"ALL THY WORKS PRAISE THEE."

BY MARY HOWITT. The moon beams on the billowy deep, The blue waves rippling on the strand, The ocean, in its peaceful sleep, The shell that murmurs on the sand, The cloud that dims the bending sky, The bow, that on its bosom glows, The sun, that lights the vault on high, The stars at midnight's calm repose; These praise the power that arched the sky, And robed the earth in beauty's dye.

The melody of nature's choir, The deep-toned anthems of the sea, The wind that tunes a viewless lyre, The zephyr, on its pinions free, The thunder, with its thrilling notes, The peal upon the mountain air, The lay, that through the foliage floats, Or sinks in dying cadence there; These all to thee their voices raise, A fervent song of gushing praise.

The day star, herald of the dawn, As the dark shadows flit away, The tint upon the cheek of morn-The dew-drop gleaming on the spray-From wild-birds in their wanderings, From streamlets leaping to the sea, From all earth's fair and lovely things, Doth living praise ascend to thee; These, with their silent tongues proclaim, The varied wonders of Thy name.

Father, thy hand hath formed the flower, And flung it on the verdant lea; Thou had'st it ope at summer's hour, Its hues of beauty spoke to Thee, Thy works all praise thee; shall not man Alike attune the grateful hymn? Shall he not join the loftier strain, Echoed from the heart of seraphim? We tune to Thee our humble lays, Thy mercy, goodness, love we praise.

Miscellaneous.

THE CHRISTIAN IN ADVANCING YEARS,-Whence arises the universal dread of growing old? Is it from an overweening vanity of personal charms? We see it in such a thing as beauty. From an instinctive horror of decay and dissolution creeping on by gradual, stealthy pace? But it is freely acknowledged by such as have a steadfast hope of a blessed immortality just beyond the religion of infirmity and decay. They can look death in the face with composure, but tremble at his precursorsthe tokens that he will surely release them from the bondage of flesh, and introduce them to a higher life. May we not trace this inherent, universal dread to man's original, undecaying nature-a faint vestige of his noble destiny when there was no derangement or suspension of his restless, active faculties? Deep within his nature there remains a panting for perpetual, everlasting progress, and instinctive shrinking from every symptom of the "dark day of nothingness" to which our mortal structure is doomed. However we may account for the fact, it is unworthy of the Christian.

Let him so discipline his mind while in youth and vigor as to be prepared to submit to the infirmities and trials of age, not as to an inevitable destiny merely, but with a cheerful recognition of the will of a Heavenly Father .-Through this shaped path flies the way to his home above. Like the noble king of day pass ing under a transient eclipse, let him retain his majestic character-he shall soon emerge with cloudless splendor. The Christian, indeed, may triumph over old age as well as death. The outward man may decay, and the mental structure may suffer to some extent while the spirit is ripening for glory—rapidly assimilating to that image which he is soon to bear in heaven. When the vigor of life departs, with the Christian, the body and the spirit take divergent paths-the one is tending steadily back to its original elements-the other should rise as steadily to the high, and holy destiny awaiting it in the mansions of heavenly rest. N. Y. Recorder.

VALUE OF A WIFE IN AFFGHANISTAN .- The Affghans generally think nothing of the death of a wife. When my husband was in Affghanistan he was several times asked, 'Are you married?' 'No; my wife is dead.' 'We hear you are very sorry when your wives die; did you weep?" 'Yes, I did.' Whereupon they were struck dumb with astonishment, that any one could feel the death of a wife so strongly. 'Why should we grieve?' say they; 'there are plenty of others;' and yet these are men of warm feelings, capable of strong attachments rather than with personal attractions. What and sympathy; but this only proves that any do you think of a fine mature husband of fifviolation of the law written in the hearts of ty?" all, or of the arrangements of the Creator, to say nothing of His revealed laws, brings with looked into the man's face, with the slightest it its own punishment. Polygamy has destroy- possible touch of interest in her voice, answered everything like domestic and family ties.— ed—
Sometimes nature re-asserts her right, and pa "I think two of twenty-five would be better, duces strong attachment between husband and pa." wife, brother and brother, but this is the exception; and that this state of things is produced by polygamy, and not merely by ignorance of true religion, is proved by the example of the ancient Romans during the period when divorce was unknown, and when the wife, being the sole and life-long partner of her husband, gave him not only a helpmeet but a home and

GUANO ON SMALL GRAINS .- We have experimented fully and fairly with guano on small grain crops the present season. Our first application was to rye. We plowed up an exhausted hill side which was so scarred with gullies, that the front pair of mules in a team of four would be jumping one ditch whilst those behind were leaping over another. Two plowings made the old hill sightly and in a situation to receive a dressing of two hundred pounds of guano to the acre, which we plowed in with the seed. The portion without guano, which we left to test the application, produced rye not exceeding two feet high, whilst the rest of the land yielded a very heavy crop of grain on stalks six feet high, which stood very thick upon the soil. We made an application of one hun dred and fifty pounds per acre to one entire wheat crop, leaving small portions to which it was not applied, to test its efficacy. On the next, to show cause if any they can, why the prayer latter, the wheat was indifferent, whilst the of the petition aforesaid should not be granted rest has yielded a cemarkably fine crop of grain, which is plumper and heavier than any

we have ever grown. On oats, of both spring and fall sowing, it has shown its value to a satisfactory degree. It is on the out crop that its fertilizing effects are the most apparent, and we think the spring sowing somewhat the best, as the other was perhaps injured by the severe firsts. The seasons, it is true, have been favorable to the growth of small grain crops, but we give our endorsement from the perceptible difference on land of equal productive capacity and of similar preparation of soil which was, and was not fertilized with guano. It is our candid opinion that one hundred pounds of the best quality of guano and five bushels of finely pulverized charcoal, thoroughly intermixed, applied to each acre of oats, wheat, rye or barley, on ordinary land, prepared by thorough and deep plowings to receive the seed, will generally double the crops. We are convinced, from ex periment, that pulverized charcoal, for all but leguminous crops or turnips, is the best mixer we can use for guano. For the latter crops, la-ter is a most valuable adjunct to guano. Southern Agriculturist.

PLAIN PREACHING.—A few years ago it was announced in a village in the Eastern part of Georgia that Bishop Andrew would preach in the Methodist Church on a certain evening; and as was to have been expected there was quite a large congregation out. It being at night the colored people were outalmost unanimously, they having heard so much of the great man in the families to which they belonged. In fact, they had come almost to believe, there was something supernatural about him. The worthy Bishop according to appointment preached from the words—"Faith, Hope and Charity, but the greatest of these is charity." The congregation was greatly edified and delighted with the lucid and simple manner in which the subject was handled. Returning from the church (as a matter of course) the sermon was the topic of conversation. Another young gentleman and myself were walking near an old negro man who was quite a favorite about the village, and resolved to take his opinion of the matter. "Well Zio, (the nick name which had been given him by the boys,) what do you think of the Bishop's sermon?" The old man stopped as in deep thought a moment and then exclaimed, "Is that your great Bishop Andrew?" Yes, said we.—"Well! I jist tell you he cant gin to preach with some of our preachers at home. Why he talked so plain that even us black folks could onderstand him." In conclusion I would respectfully suggest, that some who are in the habit of getting on the grandiloquent, would perhaps do well to ponder .- So. Chris. Advocate.

Aunt HETTY's Advice .- Oh, girls ! set your affections on cats, poodles, parrots, or lapdogs -but let matrimony alone. It's the hardest way on earth of getting a living-you never know when your work is done up. Think of carrying eight or nine children through the measles, chicken pox, thrash, mumps and scarlet fever, some of 'em twice over, it makes my sides ache to think of it. Oh you may scrimp and save, and twist and turn, and dig and delve, and economise and die, and your husband will marry again, take what you've saved and dress his second wife with, and she'll take your portrait for a fireboard, and-but what's the use of talking? I warrant every one of you'll try it the first chance you get, there's a sort of bewitchment about it, some-

A SAFE OFFER.-An English paper says the following is a copy of a placard which was posted up in the vicinity of Liverpool.

"The person who left two of his toes and the heel of an old boot in a steel trap in Anfield Plantation, on Sunday evening last, may have the same returned on application to the gardener at the cottage."

The lost property had not been called for at last accounts.

Rev. Dr. Hawks, it is said, was at one time elected Bishop of Rhode Island, but he declined to accept the appointment, the ground of refusal being the meagre salary assigned to the office. His Rhode Island friends reminded him of the promise made in the scriptures-that God would feed the young ravens." The doctor replied that this was true, but that he had nowhere seen a promise "to feed young

"My dear," said an auxious father to his bashful daughter, "I intend that you should be married, but I do not intend that you should throw yourself away on any of the wild worthless boys of the present day. You must marry a man of soher and mature age-one who can charm you with wisdom and good advice-

THE WORST WINE, - The Japanese made it point when entertained on board the American vessels to taste of every dish, and also to take notes of everything. One of them drank a wine glass of sweet oil, and some one being curious to know what comment he made upon it, applied for an interpretation, when it was found to read, "this is the worst wine they have got."

WHEN the R. R. R. Theory was first declared to the world, skeptical persons doubted its correctness, and looked with distrust on the re edice it possessed. Others, however, struck with the originality of its views and conceding merit to the theory, were induced to try if the remedies borne out in practice what was claimed for them in theory. A third class differing from the others and perhaps more numerous, without considering for a moment any merit they might be entitled to, tried them, merely as a v. uture, growing out of a desire for something new We are satisfied with the result, for the public has received the benefit and R. R. R. Theory has triumphed. Not a day passes that we do not have admission from some hitherto unbeliever that their skepticism was unfounded and convinced by reading our Family Friend, have proved by their own experience, the in fallibility of our medicines. Not a day passes that we do not receive grateful testimonials of cures effected by these Medicines "I was seized with crampe and spasms last night says one, and had it not been for Radway's Ready Reliaf I should have died with the pain."
