THE WRATH

Mark Hanna has broken out again. This time he is after the clergy. He became so wrought up at the recent statement of the Reverend Herbert Bigelow to the effect that whether a man robs the public little or much depends entirely on whether he is sent to the United States Senate or to the penitentiary, that he has been calling on some one to hold him from publishing this reverend delinquent, and threatens to take the hide out of him—figuratively speaking, when he opens his campaign.

It will be noticed that Mr. Bigelow did not mention Mark Hanna's name in the statement referred to. And yet the coat seems to fit the Senator so well that he puts it right on, and insists that the words used were of him concerning him.

It is suggestive of the force of the reverend remark that a conclusion should be so hotly reached that meant Hanna, and that Hanna himself should so readily recognize himself as the target aimed at, and—It seems, indeed, that the liberty of advising Senator Hanna that he had better engage beforehand to argue with Mr. Bigelow this question of how different kinds of robbery are punished or rewarded in these days, unless he is prepared to catch hold of the very end of a political poker. His advice had better counsel their client not answer,—just as his attorneys did witnesses in a certain matter in which his title to a seat in this same Senate was called in question.

But if he is bent on the discussion we may depend upon it that the Reverend Mr. Bigelow will maintain the end of it, and that too without doing anything he has ever said on the subject before.

Mr. Hanna waxes wroth too. Rev. Bigelow's "mixing in politics" as he is reported to call it. Let's hear about Rev. Hissey, Hanna's factotum, whose sky-plotage is confined to showing the faithful the land of office-holding; and cast from Johnnies into the outer darkness of despair of low fares, inequitable taxation, and whose special habitat is the lobby of unscrupulous legislatures?

It will not strengthen Mr. Hanna's case by mixing his anger with Mr. Foster's at Macedonia in October, those going by the A. B. C. line at Northfield at 11 a. m. and convey all to his home.

Lingering Summer Colds. Don't let a cold run at this season. Summer colds are the hardest kinds to cure and if neglected, may linger for months. A long siege like this will pull down the strongest constitution. One Minute Cough Cure will break up the attack at once. Safe, sure, acts at once. Cures coughs, colds, croup, bronchitis, all throat and lung troubles. The children like it.

A CANDID. Now that Mr. Johnson is looking up on the political horizon of the future, the mud-machines of all newspapers in the subsidy of the flegged classes and tax-eaters are in motion to spatter him. They have for the time quit reviling Mr. Bryan and are directing their yelling to new man, whom they hail as Bryan's successor.

A recent editorial article in the York Times took up the cry of pack of detractors, and rung changes on all of the oft-repeated quite mythical shortcomings of Johnson. The effect of this was as surprising to its promoters as it must have been gratifying to friends of the accused Mayor called forth a large number of which the Times, with the candor that respect of which it has been published, and which show not the strength of Mr. Johnson's defenders.

We select one of these letters we commend to the careful attention of our readers, because in a short the mud-slinging process will operation in Ohio, and the question meets and refutes charge that can or will be against Mr. Johnson as a pe factor in the counting campaign. The letter is the following: To the Editor of The New York Times: The attempt of this morning's to give "the measure the breadth, and thickness of Mr. Johnson's economic and political principles" suggests a number of In the first place, the gross inconsistency in the fact man of wealth, and of wealth through railway franchises, eventually be identified with a man for more just economic conditions what is an advocate of popular to do? much earlier, but the bloom is small. Mrs. Gaylord stated that the buds of the Cosmos are small and if potted can be kept in bloom until the holidays. Mr. Crawford thinks that for early blooming they should be set in very firm ground.

On orchards—Mr. Pierce stated that the apple crop is good, and at present the fruit is a drug on the market. He thinks later varieties will find better sale. Apples are of fine quality and free from marks of insects. Report on entomology, by Mr. Baldwin—He would gather up the rubbish in the garden and orchard as fast as it accumulates and destroy by burning, also as fast as beans ripen destroy the vines, brush and melon vines, thereby destroying many bugs, insects, etc.

Mr. E. E. Stine, an old member of the society, who has spent the greater part of the past three years in California, was present, and promised to tell the society some things about flowers at the next meeting.

The meeting adjourned to meet with Mr. Foster at Macedonia in October. Mr. Foster stated that he would meet those going by the A. B. C. line at Northfield at 11 a. m. and convey all to his home.

MILES

Starts on Trip to Philippines.

Will Inspect the Military Works

But Not Interfere With the Conduct of Affairs.

Washington, Sept. 12.—Lieut. Gen. Nelson A. Miles left Washington Thursday for the Philippines, where he will make an inspection of the principal military posts in the archipelago. Before returning to Washington he will have circumnavigated the globe, it being his intention to return to the United States by way of the Suez canal. A special car was placed by the Pennsylvania railroad at the disposal of the General's party, which consists of Mrs. Miles, Col. M. P. Maus, aide de camp, and Mrs. Maus, and an orderly and stenographer from army headquarters. Col. H. H. Whitney, another of the General's aides, will probably join the party later.

The journey began at 3:30 over the Pennsylvania lines to Chicago, where a short stop will be made, and thence to Portland, Ore. Proceeding south toward San Francisco, the inspection will be made of the recent extensive improvements in the coast defense system on the Pacific.

Gen. Miles and his party will sail for Manila on the transport Thomas, which is scheduled to leave Sept. 30.
