

SOUTH CAROLINA NEWS.

The first week of July finds the crop situation in Laurens county in fairly favorable condition, despite the fact that the boll weevil is a menacing factor that is worrying practically every farmer now. A leading farmer said Saturday that he had as good prospect for a cotton crop as he had ever had, barring the weevil which is now invading and infesting the crop. This same planter is using means of combating the pest by poisoning, both by the dusting and by liquid forms of arsenate. He thinks that the applications are proving effective. But it is doubtful if 25 per cent. of the farmers are taking any steps yet to check the weevil, though information and encouragement are offered freely through the different agencies. The cotton crop is now fruiting and the weed is in a healthy, vigorous condition and the fields are fairly free from grass. The seasons have been favorable.

The membership of the Associate Reformed Presbyterian churches in many sections of the Carolinas anticipate making a pilgrimage to Bon Clarken, the newly acquired assembly and summer conference grounds of the Associate Reformed Presbyterian church, three miles out of Hendersonville, N. C., and one mile from Flat Rock on July 4, when the formal opening of the hotel, the cottage and the assembly grounds will take place. The hotel at Bon Clarken has been the hands of repairers and beautifiers recently and is now open to the traveling public, with about 60 rooms with all modern conveniences available. Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Brownlee, formerly of Anderson, are in charge of the place. The hotel is on an eminence which gives a splendid view of Sugar Loaf mountain and other famous peaks of the city. Saturday the grounds were thrown open for the several religious conferences that are to be held there during the summer, and which will include those involving young people's work in the Associate Reformed Presbyterian church. Sunday school work and other church activities. Dr. J. L. McClain, professor of English at Erskine college, Due West, is to be one of the lecturers at the coming series of conferences. Prof. Edgar Long of the faculty of Erskine college will be another lecturer. Dr. J. Campbell White, Dr. John McNaughton of Pittsburgh, Pa., and other leaders in the religious world will be on the program also.

James B. Duke of the Southern Power company, according to a report current in Chester, is planning further to utilize the wonderful resources of Catawba river by constructing a great dam somewhere between Van Wyck and Great Falls, approximately 20 to 23 miles from Chester. It is thought by some of the object is the developing of the water power of Landsford or Culp's Island. For the past few weeks a large party of surveyors have been surveying the territory in the Van Wyck section and Wednesday the party reached the Seaboard Air Line railway station at Waxhaw, a little over 30 miles north of Chester. This apparently is the eastern limit of the survey. Enough information has been gained to cause assurance that the surveyors, employees of the Southern Power company, are ascertaining the highest possible ridge the Seaboard could use for a right of way from Waxhaw southward, in the event the power company should construct a large dam on the Catawba river at some point just below Van Wyck. Those who have read of Mr. Duke's vast scheme to utilize all the possible resources of the Catawba have figured out that a logical place on the Catawba in his place for future development of water power is a point somewhere near the town of Van Wyck. If these speculations are true it is interesting to note the possible effect upon this section of the Carolinas in the carrying out of such an enterprise. Among other things it would necessitate the Seaboard track being laid upon Van Wyck, from a point just below Waxhaw, until it passes beyond the danger of injury to the road bed from the great pond that would be made by the construction of such a dam. There is much speculation upon the effect that such a construction would have upon Van Wyck, some holding that the settlement of Van Wyck would have to be moved to another point if the dam should be erected a few miles below the town. Of course all this is only speculation. The surveyors will not give out any information, nor has any one else volunteered any authoritative statement about what the surveying means. But folk are making surmises, which it is perfectly natural that they should do, and some level headed folk say that it is inevitable that the Southern Power company will eventually build a dam somewhere between Van Wyck and Great Falls.

ARSENATE TESTS SEEN
BY MANY CHESTER FOLKS

Special to Charlotte Observer
CHESTER, S. C., June 30.—W. Carlisle White, B. P. Gregory and Dr. R. H. McFadden made a trip to Hartsville Tuesday and visited the Coker farm, where the molasses-calcium arsenate tests are being carried on with such success.

These gentlemen report the cotton on the Coker plantation as giving every evidence of a bale to the acre. Apparently the boll weevil has been destroyed by the molasses-calcium arsenate treatment; and the three gentlemen returned to Chester firm believers in the efficacy of this remedy, and immediately set to work using it on their crops.

We know of numerous instances where persons thinking of buying life insurance, having been interested by agents representing other companies, have sought the advice of Mutual Benefit Policy Holders, who were also insured in from one to four other companies, as the BEST company in which to insure, and invariably the MUTUAL BENEFIT has been enthusiastically recommended. The recommendation in each instance was based on the experience of Disinterested Witnesses.

You have a perfect right to insure without investigating the MUTUAL BENEFIT, as You Will Pay the Freight—pay more and get less—but you will always have reason to congratulate yourself if you "Look Before You Leap."
