BELLEVILLE, Ill., March 21.—Yesterday even-ing the citizens of Centreville, this county, were hocked with the news that a horrible murder had been perpetrated a few miles south of that town, on the Saxtown road, upon a family by the name of Stetsenreide. Mr. Ben Schneider, a neighbor of Stetsenreide, went to their house to get seed-potatoes, and discovered on entering the house that the family. HAD BEEN BRUTALLY MURDERED. He immediately went to Contreville to make known his discovery, upon which Constable Sargent notified Sheriff Hughes of the occurrence, who proceeded to the place of the horridle deed.

who proceeded to the place of the horridis deed.

THE STETSENBEIDE FAMILY
consisted of five persons: Hr. Stetsenreide, Sr., 75 years old; Stetsenreide, Jr., 25 years old, his wife, and two children, respectively 3 years and 8 months old. The house which the murdered family occupied consisted of three rooms. The front room was occupied by young Stetsenreide and his family. The adjoining room was occupied by the old gentleman. The murder was evidently committed on Thursday night.
THE BODY OF YOUNG STETSENBEIDE
was found two steps from his sleeping room with the threat cut and skull split open with an axe. He must have made a desperace striggle for life, as his hands were severely cut with a knife. The wife was of this hierovery, after, and controlled to have been caused by a family feud. Frederick Boeltz, brother-in-law of Fritz Stetsenreide, Jr., is strongly suspected, from the fact of his owing the murdered family money, and hard feelings existing between them. Ninety dollars, paid to Stetseuroide by one of the mils at Centraville on Tuesday, was found in the house; also $7 in the murdered woman's pocket. The Coroner's Jury had not brought in a verdict up to a late hour this evening.

Sr. Louis, Merch 21.—Additional, but still mergre information from the scene of the Contreville butchery has been received. The name of the murdered family is Stetzenreide, not Stiltenriter, as previously recorted.

AT THE INQUEST

Stiltenriter, as previously reported.

AT THE INQUEST
this evening, held by Coroner Regan, of East St. Louis, several winesses were examined, and facts were elicited which lead to the belief that Fred Roeth, husband of a sister of Mrs.
Steizenreide, committed the horrible deed.
He was present, but refused to tesuify until forced to, and then his auswers and general conduct were such as to excite the strongest suspucions of his guilt. He acknowledged that he had been on bad terms with the murdered family for some months. He entertained feelings of enmity toward them, and was in the oid mar
Stetzenreide's debt several hundred dollars.
These and other facts brought out, together with Stetzenreide's debt several hundred dollars. These and other facts brought out, together with another fact that the house was not ransacked and pillaged, as previously stated, and that the old man's, Stetsenreide's, money was found, establish beyond doubt that the murder was not committed for plunder, and tend more strongly to fasten suspicion upon Boeltz. When our informant left the scene, the inquest was still in progress, and the verdict had not yet been received, but the probabilities are that Boeltz will be committed.

Highway Lobbery near Cincinnati. epecial Dispatch to The Chicago Iribune.
Cincinnati, O., March 21.—Your reporter has to-day obtained facts confirmatory of the rumor that reached the city late last night, that Mr. N. B. Bepler, of the prominent firm of Bepler & Co., bankers and European steamship agents, northwest corner of Third and Main streets, had been attacked and probably fatally shot by highway robbers while he was on his way home from the city. Mr. Gates, who lives at Sedamsville, just west of this city, went down to the I. C. & L. Railroad depot in the evening of yesterday. to take the train home, and there met Mr. Be p ler, who was also going out to his residence on the Delhi pike, two miles south of Sedamsville. They went together until the station was reached, twenty minutes later, were Mr. Bepler was MET BY HIS HIRED MAN with his private carriage.

Mr. Bepler, having an hour to spare, visited his brother-in-law, Mr. Brehmer, in the village, and about half-past 7 o'clock entered his carriage with his driver to be driven home. When they reached a point about a mile north of Sedamsville.

The robber then went to Mr. Bepler and repeated his demand, but that gentleman, not easily overcome by the sight and oread of a cocked revolver, jumped out of the carriage and, refusing to be deprived of money or valuables.

BEGAN TO BEASON WITH THE FELLOW.

By this time the other footpad left his post at the horace's head and came to his fellow criminal's aid, but this increase of desperate force had no effect on Mr. Bepler, and with his reason interspered some words that indicated a resistance to the last if they attempted to the anything away spered some words that indicated a resistance to the last if they attempted to take anything away from him by force, the pistel still in the hand of the first man was BROUGHT TO BEAR ON MR. BEPLER'S BREAST as an argument, but failed to convinced him that he should pass over all he had in his pockets. It was at this point of parleying, when the struggle commenced.

but neither of which appeared to effect its aim, though the villains succeeded in overpowering their victim, and fetching from his pockets all the money he had, which was only 50 cents, and a watch. During the altercation, and just previous to the fining, two young ladies—the Misses Williams—drove up. Mr. Bepler asked them to remain, but they were too baily frightened to hear his request, and, giving whip and rein to their horse, drove rapidly away to give the alarm.

The robbers, having effected their purpose, (See Fourth Page.)
