On the other hand, Senator Kern, the majority leader, upheld the action, asserting that it would proclaim to all nations that the president, in exercising his constitutional powers in the conduct of negotiations, spoke "not for himself, not for his party, but for all the people of his country who are prepared to back him with their lives in an insistence of American rights."

Emphatically asserting that there could be no confining of the senate action because of technical parliamentary entanglements, Senator Lodge, ranking republican member of the foreign relations committee, said the senate had gone on record as "opposing a warning to Americans and against interference with the executive."

Text of Resolution.
The text of the Gore resolution follows: "Whereas, a number of leading powers of the world are engaged in a war of unexampled proportions; and

"Whereas, the United States is happily at peace with all of the belligerent nations; and

"Whereas, it is equally the desire and the interest of the American people to remain at peace with all nations; and

"Whereas, the president has recently afforded fresh and general proofs of the superiority of diplomacy to butchery as a method of settling international disputes; and

"Whereas, the right of American citizens to travel on armed belligerent vessels, rather than upon unarmed vessels, is essential neither to their life, liberty or safety, nor to the independence, dignity or security of the United States; and

"Whereas, congress alone has been vested with the power to declare war, which involves the obligations to prevent war by all proper means consistent with the honor and vital interest of the nation; therefore, be it

Resolved by the senate, the house of representatives concurring, that it is the sense of congress, vested as it is with the sole power to declare war, that all persons owing allegiance to the United States should, in the exercise of their own safety and vital interest of the United States, forbear to exercise the right to travel as passengers upon any armed vessel of any belligerent power, whether such vessel be armed for offensive or defensive purposes, and it is the further sense of congress that no passport should be issued or renewed by the secretary of state, or by anyone acting under him, to be used by any person owing allegiance to the United States for the purpose of travel upon any such armed vessel of a belligerent power."

Sharp Words Exchanged.
During the roll call Senator Smoot, republican, asked to be excused from voting because he was not able to vote direct on the proposition. Senator Borah, republican, objected, but the senate voted to excuse him.

When Senator Stone, democrat, was called he arose to explain that Senator Salisbury, democrat, if present, would have voted aye on the original resolution.

Senator Borah, misunderstanding that Senator Stone was explaining the vote of a colleague, objected. "If this senate is going to be ragged, the senator from Missouri will be ragged with the rest of us," Senator Borah shouted.

When order was restored Senator Stone explained "on this resolution I vote aye."

There was some uncertainty among senators as to the status of the various resolutions when the roll call had begun.

It was explained then that Senator Jones had moved to lay not only the Gore warning resolution, but also the so-called corrected resolution, on the table. It was necessary then, for senators to express themselves as to warning and on the question of killing an American on an unarmed merchantman as a cause for war, in one vote.

For that reason Senator Gore voted to table because he did not favor his own substitute and had introduced it merely to get an expression of the senate on that issue.

Gore's Amendment.
The text of Senator Gore's addition to his original resolution and which was tabled with the warning resolution was as follows:

Resolved, by the senate, the house of representatives concurring, that the signing by a German submarine without notice or warning of an armed merchant vessel of her public enemy, resulting in the death of a citizen of the United States, would result in a just cause for war between the United States and the German empire."

Several senators explained that the double form of the question was responsible for the character of the vote as few senators wanted to vote on the question regarding a cause for war. Immediately after the vote in the senate, Senator Reed, democrat, read a statement saying he felt it was highly important that the impression in Germany that the country and congress was not behind the president should be removed and that, therefore, he was opposed to the Gore resolution.

In connection with his statement in the senate, Senator Reed assailed the sensational discussion in the senate yesterday.

"I believe the effect of those utterances yesterday are to assert that in this nation are those considering the interests of Germany rather than of the United States," he said. "There has been much talk of traitors. I believe it would be difficult to find in the United States one thousand men who would not assert the highest degree of loyalty to the country."

Senator Jones, republican, declared the tabling of the resolution had further befogged rather than clarified any issue.

"Nothing has been decided today, except that the senate of the United States can be gagged absolutely," he said. "We have not passed on the issue. We have only done like the ostrich and in the face of danger have covered our heads in the sand. I voted against the resolution on general principles. A motion to table is always made either to cut off debate or to avoid an issue."

"Have we complied with the request of the president? What did he say to Representative Poy? That he felt justified in asking permission to urge an early vote on the resolution in order to give an opportunity for full public discussion, and this is the full public discussion we have."

"Perhaps the senator from Washington is not in touch with the subterranean passages of the White House," suggested Senator Borah.

Issue Not Settled.
"It is easy to introduce another resolution," continued Senator Jones. "The senate has not settled the issue yet. The president is not advised on the sentiment of the senate on this proposition and the people of this country and the nations abroad know it."

In re-introducing his resolution, Senator McCumber protested that debate could not be shut off and that today or tomorrow he would call up his resolution.

Senator Clarke, democrat, of Arkansas, also protested against the senate's action, although he voted with the majority.

"This is no overlooking the fact," he said, "that all the declarations of this government are led in a certain direction; that official America at least was interested in the success of one of the contestants, and it does not require much ingenuity to determine which side it was on."

commendation that he laid on the table. Under the constitution the practice and precedents in this country, the conduct of diplomatic negotiations has been left to the president and with this practice the committee of the house is in accord. We know that if the president reaches a point in any negotiation with foreign governments in which he has exercised his power in the premises, he will in the usual way report all facts and circumstances to congress for its consideration."

Three other proposals were voted down by the committee. One, offered by Mr. Shackelford, declared confidence in the president and containing a warning feeling, received only four votes. The Gore resolution, offered by Representative Thompson, carried one vote.

Representative Harrison's motion to report the McCumber resolution and recommend its tabling without further comment, was defeated without a record vote.

"The administration is well pleased with the committee action," Chairman Flood said later.

"Under the rules of the house, only forty minutes debate will be allowed on the rule under which the report will be brought up. The rules committee will meet tomorrow morning at 10 o'clock to provide the necessary rule to get matter before the house. There was a general disposition displayed among all factions to dispose of the entire controversy as quickly as possible."

Senators in Muddle.
Senators who most recently rejected the demand from the White House that the Gore resolution be defeated were inclined tonight to gloat over what they characterized as the out-manoeuvring of the administration. Mr. More's reason of the wrongdoing and confusion over Mr. More's demand for permission to amend his resolution, many senators had no clear conception of what they were voting on. An amendment to the resolution was adopted of almost the direct opposite meaning of the original, and some senators were inclined to renew with consternation the action of the senate.

The more experienced parliamentarians, however, pointed out that Senator Jones' motion to table was broad enough to cover the entire gamut of proposals to interfere with a declaration of the president's right to conduct negotiations with foreign governments without congressional hindrance.

The president personally did not comment on the action of the senate, preferring to gain more information about the parliamentary situation and centering his attention on the expected action of the house.

Administration officials generally, however, regarded the outcome as satisfactory and pointed to the fact that Senator Gore had introduced an amendment directly opposite to the original resolution and then had voted to table his own amendment as a clear indication that he realized his battle was lost and that the president had won.

There was some discussion in administration circles of forcing a direct vote on the reintroduced McCumber resolution warning Americans off armed ships. It was the expectation of most of the leaders, however, that nothing further would be done in the senate at the president's request.

Brandeis Probe Taken Up From Different Angle
Washington, March 3.—A new line of inquiry was inaugurated today by the senate committee considering the nomination of Louis D. Brandeis to the supreme court. The committee, headed by Senator William H. Ingersoll, a watch manufacturer of New York, were summoned to testify, it is understood, as to what connection, if any, Mr. Brandeis had with the unsuccessful campaign for passage of the Stevens price maintenance bill by congress.

There was no announcement of the committee's exact purpose, but Senator Walsh said that Whitman had been asked to appear because it had come to the committee informally that he might know something adverse to Brandeis.

The only testimony heard so far by the committee as to Brandeis' part in the price maintenance campaign was that of A. Whitaker, secretary of the American Fair Trade League, who said that Brandeis refused pay for furthering the objects of the league—the passage of such a measure in the Stevens bill.

The entire time of the committee today was consumed by Edward P. McClellan, a member of the Brandeis law firm, in explaining Brandeis' connection with the Warren bill case, and the Gillette safety razor case.

FOREIGN POLICY OF BULGARIA APPROVED
Sofia, March 3. (Via Amsterdam) London, 3.08 a. m.)—Premier Radokoff in a review of the recent leading to the co-operation of Bulgaria in the war with the central powers, declared that all the parties in Bulgaria now unanimously approve of the government's foreign policy.

The premier laid emphasis on the character of the territorial acquisitions which he said had been gained with Bulgarian blood, but he added that the government did not aspire to further acquisitions, but was content to make a declaration regarding the future of Serbia or Montenegro, but said the relations of Bulgaria with Greece and Rumania were excellent and that these two countries were observing a neutrality which was in no way prejudicial to Bulgaria.

GERMANY REPLIES IN APPAM LINER SUIT
Norfolk, Va., March 3.—The German government's reply to the libel suit instituted in the federal court here by British owners of the liner Appam to recover possession of the ship was filed in the court today by Lieutenant Hans Berg, commander of the German prize crew which brought the steamer Appam into Hampton Roads, and L. M. von der Goltz, German consul here. It denied the court's jurisdiction on the ground that the liner is the lawful property of the German government as a prize of war, and that it is entitled to remain indefinitely in American waters and was exempt from any legal process of arrest, search or otherwise.

A date for hearing probably will be set by the court tomorrow.

SALARY GRAFT INVESTIGATION IN CHICAGO ENDS

Jealousy Claimed to Be at Bottom of Mrs. Eaton's Charges Against Bureau Welfare Chief.

Chicago, March 3.—The case of Mrs. Louise Osborne Rowe, superintendent of the bureau of welfare charged by her subordinate, Mrs. Page Walker Eaton with compelling the latter to turn over a third of her salary as head of the social service department, was given to the civil service commission tonight.

The commission cannot inflict any penalty. Mrs. Rowe's position is not under civil service and the commission can only recommend action to the mayor, who has the power to dismiss Mrs. Rowe. The case came before the commission because Mrs. Eaton's position was covered by the civil service law and Mrs. Eaton complained that this law was being violated.

Whether a grand jury shall take action will be decided by State's Attorney Hoyne.

Jealousy the Cause.
Mrs. Eaton is jealous of the charge made by Mrs. Page Walker Eaton against her superior, Mrs. Louise Osborne Rowe, head of the social welfare bureau of Chicago, according to Mrs. Rowe's testimony.

"Mrs. Eaton is jealous of me and of the good work done by the department," Mrs. Rowe testified. "She wanted my job in the first place. She flattered me and was over-gracious. She told me I was fair and square, but I was always dubious about her."

Mrs. Rowe's opening statement from the witness stand was "Mrs. Eaton's accusation is wholly false."

An attempt by attorneys for Mrs. Eaton to learn whether Mrs. Rowe plays poker, in order to show just what she meant when she told reporters "I'll stand pat," was frustrated by the objection of attorneys for Mrs. Rowe.

CECIL SATISFIED WITH PRESENT SITUATION
London, March 3. (6.05 p. m.)—Discussing the duties of his new position today with the Associated Press, Lord Cecil, minister of war trade, said: "Co-ordination has been secured. We expect by the adoption of the new plan suggested by Consul General Skinner to greatly assist American shippers in their trade with neutrals."

We are now considering the contract band list to see if it is adequate to present conditions.

"The blockade will be conducted on a more business-like basis," he said. "Although Consul General Skinner's opinion is that the blockade is a necessary measure, I can say that the new plan of dealing with American shippers was his suggestion."

"Under the new plan the machinery, which has been left to British cable and consular officers in America, will be put in operation whereby the British government will give American shippers information as to the probable fate of any cargo they desire to ship."

"The government will reserve the right to stop a ship if any suspicious circumstances arise warranting such action. He will not attempt to dictate to American shippers what they shall ship, as we do to our own shippers, but will give them all necessary information."

"We hope that this plan will prove of great advantage to small shippers who under the present system, cannot afford to assume the financial risk of shipping without knowing that the consignments will reach their destination."

CONTEMPT CHARGE AGAINST REPORTER
New York, March 3.—Contempt charges preferred against Leonard M. Holmes, a New York Times reporter, for refusing to answer questions in a hearing before the grand jury investigating the impeachment of United States District Attorney H. Snowden Marshall, by Representative Frank Buchanan, will be presented to the house of representatives, Chairman Carlisle of the committee announced late today.

After Chairman Carlisle had ordered Holmes arrested for refusing to disclose the source of information upon which was based a statement printed in his paper, the grand jury indicted him for contempt.

Chairman Carlisle explained that the statutes placed the matter in the hands of congress.

WOMEN STRIKERS SHOW FIGHTING ABILITY
New York, March 3.—The first serious disorder that has marked the strike of shirt makers in this city, which began two weeks ago, occurred today. Women strikers bombarded with bricks, stones and other missiles non-union workers who were riding in automobiles to plants in the Williamsburg section, to solve the problem of using force in quelling the disturbance and the alleged ringleaders were arrested. Several of the strikebreakers were badly bruised.

AMERICAN MAYORS TO PROMOTE DEFENSE

St. Louis, March 3.—A permanent organization of American mayors to promote the cause of national defense was effected here today at a meeting of mayors and their representatives of large cities.

The organization is to be known as the National Defense Conference of Mayors. Mayor Kiel of St. Louis, who presided, appointed a committee on resolutions of eleven men. This committee is to report Saturday afternoon.

The principal speakers at today's session were Mayor Mitchell of New York, Cornelius Vanderbilt of New York, and Professor Roland Usher of Washington University, St. Louis.

General George Harris, of Omaha, speaking at the afternoon session, referred to the "authorized murder" of American soldiers during the Spanish-American war through negligence.

He said army officers were humiliated by the incident, displayed in the presence of the military attaches of foreign nations.

The principal meeting of the conference took place tonight. The principal speakers were Robert Bacon, former secretary of state, Richard L. Metcalf, of Omaha; Luke E. Wright, former secretary of war, and Owen Miller, secretary of the American Federation of Musicians, who spoke for organized labor.

OBREGON AND BRIDE EN ROUTE TO EL PASO
Nogales, Ariz., March 3.—General Alvaro Obregon, commander of the de facto government troops of Mexico, and his bride, formerly Miss Tapia, who were married yesterday at Hermosillo, passed through here this afternoon on their way to El Paso. They are en route to Queretaro, Mexico, temporary capital of General Carranza.

General Obregon and his bride crossed the international border from Nogales, Sonora, and immediately went to their special car which was attached to a waiting eastbound train.

SHOOTING AFFRAY IN COLORADO; ONE DEAD
Pueblo, Colo., March 3.—W. C. Sparks was instantly killed and John Akens and the latter's mother were shot and seriously injured in a shooting affray late Friday afternoon near Boone, 20 miles east of Pueblo. The trouble is alleged to have been over testimony given today in court regarding a land claim.

It is alleged that Sparks went to Akens ranch, and with a revolver in hand, stated that he was "going to settle the question" and immediately opened fire on John Akens. The first shot hit Akens.

The mother ran toward the house, but a bullet from Sparks' revolver struck her in the shoulder and she fell. It is said.

Chester Akens, a brother of John, was in the house, and seeing the affray, is alleged to have seized a rifle and shot Sparks, killing him instantly.

Chester Akens is in the custody of the sheriff of Pueblo county, while John Akens and his mother are in a Pueblo hospital, where it is said little hope is entertained for their recovery.

SOFT COAL MINERS YIELD A POINT

New York, March 3.—After hope had been abandoned today of reaching an agreement on the wage increases asked by the United Mine Workers in negotiations over a new contract for the soft coal fields of the middle west, the situation took a slightly favorable turn and tonight both operators and miners said there still was a chance of reaching a settlement.

The miners will meet early tomorrow and it is expected they will present some figures relating to dead work and yardage on the mine basis, which may ease up the situation and bring the two sides together.

If they do not agree, a strike die adjournment will result and each of the four states involved will try to make wage contracts by districts, something which both sides have tried to avoid, it is said.

The miners today cut down their demand for a 10 per cent increase for dead work and yardage to 5 per cent and also cut the 20 per cent increase demand for men paid by the day to 10 per cent. This was rejected by the operators. The miners voted down a proposition to cut the tonnage increase from 3 cents to 2 cents with a compromising reduction in the advances asked in the other classes of work.
