COX'S DEFEAT NOT A LANDSLIDE BUT A CATAclySM

Republican Vote in the North and West Buried Democratic Minorities Out of Sight

(Associated Press)
New York, Nov. 4.—Tennessee swung into the swelling republican column, shattering democratic traditions of a solid south.

Unofficial but nearly complete returns show that Tennessee coupled with a similar upset in Oklahoma assured Harding of 385 electoral votes against 127 for Cox, leaving 18 still doubtful, divided among Arizona, Montana, Nevada, New Mexico and North Dakota.

The Memphis Commercial-Appeal on the returns from 93 out of 95 counties in Tennessee gives Harding a lead of 10,000. Governor Roberts was beaten by Alf Taylor decisively.

No further actual upsets have been reported from the south, although several towns in Florida and Louisiana and several counties in Georgia and Alabama broke precedents by large Harding pluralities.

The republicans secured 254 seats in the House of Representatives and the democrats 131, and other parties four with 43 contested.

Former Speaker Champ Clark was beaten.

The republicans are assured of a lead in the Senate of ten with five undetermined.

A SEVERE LESSON TO THE NEGROES

Storing Ammunition and Attacking the Whites Does Not Pay Them

(Associated Press)

Orlando, Nov. 4.—This vicinity is quiet after former service men patrolled the territory adjacent to the scene of the rioting Tuesday night. Two whites and six blacks were killed during the rioting.

As a result of the election day fight at Ocoee, twelve miles west of Orlando, when July Perry, negro, carried a shotgun to the polls and insisted he would vote regardless of the fact that he had not paid a poll tax, followed by the killing in cold blood of two white young men by the same Perry, the situation may be summarized as follows:

Leo Borgard of Winter Garden, and Eimer McDaniels, of Ocoee, soldiers in the world war, dead; Sam Saulisbury, Charles Beatty, Young Wilson, Frank Robinson, John Haner and several other whites wounded; July Perry, negro, dead, an unknown number of negroes killed at the scene of the riot; twenty-five negro houses, two negro churches and a negro lodge destroyed by fire; Ocoee and the immediate section of the scene patrolled by armed white men and in the woods and swamps intermittent firing from blacks at bay as they are being pressed further into the woods by the encircling whites. Comparative calm prevails though the air is surcharged with the intensity of the drama.

As the negro houses blazed Tuesday morning there was the incessant crackling and popping of shells and cartridges, and when the church was fired it was stated that the detonations resembled the explosions of miniature ammunition dumps on a battle front. It is declared that between 500 and 1000 rounds of ammunition exploded in the church and in Perry's house where the congregated and desperate blacks fought like demons, 2000 rounds of ammunition exploded. Examinations of the debris of the destroyed negro houses revealed numerous fire arms of large and small caliber.

A gruesome credation scene was exposed in all its frightfulness as the morning sun peeped over the smoke laden field. One scene showed two charred bodies of negroes who fought to the last. One negro woman is known to have been killed. No children were victims. The situation is in the hands of reliable citizens, ex-service men and home guards and no further trouble is anticipated.

A VERITABLE HORSE FAIR IS THE SPARKS CIRCUS

Despite the fact that the automobile business is increasing month by month, there yet remains the keenest interest in the horse, perhaps not as a beast of burden, but as an animal of symmetry, intelligence and beauty. And that is one of the reasons why the Sparks circus which is to appear in Ocala on Tuesday, Nov. 16th, carries with a horse fair equalled by no other circus in the world.

In the large tent adjoining the menagerie, the horse fair forms a daily adjunct to the trip into the "big show." And so when the circus arrives and you have paid your admission, do not forget that feature of the circus, for it is worth seeing. In the fair this year will be found specimens of the purest bred Percheron possible to obtain, as well as representatives of the thoroughbred, standard bred Suffolk punch, coach horses, hackneys, hunters and horses for general purposes.

But in the maze of attractions, the horse fair forms only one of the features of the Sparks circus. The clowns? They always form an important part of any circus—and that is the case with this vast amusement enterprise. Forty of them are present in the performance every minute and their presence can result in only one thing—laughter and lots of it.

By the way, there is to be the two-mile long parade at 10:30 o'clock the morning of the circus' arrival in the city, with all cages open, tableaux wagons and floats of wondrous splendor, herds of elephants and camels—most of them driven in harness, 200 lady riders and cavaliers, all mounted on beautifully caparisoned, spirited horses in splendid fettle. It will be worth coming many miles to see, so don't miss it.

WILL SEEK FUNDS ON SLIDING SCALE

Committee of Marion County Board of Trade Changes Plan to Finance Organization

The special membership committee of the Marion County Board of Trade, at a meeting yesterday afternoon, decided upon a sliding scale of subscriptions for its proposed budget instead of the plan to secure $100 each from 100 men and firms. It was found that the business men favor a sliding scale as being fairer to all. The sum of $10,000 is determined upon as the minimum for the activities of the Board of Trade for the year.

Tomorrow or Friday a letter will be sent to the business men and firms advising them of the amount that the committee expects them to subscribe to the Board of Trade fund. This will give everyone an opportunity to give careful consideration to the matter. Then, beginning Monday, the committee will begin calling on the men and business houses to ask for subscriptions, one-third cash and the balance in the form of pledges for three, six and nine months.

The present yearly income of the Board of Trade, only $3900, is entirely inadequate. The headquarters, or office expenses, of the organization must have at least $5000 yearly, and, if there is to be any advertising, booklets, conventions, motor camp, band concerts and the like an additional sum must be raised. It is proposed to raise it in one lump sum and to do away with various drives and subscriptions periodically during the year. A budget will be made and a definite program adopted by the Board of Trade and its activities for the year limited to this budget and program. The budget and program will be adopted at a meeting of the Board of Trade to be held for the purpose.

People of Florida Turn Down the Crazy Scheme by a Vote of at Least Two to One

ALEXANDER WOULD LIMIT COAL EXPORT

(Associated Press)
Washington, Nov. 4.—Secretary of Commerce Alexander today advocated limitations on the export of coal to insure an adequate supply for home industries and to direct trade to countries that are natural markets for American coal and to those whence American ships sail in ballast. He said the export of coal comes almost entirely from the Appalachian field, which supplies the most highly developed industrial districts and, too extensive export development is likely to result in a high price domestically.

WHAT WILL YOUR RED CROSS DOLLAR DO? HERE ARE FACTS TO SHOW YOU EXACTLY

Red Cross Work in South, Including Health, Nursing, Military Relief And Other Activities, Illustrated by One Typical Month.

Atlanta, Ga., Oct.—The man or woman who gives a dollar for membership in the American Red Cross when the Fourth Roll Call is held from November 11 to November 25, will want to know, among other things, what that dollar will help to do in the southern division, of which his chapter is a part.

Fifty cents of the dollar is retained by the chapter, for chapter work. The other fifty cents goes to the national headquarters in Washington, to keep up the national work of the Red Cross. In this connection, it is interesting to note that the Red Cross last year spent more in the south than it received from the south in money for memberships. The budget for next year contemplates a similar program in the south.

The southern division of the Red Cross consists of the states of North and South Carolina, Tennessee, Georgia and Florida. Headquarters of the division at Atlanta, in order to show just how the money given the Red Cross is spent in the south, has prepared a detailed statement, showing one month's activities in the division. This month is typical of Red Cross work in the southern division. From the summary of its activities, Red Cross members may gain a concrete illustration of the work their membership fees will help to keep going through the coming year.

During this month the Red Cross had sixty-one nursing services operating in various parts of the division, employing a total of seventy-four nurses. Four new services were established by chapters during the month, one service was reopened, five were withdrawn, and, in addition, the Red Cross placed one nurse, paying her salary, with another organization that had started health work in that particular community. That is the policy of the Red Cross—to do health work where it is most needed, and where others are doing the same work, not to compete with them, but to help them as far as possible.

The nursing department of the Red Cross has a bureau called the bureau of instruction, engaged in promoting health work. This bureau organized fourteen classes in Home Hygiene and Care of the Sick during the month. Altogether, thirty-five classes in this subject were in operation in the division during the month; two hundred and fifty-two new students were enrolled and one hundred and seventy women and girls completed the instruction.

The bureau of dietetics, through which classes are organized to teach women and girls the right sort of food to cook and serve to make good health, carried on instruction work during the month at such places as Converse College at Spartanburg, S. C., the West Tennessee State Normal School and Winthrop College in North Carolina. The bureau reported the appointment of a city dietitian at Nashville, Tenn., where the Red Cross Chapter set aside $2,000 for her salary and $500 for incidental expenses in connection with nutrition work. The bureau, in co-operation with other divisions, put on an exhibit in health at the Tri-State fair at Memphis, Tenn.

While such work as this was being done in the field of health by the Red Cross, it was equally active in its work for returned soldiers and their families and similar work for civilian families in like need of help. The Red Cross had 2,081 new cases of this sort during the month, and reopened 1,580 old cases, a total of 3,661 cases. An idea of the number of soldiers and civilians helped in the different states may be gained from the following report for the month:

Georgia, 1,006 soldiers' families aided, 65 civilian families aided; Florida, 1,941 soldiers' families aided and 576 civilian families aided; North Carolina, 1,062 soldiers' families aided and 88 civilian families aided; South Carolina, 1,431 soldiers' families aided, 241 civilian families aided; Tennessee, 1,093 soldiers' families aided and 44 civilian families aided. A total of $3,691 in financial aid was extended to soldiers' families, and $1,230 to civilian families.

First aid was taught by the Red Cross during the month in classes at the Middle Tennessee Normal and Industrial school at Murfreesboro, Tenn., the Asheville Summer school at Asheville, N. C., the University of Florida at Gainesville, Fla., the Tennessee A. and I. State Normal school at Nashville, and the A. and E. college at West Raleigh, N. C. New students in these classes, and first aid certificates, showing the holder was proficient in first aid principles, were given to 135 students.

Life saving corps were organized by the Red Cross during the month at a number of places, and other corps, previously organized, did fine work at some of the beaches. Several rescues by members of this corps were reported, while others assisted in rescues.

The Red Cross did no disaster relief work during the month in question, as no disasters occurred, but, at any time the Red Cross is ready to respond to cities stricken by fire, flood, tornado or pestilence. Because the schools were closed during this month, there were no activities of the Junior Red Cross to report, but with the opening of the schools in September, thousands of children throughout the southeast joined in various helpful plans of the Junior Red Cross.

With all of this work, the Red Cross continued to carry on its first duty and its responsibility to the man in uniform.

During the month the Red Cross maintained adequate forces of workers at twelve different army posts, camps and hospitals in the division, serving a total of 13,762 men, of whom 700 or more were patients in two general army hospitals. In addition, Home Service, as it is called, was given to 1,148 new cases, 642 closed cases and 4,071 other cases where information of all sorts in regard to pay, Liberty bonds, insurance and the like was furnished.

One of the most potent influences at these posts was the "home influence" of the Red Cross. The men were encouraged to write letters home, stationery was provided, and, where a man was illiterate, the Red Cross wrote his letters for him. The boys were made to feel that the Red Cross workers were their friends, that they had some one to go to, some one who felt a sympathetic interest in their welfare.

The Red Cross also did work at six United States public health hospitals in the southern division, and served United States public health service patients at eight other hospitals of which they were inmates. Besides "home service," the Red Cross gave them recreation, distributed necessary supplies and developed the local interest of the respective communities in the patients and the hospitals.

This is the sort of work—in health, social service, among the posts and camps, for disaster relief, first aid, home dietetics, home hygiene and care of the sick, and the Junior Red Cross—that will be carried on during the coming year through the dollars of those who join the Red Cross in the Fourth Roll Call.
