OBSERVATIONS. MANUFACTURING SYMPATHY.

Special Dispatch to The Tribune. NEW YORK, Feb. 8.—The Times says: The sharp contrast between the two Republican and the three Democratic members of the Congressional Committee sent here to investigate the cipher dispatches secured for the former the preponderance of the applause bestowed by audiences during the sessions of the Committee up to Friday night. From number of Democratic "peelers" in the crowd that blockaded the corridor outside of Parlor F of the Fifth-Avenue Hotel this morning, each of whom seemed provided with a special admission slip bearing the signature of the Hon. William M. Springer, of Illinois, it would appear that the majority had taken measures to secure a claque that would be more in sympathy with the witness of the day. Messrs. Hisscock and Reed were tardy in making their appearance, and their absence was taken advantage of to PACK THE ROOM in accordance with this design. Mr. Reed himself had difficulty in entering, and it was not until he and his colleague had interceded for them that the ban of exclusion was lifted from the reporters. The excuse given for these extraordinary precautions was that the announcement that Mr. Tilden would testify would probably draw too great a crowd. During the delay it was said Mr. Tilden's friends had sought strongly to dissuade him from taking the stand on the ground of physical inability to undergo the ordeal, and fears were expressed that they might have suc-ceeded at the eleventh hour, but the suspense was ended at 11:30 o'clock, when the side door of the chamber suddenly opened, and the de feated candidate for the Presidency

STOOD HESITATINGLY ON THE THRESHOLD. He was attired in a black suit, with a stiff standing collar and black necktie, brown overcoa and high beaver hat. Except for an unusual paleness, his countenance gave no indication of any emotion. He wore the expression that has heen habitual to him of recent years of being in a perpetual stupor, and moved to the seat reserved for him with the motion of an automaton. He was accompanied by his brother Henry, Messrs. John

Bigelow and Henry F. Dimock. Having been assisted in taking off his overcoat by the smiling Springer (an attention he did not recognize). Mr. Tilden sat down and remained without the motion of a muscle until Chairman Hunton stood up to swear him. He arose with a confused turning of his head from side to side, and, noticing the outheld book, placed his haad mechanically upon it. The ceremony

DROPPED INTO HIS CHAIR AGAIN, and sat in a heap like a dead man until aroused by the Chairman's courteous intimation that the Committee were waiting to hear from him. Then, with a series of short gasps, he began to recite a tale of innocence and ignorance that any reader will see had been prepared with exceeding care and committed to memory. His voice was pitched so low that he made spasmodic efforts in response to frequent requests of the Committee to speak in a higher key. The Chairman was compelled to quit his chair of office at the end of the table and take a seat at his side in order to hear him. It

A PITIABLE SPECTACLE to look upon, this infirm old man, his expressionless countenance seamed all over with physical decay, his thin gray hairs straying confusedly in all directions on his poll, his feeble body sunken into a heap, and his transparent hands shaking violently with palsy, mumbling denials which few unprejudiced listeners doubted were untrue, so utterly inconsistent were they with the ordinary circumstances of everyday life. Every few moments, often in the mid dle of a sentence, he would stop for breath, and then go on without inflection or indication of any kind that any other faculty of his mind than memory was in play. The witness began to take on

SOME APPEARANCE OF LIFE, and now and then a rounded sentence reached the eager ears of the throng in the rear of the small room. This was when he was proclaiming his incorruptible virtue. Once there was an attempt at applause, but Mr. Hunton was on his feet in an instant, announcing that the room would be cleared on repetition.

When Mr. Tilden had finished his piece he fell back seemingly exhausted. To Mr. Reed's first question on cross-examination, Mr. Tilden answered, "I don't recollect," and this was a sample of the information it was possible to extract from him on the subject at issue. When pressed into a corner he deliberately sworn he had taken no special interest in the election, had received no tele grams informing him of probable results in the contested States; that no such information obtained by the National Committee or anybody else was imparted to him, and that all he knew he learned from members at another time. . Worried by persistent questions of his tormentors, he so far forgot himself as to

SPEAK SLIGHTINGLY OF HIS NEPHEW, and then, recognizing the meanness of the act, violently assailed the Republican portion of the Committee for, as he charged, prying without warrant into his private affairs, sequently he burst out into Sub an appeal to "God and his country" to witness that his firm belief was that the Electoral votes of Florida had been purchased by the Reoublicans, and that this had changed the re sult of the election.

PRICE FIVE CENTS.

He went on with a good deal more to the same effect, emphasizing his remarks by HAMMERING WITH HIS CLENCHED FIST

ipon the table. Mr. Hiscock waited quietly until he had finished, and then demanded the private or other information upon which he founded his assertion, and the names of his informants. Completely taken aback by this demand, Mr. Tilden tried to squirm out of it, but was forced to acknowledge that his only "information" consisted of newspaper rumors. Then, catching at a straw, he said his belief had been founded upon McLin's testimony before the Potter Committee. Mr. ligscock denied that Judge McLin had testified to anything of the kind. On the contrary, he had explicitly maintained that in his action as Elector he was guided by strict conscientious-ness. Mr. Hiscock appealed to his Democratic colleagues to say whether he was not right.

Mr. Tilden turned his head supplicatingly toward these gentlemen, but they were mute,

WENT ON FOR NEARLY THREE HOURS Finally, at 1:45 p. m., the Committee gave Mr. Tilden permission to go. As Mr. Hiscock arose to let him pass out, he unexpectedly grabbed that gentleman by the waistcoat and began pouring a long private communication into his right ear. Mr. Reed gallantly came to his colleague's rescue with an unimportant question that compelled Mr. Tilden to seat himself again. Then Mr. Hunton, who seemed to have just awakened to the damage his political champion had done himself. EVOLVED AN ABSURD QUERY as to whether, in witness' opinion, it was not proper to think that if Electoral votes of the disputed States were not purchased by one side they were by the other. Mr. Reed immediately objected, and amid great laughter, in which Mr. Tilden joined, asked for a ruling by the Chair. Mr. Hunton was compelled to declare his own auestion out of order.

This ended Mr. Tilden's examination. During the cross-examination of Smith, Til-den's Secretary, Mr. Reed threw out a vague idea that he and his colleague had some mysterious telegrams in reserve. This so alarmed the Democratic members of the Committee that they began to ply the other side with

ALL SORTS OF QUESTIONS.

The latter were quick to appreciate the ludicrousness of the situation, and shaped their answers so as to mystify still further the majority, who only realized they were being fooled when the audience, no longer able to contain themselves, burst into a shout of The open session of the Committee was brilliantly wound up with another of those amusing passages at arms, so many of which Mr. Springer and his colleagues have been worsted during the past few days by the witty Mr. Reed. The Committee then went into executive session, and finally adjourned shortly after 3 o'clock.

TILDEN.

THE OLD MAN MAKES A GENERAL PROTEST. NEW YORK, Feb. S .- At the meeting of the Committee engaged in investigating the cipher disnatches. Samuel J, Tilden, immediately upon entering the room, was sworn by Mr. Hunton, the Chairman, who said: "Gov. Tilden, we re ceived your note expressing your willingness to

Mr. Tilden-I have a cold, and cannot speak very loud. The publication and translations in the New York papers I have read. I did not recognize a single dispatch, either in the cipher or translation, which I had ever seen before. I never entered into any arrangements to purchase the vote of South Carolina or Florida. I had no information and no suspicion that any such communications were being carried on until I saw the dispatches published in the New York Tribune. I had no knowledge and no dealings with any parties to these negotiations. I NEVER AUTHORIZED ANY SUCH NEGOTIATIONS in any form whatever. On the morning of Nov. 20, 1876, Mrs. Col. Pelton mentioned in my presence that eer husband had gone for the day. I didn't know that he had gone or was going out of the city. He went to Philadelphia, I believe. Later in the day I was called on by Mr. Cooper, who was on his way down-town, and was told by him that he had received an offer from some party, offering to obtain, for money, the vote of South Carolina. I said that I would authorize no such transaction, nor spend money for any such purpose. The whole conversation occupied only a few minutes. I obtained Col. Pelton's address in Baltimore, and telegraphed to him to come home. I know nothing of the ciphers that had been passing between bim and others,

I COULD NOT HAVE TRANSLATED THEM. With regard to Florida, I never saw one of the telegrams, either in cipher or translation. I did not know, and was not informed, that negotiations were going on in regard to illegally obtaining certificates of the Returning Board. Some time after, Mr. Marble called and told me, in a casual kind of way, about the corruption of the Returning Board of Florida.

I never saw any of those dispatches relating to Florida, either in cipher or translation. In regard to the Oregon dispatches, I did not know that they came in cipher until after the meeting of the Committee to investigate them Some of the dispatches were addressed to my residence, No. 15 Gramercy Park. I do not know that any of those dispatches were ever delivered there. Col. Pelton's habits of mind and mine are very different. A day or two after the election, Gen. Grant wrote a letter, recommending committees to go South and see a fair count. I had nothing to do with the selection of those committees. I never heard from them but once, and that was by a communication signed by Ottendorfer others. I was very busy all the time, and did undertake to correct the idea that they were my personal agents, and this report

HAD NO FOUNDATION. They represented the Democratic party. None of them, so far as I know, went to these States authorized to do anything that a gentleman might not do.

From the 7th of November, 1876, until Dec. 6. of the some year, under no circumstance did I enter into any combination for seeking certificates by venal inducement. There never was an hour nor a minute that I entertained such a thought. To the people who, as I believe, elected me as President of the United States, to 4,000,000 of citizens who were defrauded, I owed it to proclaim that I would not yield one jot or tittle of my right. Whatever evil may result from this subversion of the electoral system, and of a free Government, I resolved that I would enter into no auction for the purchase of the Chief Magistracy. [Cheers, which the Chairman suppressed.] I was resolved that I would continue to protest against a wrong by which the people were defrauded out of their
