W. S. GASKIN,

News of the Religious World.

George Q. Cannon has translated the Books of Mormon into the Hawaiian language.

Some English curates talk of forming a professional union, on the plan of the trades unions.

The income of the See of Winchester (Episcopal), which was formerly £20,000 a year, is now reduced to £7,000.

The well-known Welsh bard, Rev. J. O. Williams (Pedrog) has sailed for the United States on a preaching and lecturing tour.

"The Rock" (Episcopal) has been advocating the union of English Protestants and the formation of a Protestant party in the house of commons.

The Thirteenth Baptist Congress will be held at the First Baptist church, Providence, R. I., November, 12, 13 and 14.

Bishop Vincent has granted the use of the college hall at Chautauqua for the celebration of mass on Sunday mornings until such time as the Roman Catholics of that place will be able to construct a chapel.

It is rumored that Rev. Henry Loomis, agent for the American Bible society at Yokohama, has had prepared a Japanese Bible printed on superfine paper and sumptuously bound to be presented to the emperor.

Washington officers of the Y. M. C. A. are planning to erect a new association building in the Capital City, to cost $200,000. It will replace the structure recently burned.

The King of Belgium has recognized the services of Rev. Mr. Grenfell in connection with his frontier delimitation labors, in the Congo Free State, by the presentation of the patent of his appointment as a chevalier of the Order of the Golden Lion, together with the insignia set in brilliants.

At Yelverton, an English summer resort, a "chapel-of-ease" has been built and furnished with many interesting and valuable gifts by the liberality of individuals. The most important of these is the Norman font, which was dug up years ago in Buckland church. It is supposed to have been in use 900 years ago.

Mrs. T. Dewitt Talmage, who died at Danville Sanitarium, August 5, contributed largely to her husband's success. She took entire charge of his correspondence, kept a record of all his engagements, and was familiar with the details of all his work. She taught a Sunday school class of 150 young women in the Tabernacle, and was prominent in missionary work.

When Dean Farrar closed his ministry at St. Margaret's last week to enter upon his duties as Dean of Canterbury, his parishioners presented him with a check for $3500, besides numerous small gifts. In his farewell sermon the dead stated that one of his first acts at St. Margaret's was to make the pews free, and the result was not only the voluntary contribution of all needed funds for the work of the churches but of many thousands of pounds for missions and charities.

SWEET MUSIC.

The metropolitan band delighted the public last night with a number of their choice pieces. The night was fine and the boys came out in full force, took possession of the band stand and for more than an hour discoursed sweet music.

Come out again, boys. We assure you it was appreciated.

Jeweler Burgett has made a new hit on silver-ware. Take a look at some of his pieces left in the show window where the gas jet burned last night. Those that had not been polished are a beautiful carbon color.
