THIRTEEN ISN'T UNLUCKY
FOR THE EVENING STAR

With Saturday's issue the Evening Star closed its thirteenth yesterday and entered its fourteenth volume. Thirteen is supposed to be an unlucky number, but the Star hasn't found it so. It has more friends, more readers, more paying subscribers, more advertisements than ever before, and sees no reason to fear that the gradual but steady growth of thirteen years will be even interrupted in the fourteenth.

For their cordial good will and solid support the Star thanks its friends, and hopes to continue to merit the same.

GEORGE W. WILSON

George W. Wilson, editor in chief of the Times-Union, died at his home in Jacksonville at 3 o'clock this morning. By his death journalism loses a useful and distinguished member and Florida a good citizen.

Mr. Wilson was born in Boone county, Kentucky, May 10, 1859. He came to Florida when a boy of fifteen and grew to manhood at Orange Lake in Marion county.

At the age of 22 Mr. Wilson was tendered and accepted the nomination for member of the legislature, simply for the purpose of keeping up the democratic organization of Marion county, and from that time was an active, untiring worker in its ranks, and no man in the state has contributed more liberally than he to its exchequer. He served two years as secretary of the second congressional district executive committee, and two years more as chairman of the committee, and in both positions rendered valuable service to his party.

In the campaign of 1892 Mr. Wilson was, as a member of state and congressional committees, in charge of headquarters in the city of Jacksonville, and did effective and faithful executive work.

He was president of the Lake Weir Chautauqua Lyceum Association; was three years president of the Semi-Tropical Exposition; was a member of the forestry congress; was commissioner at the Paris Exposition; was a member of the state World's Fair directory, and in all these positions he served without compensation and defrayed his own expenses. He has been inspired in this work purely by his love of the state of Florida.

He has been foremost in many personal enterprises. He built the first steamboat to ply Orange Lake. He has been an extensive traveler, having been in nearly all parts of Europe, Mexico and the West Indies, besides his own country.

In August, 1894, President Cleveland appointed him collector of internal revenue for the District of Florida.

In 1881 before a railroad was built to Orange Lake, before mail or telegraph reached to a nearer point than eight miles, he conceived and started the Orange Lake Floridian, a four-page weekly. The enterprise was started purely for amusement. It was here that he mastered the rudiments of the printers' art.

His Washington hand-press and apron full of type grew into quite a formidable printing outfit and the toy became too expensive to be located in the country, so it was decided to move the outfit to Ocala. The name of the paper was changed to the Florida Lacon. It was at Ocala that he published the first daily paper issued in the interior of the peninsula of Florida. It was issued one week to chronicle the session of the circuit court. Within a year from the time of his going to Ocala, Mr. Wilson purchased an old-established weekly—the Banner—and consolidated them as the Banner-Lacon, which was owned and edited by him up to the great fire at Ocala in 1884.

This primary school in journalism developed opportunities for him better than he knew, for he was called into the larger and wider field of metropolitan newspaper-making and when he took charge of the Florida Daily Citizen of Jacksonville, in February, 1897, the mechanical knowledge as well as editorial experience enabled him from the first issue to place before the public a newspaper that took the front rank in Florida journalism.

In the fall of 1897 the Florida Times-Union was consolidated with the Citizen and placed under the control of Mr. Wilson and he was both editor and president of the company publishing the consolidated papers known as the Times-Union and Citizen.

In 1881 Mr. Wilson was married to Mamie Fair Marshall, of Columbia, S. C., who died two years later, and in 1899 he was married to Miss Belle Robinson, daughter of Dr. Henry Robinson, a banker of Jacksonville. Two sons were born to them. He is survived by his wife and two sons and his mother, Mrs. S. A. Stewart.

Mr. Wilson was highly honored in Marion county. There are hundreds of people within its borders who feel that in his death they have lost a personal friend.

Odd Fellows meet tonight.

SPEAKING TONIGHT

Don't forget that Rev. J. W. Birgham, of Jacksonville, one of the most eloquent orators of the state, will speak at the courthouse tonight at 8 o'clock, in the interest of the candidacy of the Hon. Jno. N. C. Stockton for governor. You'll miss a treat if you do not hear this man speak.

Private Bill Moorman, of Grahamville, came in today to attend the meeting of the Confederate veterans and will remain in town to attend the dinner to be given by the Daughters tomorrow. Private Bill tells a good one on our old friend Peter Durisoe, of Conner. Peter was afflicted with a terrible backache. He just thought his last days and hours had come. Some one suggested that the pith of cabbage palmetto boiled with rosin and turpentine was the best thing on earth. With great effort and pain he dragged himself to the hammock and with still greater effort and pain he felled a tree and began to trim off the roots, when as if by a flash a swarm of yellow jackets made for his neck. He dropped the axe and began a vigorous brushing off of the pesky critters with his hand, his feet dancing a regular hornpipe and then came the forward movement and such time as he made through that hammock and for home beat old John Gilpin in his best days and strange to relate up to date he never had another attack of backache. Try Uncle Peter's remedy if similarly afflicted.

Ed Stafford, the orange grower at Weirsdale, was in town today and told the Star reporter how he had been sold in buying a mileage book for family use over the A. C. L. railroad, but on investigation he said it was the same on both roads. The trouble arises from the fact that only one member of the family whose name appears on the book can ride on it at the same time. It is evident the railroads who pretended to be so kind and generous to the people did 'em one on the mileage book proposition. Again, if you have one you must go to the ticket office from place to place and have the local agent tear off mileage and give you a ticket to where you wish to travel. If you do not do this your mileage is no good.

THE GRINDING OF LENSES FOR SPECTACLES

Is a delicate operation. It requires skilled workmen at high salaries to grind lenses by prescription. The smallest deviation from the proper curvature makes a big difference in the lens. The measurements are made with very sensitive instruments and my lenses are ground for me by workmen of the highest skill and scientific training. DR. D. M. BONEY, Eyesight Specialist, Ocala, Florida.

Office Hours: 8 to 12 a. m. and 1:30 to 4:30 p. m. Optical Office and Laboratory, Rooms 2 and 4, Gary Block.

Mr. W. E. Allen, of McIntosh, was before the board of county commissioners today to induce that body to settle for damages done L. T. Cassell's horse by a defective bridge on a public road in that section. The board at its last meeting requested more time to investigate the matter, but on this occasion turned down the proposition, though there were a number of precedents for the claim, which is deemed a just one. Unless the board adjusts the claim Mr. Cassell will enter suit.

The county commissioners are in session today and are very busy. There is quite a delegation from Dunnellon before them. The school board is also in session.

Mr. W. H. Massey of Orange Springs and a naval stores operator of that section, was in town yesterday, making this office a pleasant call while here. Mr. Massey says it is terrible dry in his section and the pond that supplied his turpentine still with water is dry for the first time in the history of the place.

Mr. B. A. Weathers has gone to New York on business and will visit Amherst, Mass., where his son, Brantly, is a student, and also Troy, N. Y., where Miss Janet Weathers is attending the Frances Willard school. He will accompany Master Brantly and Miss Janet to Ocala.

Earl Pearson took his first outdoor ride Saturday since the fearful accident that befel him at the Alta mine, at Holder, early in January.

Mr. Maurice Rheinauer, a brother of Messrs. Ben and Charlie Rheinauer of this city, was in town over Sunday a guest of his brothers. Mr. Maurice Rheinauer was formerly a citizen before moving to New York. He is looking well and is the same genial, social gentleman as of yore.

The Summerfield truckers sent out six cars of melons last week and four more Saturday.

Mr. Strowman, who lives at Summerfield, but works at the the Oxford crate mill, had the misfortune last week to get his hand caught in a saw and lost several of his fingers.

Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Anderson are on their way to Poughkeepsie, N. Y., to be present at the commencement exercises of Vassar College, of which institution their daughter, Miss Frances Anderson, is an honor graduate.
