In the middle of a winter, that until recently was dry, the rains needed to put raising lands in condition began falling. For several days intermittent rains and snows have fallen. The total precipitation has been heavier than the casual observer would believe because only one rain that attained more dignity than a drizzle has fallen in the several days. The total precipitation for the last four days, according to County Surveyor Pitt Ross' gauge, was 1.50. Only yesterday did it exceed a half inch for the day. On Monday it was nearly a half inch.

BUSINESS MEN TO HOLD CONVENTION DINNER TONIGHT

President J. H. Nations of El Paso and Senator B. F. Pankey of Lamy Will Be Principal Speakers.

Tonight the business men of Albuquerque will hold their first convention dinner. Officers of the Commercial club declare that event marks an epoch in the history of the city, since the real purpose of the gathering is to discuss the entertaining of the first big convention of importance ever secured for this city with the exception of the irrigation congress, which, strictly speaking, is not a convention. The club feels that Albuquerque can become a convention city of first importance in the southwest, and that the first foundation stone for a claim to such a distinction will be in taking care of the businessmen's meeting. March in a manner that will bring publicity to the right sort for the community.

While more than 200 tickets have been sold for the supper tonight, there will be room and a place at the tables for many more and every man of Albuquerque is urged to attend. The club feels that it is the duty of every interested business and professional man to turn out and make a big success of the event not only because a large attendance will encourage the few who have the responsibility of the convention upon their shoulders, but principally because President Nations of the Panhandle and Southwest-Central Citizens' association is to be the guest of honor and the principal speaker.

The tables will be occupied in the ballroom of the Elks' club at 6:30 o'clock and the program will be completed by 9 o'clock. Senator Pankey will be another out-of-town speaker, and there may possibly be others who have been invited in attendance. The chairman of the various committees in charge of the convention will make their reports for the benefit of the public generally.

Railroad Men Arranging Specials.

Following the rate hearing at the club yesterday afternoon, some of the railroad men in the passenger department took up with the club officials the matter of special trains from points in Texas and Oklahoma. It is expected that there will be one special from Oklahoma City bringing a delegation to fight for the convention in 1917, another special from Fort Worth bearing another contingent of fighters bent on securing the next meeting, while a special from Amarillo has already been arranged. The railroad will mail invitations to all members of the association to attend and will distribute advertising matter regarding the convention throughout the Panhandle country.

It is believed by the railroad officials that the attendance at Albuquerque this year will be exceptionally large and that this city, if it entertains the visitors properly, will have an opportunity to secure the convention again within the next two or three years. The railroads have come to regard this particular meeting as one of the largest and most important stockmen's conventions held in the entire west and think that the association is sure to grow into one of the largest associations in the United States.

WOULD PUT FREIGHT RATES IN STATE ON A UNIFORM BASIS

That the ultimate object of the series of hearings being held throughout New Mexico by the state corporation commission is the readjustment of "class" rates inside the state developed at the meeting held yesterday at the Commercial club. The elimination of the so-called "jobbers' rates" is desired. These "jobbers' rates" were said to have the effect of giving lower figures for short distance hauls than are obtainable under similar conditions in Indiana.

F. B. Houghton, freight traffic manager for the Santa Fe railway, said the proposed new intra-state tariffs would give state jobbers a wider area of territory through reducing rates for longer distances and declared that although the rates would be increased for shorter hauls to put them on the basis of longer hauls, they would be increased just as much for jobbers more distant from the consumer.

The corporation commission was represented by Hugh H. Williams and G. L. Owen with D. F. Seggerman, rate expert for the commission. Several railroad representatives and quite a number of local business men were present.

BANQUET GIVEN SUPREME LODGE ELEGANT AFFAIR

Eloquent Speeches Follow Dinner in Armory to 250 Guests; Patriotism Keynote of Addresses.

The climax of the social features of the triennial session of the supreme lodge of the Alamosa Hispano-American, which is now in session here, was reached last night with a banquet to the delegates and their families which was held in the armory. Covers were laid for 250, the dinner being served by the Elks club cafe, and it is no exaggeration to say that no more successful banquet has ever been given in Albuquerque.

Patriotism, loyalty to flag and country and home, and the upholding of high ideals and standards by the order formed the keynote of the speeches made after the banquet was completed. Nestor Montoya, president of the local branch of the alliance, presided with grace and dignity as toastmaster, and was especially happy in his introductions of the speakers.

Visitors Welcomed.

Warm addresses of welcome to the delegates were made by Mayor D. H. Rostright and Clark M. Carr, president of the Commercial club, who occupied seats of honor at the speakers' table. President Samuel Brown, who has been at the head of the order for sixteen years, responded in feeling terms to these addresses, and made a speech which evoked hearty applause from all present.

Frank A. Hubbell, who had been asked to speak on the subject "No politics and no religion in the alliance," made a speech that held a strong appeal to his hearers. Mr. Hubbell said that politics and religion were the two things closest to his heart, but he recognized that there was a place for all things, and declared that the absence of any suspicion of religious or political partisanship in the alliance was one of its strongest features. He told of having witnessed the recent deliberations of the Pan-American Scientific congress in Washington, and drew an eloquent picture of the growth of brotherhood and friendliness between the people of the two American continents.

There were a large number of ladies present, and one of the most interesting features of the program was an address by Mrs. Maria J. A. Perault, of Silver City. After the speeches had been concluded the floor was cleared and dancing was enjoyed until about midnight.

The Program.

In addition to the speeches already mentioned the program was as follows:

"Morality and Health"—Dr. G. R. Servin, supreme physician.

"Charter Lodge"—J. O. Saenz, president Charter lodge.

"Arizona in the Alliance"—Benjamin Arce, supreme vice president.

"New Mexico in the Alliance"—A. A. Sedillo, supreme vice president.

"Lodges in Other States"—J. L. Torres, of the Juarez, Mexico, lodge.

"Instruction and the Press"—Carmela Padilla of the Santa Fe, New Mexico, lodge.

"International Amity"—E. V. Anaya, supreme trustee.

"Fraternal Insurance"—R. B. Archibald, supreme trustee.

"The Law of Fraternal Orders"—J. R. Dunseath, supreme legal counselor.

"Protection of the Home"—Jose Gonzales, of the "Washington lodge," Las Cruces, N. M.

"The Alliance and Loyalty"—George W. Armijo.

"The Influence of the Ladies in Fraternal Orders"—Mrs. Marie J. A. Perault, of the Silver City ladies' lodge.

"Observance of Law and Regulations in Fraternal Organizations"—A. C. Torres, of the Socorro, N. M., lodge.

"Organization and Propaganda"—J. S. Serrano, of the El Paso, Tex., lodge.

"System"—Jose R. Lopez, supreme secretary.

"Fraternity"—A. A. Romero, Jr., of the Los Lunas, N. M., lodge.

ALBUQUERQUE GETS BIG BOOST FROM AN ALBUQUERQUE BOY

Frank Spitz, an Albuquerque boy, a nephew of Berthold Spitz, is at present engaged as a special writer for the Frederic J. Haskin syndicate, perhaps the best known and most widely patronized of all the organizations furnishing breezy feature stories to the newspapers of the United States. Mr. Spitz has made good in his field and is now turning out some of the best stuff that the Haskin syndicate furnishes to its readers.

A recent story written by Mr. Spitz on the advantages of the southwest as a place where the great white plague is most easily conquered has attracted widespread attention. Albuquerque figures as the center of the story, and a graphic description is given of the subterranean colony here and in other New Mexico towns, together with scientific data as to the chances for recovery of those who get here in time and obey the doctor's orders.

Any one reading the story can tell at a glance that the writer knows what he is writing about, and Albuquerque has gotten a bigger boost from Mr. Spitz' article, published in a number of the biggest newspapers in the United States, than it could have gotten from any amount of free advertising.

ANNUAL MEETING SHOWS Y. W. C. A. IS PROSPEROUS

Reports of Committees and of Officers Read and Work for Coming Year Outlined by the Leaders.

The annual meeting of the Y. W. C. A. was held last Monday evening at the association building on Third street, when the reports for the past year were given. At 6:30 o'clock a variety of the members and friends of the association sat down to a sumptuous turkey banquet prepared by the efficient lunch room director, Mrs. J. H. Perrin.

The business part of the meeting came at 8 o'clock in the following order:

After the devotional, the minutes of the preceding annual meeting were read and approved, then came the treasurer's and general secretary's reports, after which were short talks by Revs. Schuler, Taylor, Beckman and Mr. Reed of the Civic Betterment league and Miss Louise Lowler, president of the university Y. W. C. A.

All the annual reports showed that the association was trying to do an active work under disadvantages and that the time has come when the workers must look for more commodious and larger quarters if it is to do the work it must do.

Among the activities of the past year carried on by the Y. W. C. A. are: Two Bible classes, two gymnasium classes, a reading circle, besides having a splendid library with a fine assortment of books which are at the disposal of anyone who wishes to read them. The present membership is 167, with about sixty in arrears, most of whom will renew. In the employment department since September there have been fifty-five applying for employment, fifty-seven wishing help and forty-five have been placed, to say nothing of the many taken care of by the association until employment could be found for them. A business girls' club is being formed which will have for its aim lines of recreation and self-development. At the meeting next week the girls will come together for a get-acquainted party in the form of a children's party to continue, which promises to be a jolly occasion. At some of the meetings interesting talks will be given on practical subjects.

Salary for Secretary.

An important line of work which the association has been taking up in the last month or six weeks is trying to raise the salary for a traveling secretary and it is happy to say that now part of the salary has been secured and before long it is hoped to have this secretary at the station.

The following women were elected to serve on the board of directors for the coming year: Mrs. H. Ives, Mrs. Roy Strone, Mrs. E. C. Butler, Mrs. R. E. Dietz, Mrs. Thomas Sabin and Mrs. O. P. LaBelle. The rest of the board consists of Mrs. John Morley, Miss Alice Boyd, Dr. Evelyn Frisbie, Miss Maude Radcliffe, Mrs. W. B. Childers and Miss Ida Elder.

A SECOND WASHOUT HOLDS TRAINS FROM WEST AT WINSLOW

Tuesday's eastbound California Limited and No. 2 still had not arrived here last night. At midnight these trains were held up at Winslow, Arizona. They were checked first by a washout between Los Angeles and Phoenix. When they were able to proceed they got as far as Winslow, Arizona, and another washout on the Albuquerque division, west of Gallup, stopped them again.

Train No. 1, which arrived at 7:30 p. m., from the east, was held here and consolidated with No. 9, which arrived at 11:50 p. m. The consolidated train was sent out early this morning, routed over a long detour to get around the washout. This train is going by way of Deming, Phoenix and Ash Fork, Arizona. No. 7 and the westbound California Limited, which arrived here yesterday morning, got no farther than Gallup. They were coming back to Albuquerque last night. Unless the road is opened between Gallup and Winslow soon they may be sent over the same route that No. 9 was.

The Santa Fe is operating "satellite" trains on the time of regular trains doing local work to handle passenger traffic.

DONA ANA COUNTY MAN IN TROUBLE IN EL PASO

El Paso, Tex., Jan. 19.—At a preliminary hearing before Justice Deaver yesterday afternoon, E. E. Moreno, said to have been a deputy sheriff of Dona Ana county, N. M., waived a preliminary examination to the charge of assault to murder placed against him, and was bound over to the grand jury in $500 bail.

It is alleged that Moreno shot at L. H. Smith, proprietor of a hotel on South El Paso street, last Friday, when Smith rapped on the door of his room and asked him and the guests to be more quiet, as complaints were coming into the office from other guests of the house. The bullet went wild, but Moreno was taken to the police station, along with his guests, and later transferred to the county jail, charged with disturbing the peace.

Moreno's companions were David Jaquez, M. S. Franco, H. S. Sains and Andres J. Buca.

BORN IN IRELAND.

His keen Irish wit and his warm-heartedness won Mr. Holwell the friendship of many persons and retained their affection for him.

Mr. Holwell lived with his sister, Miss Catherine Holwell. A brother, who is 85 years old, lives at Lexington, Mo. His mother died in Ireland while he was a young man.

He was born on a farm near Athleague in Roscommon county, Ireland, and came to the United States in his youth. During the civil war he was a freighter in the Shenandoah valley. After the war he lived in Missouri, at Lexington and St. Louis.

Funeral arrangements had not been made last night.

Miss Abrahamson Resigns.

COUNTY AGENT OFFER WILL SOON BE WITHDRAWN

Dr. George E. Ladd, President of the Agricultural College, Gives Commissioners Until February 1 to Act.

Bernalillo county must take some definite action before February 1, if it is desired to secure the co-operation of the State Agricultural college in the matter of obtaining a county agent. Dr. George E. Ladd, president of the college, who spent yesterday in Albuquerque, en route to Santa Fe, said that another county has applied for the aid that is to be offered Bernalillo county, and that in justice to the other county, the offer made to Bernalillo must be withdrawn if the county commissioners here do not take some definite action before the first of the coming month.

"In my opinion a county agent in this county will be one of the most important factors in the growth and development of this section of the valley," said Dr. Ladd. "County agents are now working in seven counties in the state—Colfax, Santa Miguel, Chavez, Eddy, Torrance, Dona Ana and Luna. These counties are being greatly benefited by the advice and encouragement of the agent."

At Beck of Every Farmer.

The duties of a county agent are many and varied. He is practically the back and call of every farmer and rancher in a county, and is ready to respond to a request for his services at any time of the day and night.

"In Bernalillo county in just one line of work, I can readily see where a county agent would be of inestimable benefit—that of teaching the native farmers how to raise a better grade of poultry, at the same effort and cost."

"This will mean meaty fowls, more eggs and much more money in the pockets of the ranchers."

Dr. Ladd, a man with a vision of the future greatness of New Mexico, is enthusiastic over the prospects for service by the college to the people of the state. He realizes deeply the important mission that the Agricultural college can play and must in the affairs of New Mexico; that the future development and growth of the state will receive a great and continued impetus provided there is active, energetic and intelligent co-operation on the part of the institution and of all the people of all New Mexico.

BIG CROWDS SEE TRIANGLE PLAYS AT THE PASTIME

From the crowds seen at the Pastime theater Tuesday and yesterday, afternoons and evenings, and almost every seat at each performance was taken, it is clear to anyone's mind that the management of that "show house" scored a decided hit when they signed a contract for the production here of the famous Triangle photographs, in conjunction with the William Fox plays and other high-class screen feature pictures. Everything was just as clear as a crystal, everything was just as the management had previously represented in the columns of the Journal, and all those who were fortunate to see "The Land," the first Triangle feature produced here, were well pleased and saw a most stirring and interesting production, with Douglas Fairbanks and Seena Owen playing the leading roles.

The other picture, produced Tuesday and yesterday, was "My Valer," and it also came in for its enthusiastic Raymond Hitchcock, Mabel Normand and Mack Sennett appeared in the title roles.

As announced elsewhere on this page, the second Triangle play, entitled, "The Iron Strain," will be the Pastime theater attraction today and tomorrow. This is an exciting six-reel drama, with Dustin Farnum, Enid Markey and Louise Glum, the principals, and they are all stage favorites. "A Game Old Knight," a two-reel Keystone comedy, will follow.

Time of shows: 1, 2:45, 4:30, 6:15, 8 and 9:45 p. m. Admission: Adults, 10 cents; children, 5 cents.

STRANDED COOK WANTS JOB; ANY KIND WILL SUIT

Healthy Young Alsatian Must Work to Eat; Will Earn Every Dollar Paid Him; He Says, and Looks Part.

Emile Voght wants a job. So do others. He wants to work so he can eat. Others have just as good reason and that probably would be reason enough to get Emile work with a charitable employer. That is not what Emile wants, however. He says so. He wants to earn every dollar he gets, and he looks entirely capable of doing so.

Voght is a young Alsatian, intelligent, healthy and strong, with clearness of eye and steadiness of nerve that mark him as a total stranger to John Bartley or M. Abner. He is a cook—and a good one, he said not boastfully but with simple frankness that impressed a hearer with the truth of his statement. Naturally he prefers to get a berth as a cook, but he will not draw the line at any kind of work. He just wants work and is not particular as to what he had to do if he can earn an honest dollar.

Scores With Politician.

Voght impressed with his sincerity a politician who has been in the game for many years and whose success has been partly due, at least, to his ability to judge men. He heard Voght's plea for work. He had no work to give, so he gave the youth a half dollar. Voght had not asked for money. The politician said he did not give readily to "mothers" and that he believed Voght was not of that class.

Voght is stranded here and his little supply of money is disappearing rapidly. Hence he is anxious to get work at once. He is staying at the Savoy hotel, Room 23.
