As aunounced yesterday morning, D. O'Leary will this sconing commonce the feat of walking 100 miles in twenty-four consecutive hours, at the West Side Rink, corner of Handolph and Ada streets. He appears confident of success, judging from the boastful tone of the circulars he has caused to be distributed, and, no doubt, his entertainment will be liberally patronized by those who admire this phase of athletic sport.

which her spine was dislocated. She had suffered acutely, had been paralyzed during the winter, and at the time of her vielt to Lourdes was quite unable to go up or down stairs. For two days after her arrival she was unable to bear the short drive from the town to the Grotto, but on the morning of the 28th she made up her mind to brave the cold and the suffering entailed by any movement. She went in a certrage to the Grotto and was assisted down into the bath. On entering the bath her sufferings became more acute and seemed almost beyond endurance. Her sister, in the true spirit of a Protestant, oxiciaimed, 'There was no need for you to come to Lourdes to take a cold bath.' But the failh of the poor lady never failed for a moment. She begged her sister to rub her limbs. Immediately an indescribable feeling of comfort took the place of her pain, and she was cured. In a few moments she hastened to the Grotto to roturn thanks to Our Lady the thealth of the Sick. Her husband kfielt bosed her, joining his thankegivings with those that areas from her heart. He has since published a letter giving an account of her former state, and declaring that she is perfectly well and able to walk as she used to do in her youth.'

—The people of Saratoga and Whitfield Townships, in Marshall County, Ill., are somewhat exected over several deeds lately filed for record in that county, and covering a number of farms in the townships named. It appears that some fifty years ago one William Rector was the owner of a large tract of land there. Most, if not all, of the land was neglected, and was sold for taxes, and passed into the hands of the present holders. Now it appears, by deeds, that Rector conveyed some of the land to one Elizabeth Brady, of New York City, and she has lately conveyed for interest to one William H. Beck. Beck is reported to be a Washington (D. C.) lawyor, and doubtless bought the Brady interest on speculation. It is not probable that he can dispossess the present holders of the property, but he may make them trouble, and perhaps secture money from them as a way of avoiding litigation.

A Durham Superstition.

A Durham Superstition,

A late correspondent of Notes and Queries gives this singular account of a curious bit of tolk-lore which prevails in some parts of Durham:

"An old lady friend of mine was jokingly remarking that she had once been charged with causing the death of a baby. I asked, 'How so?' She replied that a poor neighbor woman having just been delivered of a baby, she was sent for; wondering very much why she was wanted, she went, and when she arrived at the house was yery much surprised at inding the house full of women, each having a glass of spirit to drink. She was at once asked what she would have to drink. 'Oh, nothing,' she replied, 'Oh dear, but you must,' was the hearty response. So, rather than offend the poor people, she took a glass of spirit, and remaining a short time with the strange assembly, contrived to hide her glass of spirit and leave the place, glad to get away from such a gathering. A short time afterward she called to see the poor woman who had been confined, and was met with looks rather shy and queer. As she could not understand this, she asked, 'Whatelyer is the matter, my good confined, and was not with looks rather shy and queer. As she could not understand this, she asked, 'Whatever is the matter, my good woman?' 'Oh! Mrs. II., yoh should no hev donelso, yoh hev kill's my bonny bairn.' 'Whatever do you mean, my good woman ?' she asked. 'Oh! Mrs. II., you left your glass of spirit. Yoh did no drink it, so my bonny bairn died. Yoh hev kill't my bonny bairn.' On making further inquirles, she learnt that each one who goes into ahouse on the occasion of a brith must drink a glass of spirit, else the child will not live."

A Million of Postage-Stamps. A Million of Postage-Stamps.

Oct. 1, 1872, a young lady of Middletown, Ct., set about the collection of 1,000,000 of postage-stamps in two years. Inspired by the absurdity of the enterprise, and the impossibility of its accomplishment, her friends promised all sorts of things when sho achieved the million. This she rather resented, and it set her to work with greater determination than ever. She is now on the three last menths of the allotted time, and has gathered ever gifts when she had gathered a million begin to weaken, and are inquiring about the probable price of silks, posies, phaetons, dismonds, and watches, all of which were named as prizes to be awarded when the feat was accomplished.

A Mad World.

From the American Israelite.

The world is fairly under way to get stark crazy. On the one hand pletures and statues work miscles and derange the brains of ten thousands of people otherwise in good health. Elsewhere people run stark and with Sabbath laws, prohibitory laws against the sale of whisky, God in the Constitution, proselytizing and bayic Lizing, if possible, everybody and his wife. Again, in other places, they rattle into our ears ovid rights bills, seeind equality of the races, destruction of the public schools to carry out an abstract idea, and people still claim being sane and sound.
