In other words, he does not care to "butt in" on the he does not care to "butt in" on the investigating committee or any one else. If any charges are preferred or any formal complaint is made by the investigating committee he would act, but to ask for the resignations at this particular juncture would perhaps be precipitate. Governor Heyward has received several urgent requests from his superintendent to return to his plantation, as there was a bad break in a dam and considera bad break in a dam and considerable trouble on account of the heavy rains. This morning Private Secretary Norment gave out the following statement regarding the suggestion of Senator Tillman: "Before leaving of Senator Tillman: "Before leaving the city the governor saw the early morning papers, containing Senator Tillman's suggestion that he should request the resignation of the state board of directors of the dispensary. Before leaving the governor authorized his secretary, Mr. Norment, if any inquiry were made concerning his position in the matter, to say that he had no intention at this stage of the investigation of complying with Senator Tillman's suggestion. If, however, the committee appointed by the legislature to ingestion. If, however, the committee appointed by the legislature to investigate the affairs of the dispensary should consider that it has evidence to warrant such action on his part, and this evidence satisfied him, he will not hesitate for a moment to request the resignation of the directors." Secretary Norment added that Governor Heyward would return to the city on Tuesday night.

— Eugene S. Blease, senator from Saluda county, shot and killed his brother-in-law, Joe Ben Coleman, in Saluda last Friday night. The killing was because of alleged criminal intimacy between Coleman and Mrs. Blease. According to the published accounts, Coleman and Blease had been the closest of friends. Blease been the closest of friends. Blease had no reason to suspect anything wrong until he accidentally came into possession of incriminating corres-pondence. He went to the house of his father-in-law, had an interview with Mrs. Blease and at once proceeded to hunt up Coleman. Coleman was in Traynham's store. Sevman was in Traynham's store. Several people were present. There were some hot words. Blease handed Coleman a derringer and told him to defend himself. He then proceeded to draw a magazine pistol for his own use. Bystanders grabbed Blease and fold Coleman to run. Coleman started off; but Blease jerked himself loose and commenced firing. Coleman fell at the first fire; but Blease fired two more shots into Blease fired two more shots into him. It is said that any of the wounds would have proved fatal. Blease immediately surrendered to the sheriff. Coleman lived several hours in agony. He expressed a wish that he might have been killed instantly; but made no reference to the cause of the tragedy. Coleman and Blease married sisters, the Misses Herbert. Coleman's wife died two years ago, leaving a little boy and a little girl. Blease is a half brother of Senator Cole L. Blease of Newberry, who is a second cousin of Coleman. Eugene Blease and Coleman were not related by blood. All of the lawyers of Saluda have been retained for the defense of Blease. Coleman's friends went to Newberry for counsel. It is said that a cocked derringer was picked up by the side of Coleman's body. There is much feeling in Saluda on account of the affair. The coroner's jury met and wounds would have proved affair. The coroner's jury met and viewed the body, took affidavits from Blease and his wife and adjourned
