PROCESSION UP PENNSYLVANIA ENUE TO THE CAPITOL. The sight which was witnessed on Penn lvania avenue last Wednesday was one of he most gorgeous and brilliant ever seen in as the column proudly marches on the henor the nation's capital. In some respects it eclipsed the pageant of twenty years ago, when the historic avenue resounded to the tramp of the thousands of battle-scared veterans who pay ed in review before Gen. Grant at the close of the war. From an early hour on Wednesday merning Washington looked as if it were an armed camp. At every street corner could be seen military organizations on the qui vive, and anxiously awaiting the blue of the line regiments, the various colors porary sheds were erected on available of the state militis, the peculiar and rich uniform of the continentals, the trim and hand-some looking cadets from West Point and

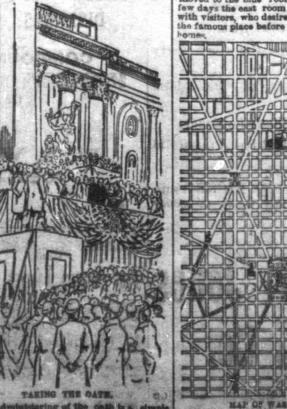

Annapolis, dressed respectively in gray and blue; the artillerymen sitting stiff and upright on their gun carriages and tumbrils, the mounted mea of the signal corps, the blue jackets and the "lobsters" as the marines are familiarly called; the glittering scarlet tunics, laced with gold of the Marine corps band, while ever and anon staff officers, resplendent in gold laces and bright, broadsanes, dashed hither and thither.

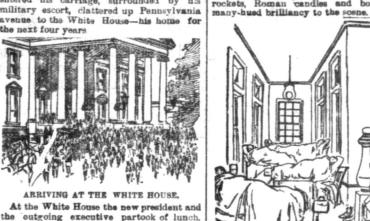

TION BALL. SCENE IN THE SENATE. The Forty-sighth congress having expired on March 4 at 12 m., the president (Arthur) previously issued an executive proclamation onvening the senate in special session, so that the cabinet of the incoming president might be confirmed. The cerementes in the senate are brief and simple. The vice president makes a brief farewell speech, and at its conclusion announces that he is ready to administer the eath of effice to the vice president-elect. As Senator Edmunds said this he introduced Vice President Hendricks, whee was received with applause, and made a brief address. The oath of office was then administered to him, after which Mr. Edmunds declared the senate of the United tates adjourned sine die. For a minute States adjourned sine die. For a minute there was a pause—a pause which marked the death of the old congress and the, birth of the new. Then, Vice President Hendricks meunted the desk, gave a sharp rap on it, and exclaimed: "The senate will come to order." The proclamation was then read convening the senate in special session.
