SALE

Of Unclaimed Goods

Being Conducted by Adams Express Co.

Many Good and Ludicrous Bargains,

And Many Purchases That Are Not Bargains,

But Good Humor Prevails, and the Sale Continues Merrily.

The auction sale being conducted today by the Adams Express company, at the corner of Main and Market sts., has attracted large crowds and goods are being sold rapidly. The goods are unclaimed packages, collected by the express company during the past year, and in the collection were 900 articles.

Of course the bidders didn't know the contents of the packages for which they were bidding, and purchases were made after the manner of the proverbial phrase, "buying a pig in a sack."

Some persons got bargains; others did not. There were no women in the crowd, and many of the young men bid successfully for women's apparel of various description and uses. One bashful young man secured two pairs of pantaloons, but his face diffused with blushes, he vowed that he would never wear them, and sold the articles cheap to a married man, who said: "I can't wear them, but I happen to know a person who can."

Patent medicines were also purchased largely, and one of Akron's most fashionable society men secured for 25 cents a blue shirt and a pair of overalls; a dead game sport purchased about four reams of tracts on "Worldly Waywardness or True Religion, Which?"

Many very excellent bargains were obtained. Two good silver watches were sold for 35 and 40 cents respectively, and many articles of useful wearing apparel were purchased cheap.

The best of good humor prevailed during the sale, and Auctioneer L. H. Rien has the respect of the crowd, which he keeps laughing heartily.

The matter of connecting fire alarm boxes with the city conduits has been referred by the Board of City Commissioners to the Mechanical Engineer with power to act.

General Passenger Agent Anthony of the Erie was in the city Saturday. Mr. Anthony stated to a reporter for the Democrat that the Fourth of July travel was above that of previous years. So great was the passenger traffic upon the road that each train was provided with two conductors in order to handle the people. This is the first time the double conductor plan has been tried and it worked well.
