One of the greatest achievements ever done on the telephone, occurred last week, when the whole proceedings at Arlington cemetery at Washington,—the shooting of the cannon, the band playing, the address of President Harding, was heard as plainly in the great amphitheatre in New York by 35,000 people and in the great civic center building at San Francisco by over 30,000 people, just as plainly as those at the grave of the "Unknown Soldier," even plainer than those heard standing away from the platform; all of which was done by immense amplifiers and sounding board. In Great Bend they have a wireless by Roy Evans, on which they often hear music and lectures at Denver and other cities. The boys at Hays are hoping to make theirs as good.

The Grandi Brothers Stock Company was the attraction at the Strand, Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday nights of this week, with their ever excellent repertoire of high class plays and a cast of excellent players. Word has come from Peoria, Illinois, that Jacob (Bunny) Gross has gotten into the football limelight several times. He is on the varsity team at Bradley Polytechnical Institute. In a game with the Illinois Teachers' College, he tore loose for a forty-five yard run and a touchdown in the first five minutes of the game. The coach, then seeing that previous injuries were telling on him, removed him from the game. Just the same, the papers say, all the "polys" had to do after that was to keep the teachers from scoring, which they did easily. Sledding was easy. "Bunny" is one of six brothers, all natives of this city. All have played on the Normal team in former years. All volunteered in 1917 and served during the duration of the war.

HIGH SCHOOL NOTES

This week is being observed as "Good English Week" in the High School. To make it more impressive a contest is being held with Susan Chittenden and Phyllis Netherlands as the two leaders.

Monday was tag day, with the Sophomores in charge. Each student was given a tag upon which one from the opposing side placed a mark for every grammatical error or slang expression used.

The contest closed for the day in favor of Phyllis' side.

Tuesday was badge day with Juniors in charge. A badge was given to every student, who was allowed to wear it until he made an error in English, then it was forfeited to the other side. Susan's side was the winner for Tuesday.

The Seniors were in charge for sticker day, Wednesday. The report has not yet been decided.

Thursday will be poster day. The side presenting the "better speech" poster will win for the day.

The final decision of the contest will be made Thursday evening. Friday night the losing side will entertain the winning side at the High School.

A "better speech" program has been arranged for Friday's assembly.
