Harvest Time

CHINESE HAVE DAY OF THANKS

popular and widely spread of all the Chinese pagan festivals. It has many of the characteristics of the ancient moon-worship ceremonles of Syria and Phoenicia, and it comes as near to being a thanksgiving festival as any heathen feast could ever expect to be, celebrating the ingathering of the harvest. To the masses of the Chinese, however, there appears to be but a faint idea of genuine thanksgiving and girl owe to the good Providence connected with this moon feast. It is and to the brave men who made this simply the remnant of an ancient institution, coming down from the remotest antiquity as a meaningless act of nature worship. It is possible that in the beginning, among the early Chinese people, the moon festival may have been less pagan and more characterized by feelings of thankful reloicing than it is at present. However that may be, no wiser choice could have been made by the missionaries in China toward establishing a genuine national Thanksgiving feast than the selection of the day of the popular moon feast. The moon feast was first proclaimed a thanksgiving festival in 1906 at Wuchang, where the large church was filled with a well-ordered crowd of Chinese, celebrating for the first time the newly appointed thanksgiving day. The sacred building was beautifully adorned with offerings of staple articles of Chinese diet, like beans. rice, millet and other grains, not to speak of pomegranates, pears, apples, wine, salt and flour, Wuchang is a great city of nearly a million inhabitants, situated far up the Yang-tse-Kiang, in the heart of China. Its central position, among the teeming myriads of heathen Chinese, renders it a good point for the spread of helpful and uplifting ideas and truths, and in view of the readiness of the Chinese at home to adopt the best things presented to them for their own good, it is expected that the old moon feast will be gradually adopted, in its newly baptized form, as the national thanksgiving day among the 2,000,000 or 3,000,000 of Dhinese at present under the influence of Christianity, and in this way also gradually become the national thanksriving day among the votaries of Buddhism, Confucianism, and Taoism, in the course of their emancipation from the grosser features of these time-honored religions.

WEALTH WAITS THE GARNERING

To every man there will come his daily bread in answer to his daily prayer, though it come from the milling of wheat or be the salmon caught at the falls of the Spokane, without let or hindrance from any power of earth. If there is food in plenty in one region, as by the fall of an avalanche down a mountain, it will certainly seek consumption in another region. And this the American boy try one and have kept it one

It is too much the blindness of our time to speak as If such a simple business as daily food came to us as a matter of course. There is, indeed, a carcless liabit in which Americans often speak.

Fourth of July orators and streetcorner braggarts alike talk of the natural products of this country almost in the tone of the emigrants who expect to pick up a doubloon upon the sidewalk. One is tempted to ask such braggarts why the country did not produce such wealth 100 years or 200 years ago.

Why was Dakota then a desert? Why were the hills of Alabama only a hiding place for a few thousand Creek Indians? Why did they not forge the iron under their feet? Why did not the Iroquols in western New York pick from their trees the peaches and the pears such as have been growing there this autumn?

The answer is this: All the wealth of America comes to her from the work of her men and women. The victory which yields it is their victory. It is the victory of spirit conquering matter. It comes in the daily miracle of daily life, where children of God, led by God, taught by God. alive in his life and fellow workmen with him, carry out his designs and subdue the earth.

It is neither sensible nor grateful to speak of teeming granaries, of increasing trade, of new mines, of oil, of iron or of gas as if these things were wealth in themselves.

They are only wealth when man strikes the rock and its waters flow. And this man must be not the savage man who cares only for his own per sonal appetite. It must be man, the child of God, seeking a future better than today, determined to bring in a nobler age than that which he lives in .- Edward Everett Hale,

LESSON FOR NOVEMBER 28 HOW JESUS THE KING WAS RE-

CEIVED. LESSON TEXT-Matt. II and 12 GOLDEN TEXT-Come unto me all ye that labor and are heavy laden, and I will give you rest.-Matt. 11:28.

ADDITIONAL MATERIAL-Luke 7:18-PRIMARY TOPIC-The Kind Deeds of

JUNIOR TOPIC-Friends and Enemies

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC Choosing Jesus as Our Teacher, YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC The Response of Men to the Ministry

The teacher should keep in mind the progress of thought in Matthew and present these lessons accordingly. In chapters 5 to 7 we have the laws of the kingdom; chapters 8 and 9, the birthday anniversary. of the kingdom; chapter 10, the propagation of the kingdom through the sending forth of the twelve; chapters 11 and 12, how the kingdom was received.

1. Four Classes of Hearers (ch. 11). 1. Perplexed hearers like John the to be about. Baptist (11:2-11). John believed that Jesus was the Christ (v. 2), but was somewhat perplexed as to the manner of the establishment of the kingdom. In the Old Testament predictions there were two lines in the Messianic prophecies; the one set forth Christ as the suffering one, as in Isalah 53, and the other, as the invincible Conqueror, as in Isaiah 63. Indeed, in Isaiah 60:1, 2 we have the two advents in one view (see Matt. 3:10-12). He said that the ax is laid unto the root of the trees and that there was to be a separation of the chaff from the wheat and a burning of the chaff, but now the King was occupied merely with the opening of the eyes of the blind, etc. John saw Christ as the one who would remove the sins of the people by the shedding of his blood (John 1:29), but he failed to see the interval between the time of his sufferings and the time of his triumph. Since this interval between the first and second comings-the nature of the age in which we live-was not known until Christ revealed it in the parables of the thirteenth chapter, we do not wonder at John's perplexity. John's faith was not failing him, neither did he send this deputation to Jesus for the sake of his disciples. He was a true prophet and a faithful man, but he was perplexed. 2. Violent hearers (11:12-19). These dred, are suffering with tonsilitis. were willing to receive the kingdom according to their own way, but were unwilling to conform to its laws. Their ears were closed to everything but their own carnality. They would not repent when called upon to repent by John, nor rejoice when called upon by Christ to rejoice (vv. 17-19).

3. The stout-hearted unbelievers (11:20-24). In Chorazin, Bethsalda, and Capernaum, Christ had done most of his mighty works, but the people deliberately set their hearts against him and his message. It was not for of knowledge and opportunity that they were unsaved, but for their purposeful rejection of Christ. Tyre and Sidon, Sodom and Gomorrah were filled with immoral profligates and idolaters, but they will be more tolerably dealt with in the day of judgment than those who wilfully reject Christ.

4. Hearers who are babes in spirit (11:25-30). There were some among those who heard Jesus with childlike faith, who believed that Christ was the Messiah, and they opened their hearts to receive him. Christ invites those who have the babe-like spirit to come to him, and to all who come to him and receive him he gives rest.

II. The Antagonism of the Kingdom (ch. 12).

In chapter 11 we saw the shameful indifference of the Jews to their King. In this chapter we see positive and bitter antagonism manifesting itself against him. They are not only without a heart for him, but do their best to destroy him. The immediate occasion of their wicked determination was Christ's relation to the Sabbath. Because the hungry disciples plucked corn and Jesus healed the withered hand on the Sabbath day, they sought to destroy him. They accused him of being in league with the Devil.
