RECAPTURE OF AN ESCAPED MURDERER.—It will be remembered that in 1868, a negro named William Singleton, in Greenville, S. C., for which he was tried and condemned, but escaped from the Beaufort jail some time in 1869. It appears that he went to Savannah and obtained employment at the mill of Mr. Jeff. Roberts. The sheriff of Beaufort, hearing of his whereabouts, went to Savannah and arrested Singleton; but again he was fortunate, and made a second escape by drawing himself from his coat and swimming the canal, leaving the garment in the hands of the sheriff. He was not again heard of till on Wednesday night last, when Mr. T. M. Taylor, engineer at Mr. Roberts's mill, recognizing him, recognized him as to what he was doing, &c., and was informed by Singleton that he was on the hunt for work. Further inquiries elicited information as to his hiding place, when Mr. Taylor took the proper steps for his recapture by calling upon officers Morgan and Endres, at half-past twelve o'clock Wednesday night, and conducting them to his lodging place, accompanied with a posse to assist in overcoming any resistance that might be offered. The party surrounded the house, when the officers and Mr. Taylor entered it and commenced their search. They found scattered over the floor of the den upwards of eight or ten couples of disreputable character. But Mr. Taylor reached his captive, who, finding himself recognized, made an effort to escape through the window, but was brought to by a timely shot from the pistol of Mr. Taylor. It was with great difficulty that the officers prevented the crowd which was assembled from rescuing the prisoner. The following day he was committed to jail, to await a requisition from Governor Scott.

AMUSEMENTS.

English Opera.

In calling attention to the fact that a season of opera is about to be inaugurated in this city under the competent control of the accomplished prima donna, Mrs. Caroline Richings-Barnard, and that the first representation will take place on Monday, the 25th instant, we are sure that we shall afford unalloyed pleasure to the music lovers of Charleston. Mrs. Barnard (known to the lyric stage as Caroline Richings) conceived the idea of presenting a season of the great masters, and popularizing them in English form to the public. Being an excellent linguist as well as vocalist, she brought to the task of translating her librettos from the French and German, the finest acquisitions. Beginning in 1866, she has brought out and successfully performed twenty-five operas, ten of which are of her own translation. It was in that year that she gathered around her present troupe, composed of the best artists. The troupe has played ten months out of twelve for the last four years, and in a manner to establish its reputation above all the German and Italian companies in this country. The Empressaria is said to be an enthusiast in her heart, and has devoted her untiring energies to the perfection of her troupe. The troupe consists of herself, Miss Emma Wilson, a young and handsome prima donna, who has gathered a chapter of laurels in the part of Arline in the "Bohemian Girl," Mrs. Kemp Bowler, Mrs. Henry Drayton, and Miss Anna Mischka. Among the gentlemen of the troupe are the names of Messrs. B. Bowler, Pierre Bernard, Henry Drayton, James A. Arnold, H. C. Peakes, James G. Peakes, and Warren White. The remarkable feature of the troupe, in this latitude at least, is its strong and well drilled chorus of thirty singers. The troupe has run a brilliant career in the North and West, and in New Orleans, even in competition with the admirable French company at the Opera-House, has sung to overflowing houses.

The selections from its repertoire for its short tour in Charleston are most judiciously made—the majority of the operas never given in this city, and none of them, except "Trovatore," for many years. They are—"Marta," by Wallace; "Bohemian Girl," by Balfe; "Sonnambula," by Bellini; "Trovatore," and the shocking "Traviata," by Verdi; "Doctor of Alcantara" (comic), by Elchberg, and the "Crown Diamonds," by Auber. The orchestra is led by the competent baton of Mr. S. Behrens.

THE PASSOVER.—This festival began last evening, when, according to the Hebrew calendar, was the 14th day of Nisan, and will continue eight days. The first and last days are kept sacred, and during the four intermediate days business is generally attended to. During the festival all kinds of leavened bread are abstained from, the substitute being known as "matzas," or Passover cakes. The prohibition does not include a generous diet, as in the case of a Christian Lent, though temperance in all things is enjoined. Various ceremonies are customary among the strictly religious, and in all the synagogues formal exercises and ceremonies are indispensable. It was instituted to commemorate the providential escape of the Hebrews in Egypt, when God, smiting the first-born of the Egyptians, passed over the houses of the Israelites, which were marked with the blood of the paschal lamb. The name of the feast is derived from the Hebrew word pasach, signifying to pass over. All good Israelites observe this solemn feast, which has come down to them through ages, with the strictest preparations and formalities. Their houses are cleansed with the greatest care, in order that no traces of leaven may be left in them. The unleavened loaf is carefully prepared in every home, and no labor nor expense is spared to make the occasion such as is prescribed by the ancient precepts and traditions of their faith. The first-born of a family, if a son, abstains from all food on the paschal day.
