For Senator A. H. HAMILTON. For Representatives: CHARLES DUDLEY J. H. CARVER.

For Sheriff: S. A. SWIGGETT. For Treasurer.

For Auditor GEO. D. HACKWORTH. For Superintendent of Schools, H. C. COX. For Coroner, Dr. J. C. HINSEY

The Ticket The convention of Saturday was large, every township being fully represented, while it was in the main extremely harmonious. The result is the ticket we run up to the Cou-RIER masthead to-day, combining in it fully as many elements of solid strength and popularity, as the loyal voters of Wapello County ever had the pleasure to vote for or elect. Major A. H. Hamilton (our Junior) who leads the column by the acclamation of the convention for State Senator, is as well and as favorably known as any man in the county.

From the day the Republican party sprang from the womb of time a giant, he has been zealously, and faithfully, on the stump and in the field, one of its most efficient and unselfish champions, never having long residence among us, save to fill Hon. E. H. Stiles which he did with credit to himself, and with the approval of his entire constituency.

He will make a brilliant canvass ence to foreign ones."

serving on the Board of Supervisors. His opponents were all three of them, men of recognized strength, and reputation, which makes his success a higher compliment. He will make a legislator of dignity, probity, and unusual general intelligence of character.

For Sheriff, we had two good sol diers before the convention, towit: Capt. Swiggett of the 36th Infantry. and J. H. Phelps of the 1st Cavalry. Capt. Swiggett was nominated on the first ballot. He possesses in an eminent degree, the special requirements for that office. He has an iron nerve, combined with steady habits, exemplary morals, and business qualifications of a superior order. He will make old Wapello county such a Sheriff as we shall be proud

Col. Alfred Lotspeich was nomina nated for Treasurer on the first ballot over those two excellent men Jacob Siberell, and Wm. A. substantial, writes as follows concerning the vice of extravagance in dress. Overdressing demoralizes a wo-man. It takes from her that purity of thought and character, the high prerogative of a perfect life, which is her legitimate birthright, and she sells it for a mess of potage. It opens the avenues of her soul to a thousand destroying influences, and leads her by silken tendrils, over into the valley of the damsel's representation; and, of the shadow of death. I think of in due course, I found that she was this when I see mothers helping their little ones into this thralldom. I thought of it last Sunday; as I glanced from the chapel master, in his white robes, to a baby-worshipper in blue silk, en panier, all ruffles and folds; and Grecian bend—to the white hat with its cluster of mature red roses—to the small wrists clasped in jewelled bands—to the shapely baby-fingers heaped with diamonds. I looked at the soft pale, golden hair arranged just like mamma's-to the white brow on which the lace hat so properly rested—to the clear cut features of the mature, precocious face luminous with seven years' wisdom, and I could not reiterate the good man's assertions, "Ot such is the Kingdom of Heaven." It seemed to me too much in the fashion of this

An exchange says the uses to which paper can be put seem to be in no way exhausted yet. Paper collars have become a great fact of the nineteenth century, but what will ladies say to paper pettacoats?
These have been produced with great success, and will rival in every way the snow white and elaborately ornate garments poor male mortals are accustomed to look upon with fear and reverance. We have all heard of the artist who used to make caricatures of his friends upon his shirt collars, and the author who inscribed an epic upon a couple of doz-en of the same useful article of attire. Thus we see a field of great useful ness for the petticoat for the future. Young ladies can make sketches from nature on their own petticoats. Every dainsel her own sketch-book will be their motto. Poets can in scribe sonnets to their mistiess' ankles around the hem of her petticoats Mothers can have fairy tales, alphabets and small scholastic works in scribed on their garments, and so in struct their children as they walk about with them. Fancy the announcement, "Madame Percale begs petticoat contains an installment of a new novel of great domestic interest, by Mr. Anthony Trollope, entitled "Tucks or Frills."
