deemed fit for almost waste lands. The well is laughed heartily at the excellent coun- circle drew their chairs nearer to one to give zest to an inebriate's gleeful attracting great attention, and is being visited by thousands of people. terfeit and G.'s unseasonable snakes, another, and the sinking fire, and excit- fancy. He was a talented reprobate, The new well has served to depress

