

NEIGHBORHOOD NEWS

The stork paid 26 visits to Alliance homes during October.
If a blanket of snow is good for wheat in the ground next year's crop should break all records.
A daughter was born Monday night to Mr. and Mrs. William Field of Austintown township.
The roofs of three Sbering potteries were crushed Monday under the heavy weight of snow that fell Sunday.
Mrs. T. W. Casselman of Alliance died Sunday morning of apoplexy, aged 69. She leaves her husband and several children.
Snow carried down the roofs of John Gunn's greenhouses at Garfield Monday morning, causing considerable loss on buildings and contents.
John Cleckner of Lisbon has lived 90 years and declares he never saw a blizzard that came anywhere near approaching that of last Sunday.
Mrs. Louisa Weldmeyer died Sunday evening in Leetonia of heart trouble, aged 71. She is survived by three sons, two daughters and one brother, Fred Baun, of New Springfield.
Mrs. Laura Quinby of Lordstown aged 49, died last week in the Warren hospital. She is survived by her husband and four sons. Funeral services were held Monday afternoon and burial was made in the Lordstown cemetery.
It is announced that the Mahoning Valley trolley line will be extended from New Castle to Beaver, a distance of 14 miles, and that the Beaver line will be connected with the one running to Elwood City.
Tom Fletcher, a Pennsy passenger conductor, was killed at Leetonia Sunday night. His train was a fast one and ordinarily does not stop in Leetonia. On account of the snow storm it halted, however, and Fletcher stepped from a coach to the second track to learn the cause of the stop. Just as he did so a freight train rushed through the blinding snow and Fletcher was instantly killed.
Mrs. Edward Hollander of Alliance died Tuesday evening in the Alliance City hospital after an illness of ten days, aged 34 years. Deceased and her husband some years ago resided in Ellsworth and was well and favorably known in the western part of the county. Mrs. Hollander four years ago went with her husband from Youngstown to Alliance where he conducts the business of the Alliance Auto Repair Co. She was born in Seceder Corners, Trumbull county, where her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Brown, still reside. Besides her husband and son she leaves two sisters and four brothers, James Brown of Ellsworth being one of the latter. Funeral services will be held Friday at her old home in Seceder Corners and interment will be made in Belmont cemetery, Youngstown.

HOBBY WORKS A HARDSHIP

Massenet Patronage Enables His Bookbinder to Retire to Country Home.
In the recently published recollections of Massenet a story is told, says the Hamburger Nachrichten, illustrating the composer's passionate admiration for beautiful bindings. Not a week passed without a visit from him to his bookbinder, when he brought a new book or a new edition to be bound. In the course of time he and his bookbinder became the best of friends, and when Massenet arrived the talk was at first of everything on earth except the real object of his visit.
"Look here!" Massenet would say eventually, giving the man the volume to be bound.
"Splendid!" replied the bookbinder, and then for his customer and friend he would devise some fresh wonder in the art of binding.
One morning Massenet suddenly learned that his friend was giving up business. He hurried to his shop. "Heaven! Is it true you are leaving Paris?" he asked.
"Why, certainly; I have bought a charming little country house near Nantes."
"Where? A country house! And in the provinces!" And he added sadly: "Ah! my poor friend, I am partly responsible for that."

BAR ALL PRIVATE PROPERTY

French Village Seems to Have Arrived at Something That Seems Like the Millennium.
A German writer, Dr. A. Grotjahn, interested in the increasing shortage in births in France, has found a prolific community at the village of Marde, near Dunkirk. This is a colony founded more than 200 years ago by Louis XIV. with a system of land tenure which does not permit private ownership of the soil. Dr. Grotjahn says: "The men of Marde marry, on an average, at twenty-four years of age, immediately after having passed the obligatory service in the navy. When a new family has thus been founded it receives for exclusive use, but not as private property, a plot of land of 22 acres and a section of shore for net fishing. . . . The families may leave to their children the land handed to them in usufruct, but they may not divide or mortgage it. The result is that Marde possesses a prosperous population, free of material cares, which does not rack its brain on behalf of its children's fate, while the rest of the peasants and fishermen of France are particularly anxious in this respect. The births amounted to 43 per 1,000 of the inhabitants, a figure which is not surpassed by any civilized people."

Reclaiming Zuyder Zee.

Queen Wilhelmina in her speech from the throne on the opening of the Dutch parliament said that a measure would be introduced for the reclamation of the Zuyder Zee. The Zuyder Zee was originally a lake, and the scheme is to make it so again by constructing a great dyke across the entrance of the Zuyder Zee and then build three other dykes around the coast of the Zee, one running nearly directly north and south and one closing the western part of the Zee; another from near the southern end of the first to a point well on the eastern shore, while a third one will stretch northwest in the direction of the dyke built across the entrance. This scheme will not touch the center of the Zee, which will thus return to its former condition of a lake.
If the Dutch chambers sanction it the work will be carried on by means of a public loan in the Netherlands.

Close Buyer.

A New York theatrical man was appointed receiver for a small opera house in an upstate town in New York. He was anxious to sell it and so was willing to take the first offer made. He advertised the place, and after waiting a week he was delighted when an inquirer came in.
"Say, mister," the prospect asked, "how much do you want for the theater?"

"My friend," the receiver replied, "I am extremely anxious to make a sale, and I'll let you have it for your own price."

"Please, mister," said the inquirer, "can't you do a little better than that?"

Electric Collier at Sea.

Jupiter, the navy's big electric collier, made a 48-hour sea trip early in the week to shake down her propelling machinery and then returned to the Mare Island navy yard.
The electric devices worked perfectly, according to a report to the navy department, but some trouble was experienced with foaming boilers and in keeping up the steam pressure at the turbine engine.
The electric devices speeded the propeller up to 108 revolutions a minute, only two short of the number estimated as necessary to attain the 14 knots for which she was designed. After some slight changes another trial will be held.

Electricity in Blasting.

Electric blasting is being employed in certain mines in South Africa. The whole of the one level at a leading mine was fired the other day by the new system. There were 300 shots in the blast, which was effected from a station, only one man being required below for the firing. Cables are now placed to enable blasting to be effected from the surface. The system so far has proved satisfactory.

A scandal is a secret that has been told.

GET TRUE SCIENTIFIC VALUE

Actual Worth of Medical Practice is to Be Taught by Views in the Cinematograph.

One of the recent and most important uses for which the cinematograph has been put is that of teaching anatomy and physiology in medical colleges. The most ingenious films ever taken were prepared for this purpose by the great French physiologists, M. Bull, M. Comandon and M. Noguea, and shown by Professor W. Stirling at the Royal Institution. They were microphotographs, showing the actual growth of the heart muscle fibres isolated from the embryonic chick and made to propagate on culture media for 50 days. All the processes of nuclear and cell division were clearly demonstrated in other films, and the actual immigration of the leucocytes from a portion of the spleen was also made visible. These films were taken for days or weeks in succession, the rate to correspond with that of the growth being very slow, but when thrown on the screen very rapidly they showed in a few minutes processes that really occupied weeks.

Eight Million Books a Year.

The New York Public Library reported early in 1913 that practically 8,000,000 books circulated for home use during 1912. In every case this was a worth-while book. Clean fiction, old and new, biography, science, philosophy, travel, history—all forms of books were included. Books for the blind, with raised type for eager, seeing fingers. Books in 26 languages, circulating almost 500,000 copies. Books carried to hospitals and asylums. "The lame, the halt, the blind and the stranger within our gates were just as much benefited as the American who could walk up independently to the shelves and select George Eliot's 'Middlemarch,' in English, for himself."—Sarah Comstock in "World's Work."

London's Water Storage.

Those Londoners who are nervous about their water supply may be relieved to know that the Metropolitan water board has under its control sub-sidence and storage reservoirs a capacity of some 15,000,000 gallons. The normal consumption of the 7,000,000 persons in the board's area of supply is rather more than 200,000,000 gallons a day, so that, were all the reservoirs full, the usual daily allowance could be provided from them alone for nearly 11 weeks. As a rule, at any time the board has in storage sufficient water for a full 40 days' supply, which would permit every man, woman and child during that period to be supplied daily with over 30 gallons of water.—Tit-Bits.

There is no need for a charming woman to make her way in the world; men just naturally make way for her.

FIRE DON'TS.

The time of year has again arrived when the fire fiend generally gets in his work. The following don'ts if strictly observed, will beat him at his own game.
Don't go into closets looking for clothing with a lighted match.
Don't kindle fires in stoves with kerosene.
Don't put hot ashes and coals in wooden barrels or boxes.
Don't thaw out frozen water pipes with a torch or lamp.
Don't allow waste paper, excelsior, and rubbish to collect.
Don't use gasoline for cleaning in a closed room.
Don't look for gas leaks with a match or lamp.
Don't allow lace curtains near gas lights.
Don't allow oily rags near stoves or about the premises.
Don't allow sawdust to be used in cuspidors or on floors.
Don't throw waste paper in a fire-place.
Don't throw cigarettes or cigars away if lighted.
Don't keep matches in paper boxes, or lying about carelessly.
Don't use snapping parlor matches. Taboo them.
Don't forget that matches are the beginning of many conflagrations.
Don't hang your clothing near open fires or stoves.
Don't fill lamps after dark and never when lighted.
Don't allow rubbish in hallways or in fire escapes.
Don't burn leaves or dead grass on windy days.
Don't forget to have the chimneys of your home cleaned.
Don't fall to look twice at everything that looks "ke fire."

Choosing the Right Present.

Are you in doubt about a certain present? The Youth's Companion has proved to be one of the best that can be chosen. Perhaps you have not seen it lately, and are not quite sure. Then let us send you a sample copy or two. Suppose you ask for the issues containing the opening chapters of Arthur Stanwood Pier's fine serial story of life in a boys' school—"His Father's Son." If you look the paper over carefully, bearing in mind that there are fifty-two such numbers for a year's subscription of $2.00, we are sure you will say that a better present could not be chosen, whether for a young person or for an entire family.
For the year's subscription of $2.00 there is included a copy of The Companion Practical Home Calendar for 1914, and all the issues for the remaining weeks of this year, dating from the time the subscription is received.
If you ask for sample copies we will send them with the Announcement for 1914.

What has become of the old-fashioned baby that was rocked in a cradle?

LUKE McLUKE SAYS

Once in a while when a man is thrown on his own resources he finds that they are not there.
Any old kind of a cloud looks good to a man who has just purchased a new raincoat.
There is a bright side to everything. Look at the fun we would miss scratching if we never itched.
When mother starts telling about the handsome and wealthy admirers she had courting her before she met the man she married, father always says: "Well, why in Sam Hill didn't you marry them?" And mother comes right back with: "I wish I knew then what I know now."
Every mother knows her baby is going to be a great man because he has a dimple in his cheek.
A man is also well known by the company he doesn't keep.
Some men can't tell the difference between a golden opportunity and a gold brick.
A woman is homely she always claims it is because she can't get a hat that becomes her.
A man who gets a lodge paper and a get-rich-quick circular once a month likes to preface his remarks with: "After I opened my mail this morning, I . . ."

Never judge by appearances, unless she is very pretty.

You never see the stuff advertised anywhere, but every time you get on a crowded street car you will notice that some one has been using Angora bouquet.
The world is growing better, but shorter engagements and longer marriages would help some.
You can't dodge the high cost of living by dying. The funeral and the monument are right on your trail.
There ain't no such animal as consistency. A man will preach a sermon against the love of money and then take up a collection before you can beat it.
A man can see that her stockings are green. But it takes a woman to see that they are cotton.

If I Could Write.

If I could write a poem it would be All made of joy.
Of laughing, sunny days and then, you see, Beyond a doubt, You'd read it and you'd know what 'twas about.
If I could write a story it would be A pretty thing.
About plain people just like you and me.
And that's a bit Above a million things that have been writ.
If I could write a play it would not be Of hideous things
That scare the world and trouble you and me;
That make us good
By telling us how bad we've said to be.
Or anything.
I'd try to write it in the gladdest way.
But what's the use?
No one would print it if it did no one abuse.

FACT

Evidence that can be verified.
Fact is what we want.
Opinion is not enough.
Opinions differ.
Here's a Canfield fact.
You can test it.
Eli Rhodes, Canfield, Ohio, says: "My back was occasionally so lame I could not get out of bed without assistance. I frequently got up seven or eight times at night and if the kidney secretions were allowed to stand, they deposited sediment. I suffered from these troubles until I could stand them no longer. A friend told me that Doan's Kidney Pills had cured him of kidney trouble and I got a box at Morris' Drug Store. I noticed relief from the second box. I was encouraged and continued using Doan's Kidney Pills until I had taken six boxes. By that time I was well. You may continue to publish my former endorsement."
Price 50c, at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—get Doan's Kidney Pills—the same that Mr. Rhodes had. Foster-Milburn Co., Props., Buffalo, N. Y.—Adv.

DR. BULL'S Cough Syrup

The child feverish with a cold, running nose, tight or loose cough with wheezing or rattling of phlegm as it breathes, (mother, put your ear to child's back or chest and listen) should have Dr. BULL'S COUGH SYRUP. Has No Morphine or Chloroform in it. It's the only right medicine to give. 25c.
"My four children had bad colds and coughs. Dr. Bull's Cough Syrup cured them." Mrs. E. vom Lehn, 670 E. 39th St., Brooklyn, N. Y.
