THE WEATHER.

The daily record of the thermometer in this city is reported by A. T. Poyler, druggist, First street. The record for yesterday was: 7 a. m., 45 degrees; 12 m., 76 degrees; 4 p. m., 73 degrees; 8 p. m., 59 degrees.

Subscriptions to the Standard will be received at the business office, or at the store of Crockett & King, Main street. Advertising rates can be learned at the business office, Standard Building, corner of Main and Third streets.

ABOUT THE CITY.

The Deer Lodge county commissioners meet next Monday as a board of equalization and to dispose of other business.

Word was received in this city yesterday that extensive forest fires are doing considerable damage in the vicinity of Elliston.

Readers of the STANDARD will notice that the temperature reported for four different hours in the twenty-four is given on this page.

The Northern Pacific Express company will soon have its new quarters in Second street, just east of Main, fitted up in comfortable style.

The infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Rasc will be buried this afternoon. Services are announced to be held in the Presbyterian church.

The passenger train arriving in this city at 8:30 o'clock, last night, did not make connection at Stuart with the train from Garrison.

The ladies who are guests at the Montana propose an excursion to-day to Warm Spring. A large company will be made up and a pleasant day is anticipated.

The STANDARD is perfecting its plans for daily distribution in town as rapidly as possible. The fact that none of the dwellings are numbered makes the task difficult.

Arrangements have been made for a republican rally to be held in Anaconda Wednesday evening of next week. Congressman Reed of Maine will be the orator of the evening.

Marcus Daly's Yolo Maid won the three-day all-pace race at Sacramento Thursday in three straight heats. The other contestants were Adams and Gold Leaf. Time, 2:12, 2:14, 2:15.

A garden party is to be held this afternoon for the entertainment of the children of St. Mark's Episcopal church. It will begin at 2 o'clock on the grounds attached to J. H. Durston's residence, corner of Cherry and Third streets.

Every electric light in the town went out at 8:30 o'clock last night, and the city was in darkness for about ten minutes. The interruption of the service was unavoidable, and was due to slight derangement of the machinery in the power house.

The members of the Lowland club are requested to attend a meeting to be held in the Montana next Monday evening at 8 o'clock. Officers will be elected, and plans made for the year to come. A large attendance is requested. The club closes a very successful year. It has given a large number of elegant socials and its officers are entitled to compliment for the success that marked the season. The popularity of the club insures a large membership for the coming year. It is probable that most of the entertainments during next winter will be given in the parlors of the Montana. It is proposed to arrange for better music than has been at command in the past and to make the series brilliant in every respect.

A Bracelet on His Leg. The spectacle of a man wearing a ball and chain on his leg attracted the attention of the populace at the corner of Main and First streets yesterday afternoon. His name was John Dilly and he was not the handsomest man this side of the Mississippi. Mr. Dilly was ironed because he refused to work out a fine of $10 and costs imposed upon him for vagrancy. He declared he was not a vagrant, and his arrest and conviction having been diabolically unjust, he wouldn't let the city get any work out of him.

Going Ahead Rapidly. Work on the big iron smelter at Carroll goes ahead at a spanking pace. The foremen believe that the building will be completed by the first of October, and that the large gang of men regularly employed before the fire will have constant occupation again. It is interesting to see with what speed the immense sections of the structure are brought together. Part of the machinery in the boiler room and silver mill is running in good shape, and October promises to be a busy and prosperous month in Carroll.

Coal. The Montana Lumber & Produce company are now receiving large consignments of Lohigh, stove and nut, Colorado anthracite and Rock Springs coal selected especially for family use, which they are prepared to furnish to consumers at bottom prices, in small lots or by the car load.

Notice. The undersigned having discontinued his business, hereby authorizes Mr. N. H. Morley to collect all outstanding bills and give receipts for the same. WM. SUTTER.

Eloquent Speakers Talking Politics to the Voters of Anaconda.

Congressman Cassidy Putting the Case in Words that Everybody Could Understand—Judge Kirkpatrick's Eloquent Review of the Situation.

Two more powerful and convincing addresses have not been delivered during the present campaign in Montana than those to which the magnificent audience assembled in Evans opera house had the pleasure of listening last night. The hall was packed to its utmost capacity, many remaining standing throughout. The exercises were prefaced by an inspiring selection by the band, and then John Dougherty, president of the Anaconda democratic club introduced Hon. M. Kirkpatrick of Butte. Judge Kirkpatrick said he was a newcomer in Montana, and he had been received with such open-hearted welcome by her hospitable citizens without regard to party that it did not become him to criticize any of the candidates now before the people. He should assume that both parties had put forward their best men. By way of preface, Judge Kirkpatrick, who at once showed himself to be an orator of unusual culture and polish, dwelt at some length on the dignity of American citizenship. The democratic party is opposed to any dictation, any control over the voters of free men. It is the policy of the party to let the voters speak for themselves and to let the democratic party oppose a free ballot and that they threaten to repeal the registration laws. If there is one thing the democratic party is desirous of, it is a pure ballot and its protection by every needed safeguard. What it does assert is that the registration law should be repealed and amended to suit Montana's circumstances. A law copied from the statutes of New York or other densely populated community obviously is not adapted to this state. There must be some modification. The democratic party, in the very nature of things, is desirous of a pure ballot and a free vote. Who are its greatest enemies? The worldly manufacturers of the north who control great masses of labor. Could the democrats make a successful fight against these oppressors without a registry law and without a secret ballot? The speaker then alluded to the inuendoes and slanders directed by the republican press and speakers against the "Big Four," who it was alleged were attempting to control the labor vote. "These slanders," said Judge Kirkpatrick, "are covertly leveled at and intended for Marcus Daly and you here at his home know how false they are." The speaker eulogized Mr. Daly at length. The silver question, the judge considered to be one of the most overwhelming and important issues in this campaign sink into insignificance compared to it. Montana is a silver state. Strike silver from the republican platform and you demolish the state. Every mine in Butte west of the cable road which ascends the mountain would be as silent as the grave. The desolation of a deserted mining camp was vividly pictured. Take that picture and multiply it by a hundred and you will have a picture of Montana if the republican party with John Sherman at the head of the senate finance committee shall remove silver from the list of coins. Who demonetized silver in 1873? The republican party. Who are they who want to demonetize silver now? The holders of public bonds, the great manufacturing lords, and their English friends. Who demonetized silver in 1878? Who, but the democratic majority in the house of representatives? The fact that President Cleveland took a position unfavorable to silver just after his election furnishes an unanswerable proof of the position of the democratic party in the matter.

As soon as Cleveland's wish to discontinue the coinage of silver dollars was known, Senator Reagan of Texas addressed to him a veto which was signed by 100 democratic congressmen protesting that the true democratic position was in favor of the unlimited coinage of silver. Upon every other question Cleveland was a good democrat, but upon the silver question he was not. The republican party through John Sherman intends to force the suspension of silver coinage. Sherman will stay at the head of the finance committee as long as the republicans are in power, and he will accomplish his designs unless the people of the west, by sheer strength, force their wishes through congress. "It is for the people of Montana," said Judge Kirkpatrick in conclusion, "to say whether they shall trust their true and tried friends or whether they will throw the hands of open and avowed enemies."

After a selection by the glee club, Hon. George W. Cassidy, of Nevada, was introduced. The speaker, expecting a rare treat and it was not disappointed. He congratulated the people of Montana that the democratic fires were burning so brightly. He came over to Butte a few days ago on private business, but some of his old Nevada friends there had prevailed upon him to make a speech to the people. He knew with what eagerness the territory sought an entrance into the union, how it yearned to govern itself, rather than be governed and ruled by those who were strangers to the interests and wants of its people. At this time when Montana is entering the great sisterhood of states, it is fitting to read the history of this country, to understand the relative rights and powers of the states and union.

"Every right, every privilege you enjoy under this government," said Mr. Cassidy, "you owe directly to the democratic party that made this government and fashioned its constitution. It was the democratic idea of government that gave birth to the republic of the United States. The speaker then briefly traced the origin of the constitution, and pointed out the issues between Jefferson and Hamilton. When the country understood the genius of this government and its system of states one cannot be anything but a democrat. It was democratic wisdom that devised this government, and it was democratic valor that preserved it. The republicans lay claim to a monopoly of the patronage of the country, but if men will consult the records they will find that the democrats have more than their share of it. Abraham Lincoln in 1860 received one million less votes than the number elected, but who fought to preserve the union. The speaker thanked God that the war terminated as it did. Passing to the silver question Mr. Cassidy said the republicans not only demonetized silver in 1873, but never attempted to restore it. The Bland bill as it originally passed the house provided for a free and unlimited coinage of silver. The republican senate restricted the coinage to not more than $4,000,000 nor less than $2,000,000 month. Every democrat but five voted for the bill and the republican but 10 voted against it. In the senate even after the bill had been shown of its chief importance all but six republican voted against it, while every democrat but one voted in its favor. More than that, since 1873 no silver bill has ever received the votes of more than eight republican senators.

The democrats are practically unanimous in favor of silver, the republicans are practically unanimous against it. Speaking of Cleveland's attitude, Mr. Cassidy said: "I happened to sign that letter of Senator Reagan's. The republican newspapers accused Cleveland of attempting to dictate to congress before he had taken his seat. The facts are that a few weeks before his inauguration we saw an outline of his inaugural message, and among other things was a recommendation for a suspension of the coinage of silver. One hundred democratic congressmen then signed a letter to Cleveland in which the silver argument was set forth. Cleveland replied to us very respectfully, and it was this way that he came to write his letter. Senator Beck, on the floor of the senate last year, declared that Cleveland had undergone a change of views on the silver question. He had intended making an official notification to congress of his views, but it was feared that his motives would be misconstrued. Mr. Cassidy said that with John Sherman at the head of the finance committee any favorable action on silver would be utterly hopeless, and the people of Montana should understand it.

"I hope," continued Mr. Cassidy, "that my old friend Major Maginnis will be a rousing majority. I was with him four years, and he stood head and shoulders above any other territorial delegate and influenced the sterling merits of Mr. Toole. He was anxious, he said, for a democratic legislation, so that two United States senators might be chosen to help to break the control of John Sherman and the other republicans who were hostile to Montana's best interests. Montana had an abundance of good democratic senators. On the Chinese question Mr. Cassidy said the records of the two parties were just as they had been on the silver question. The Chinese restriction bill was passed by democratic votes. Four-fifths of the democrats always supported measures looking to protection from Chinese labor, and four-fifths of the republicans were always against such efforts. The bill which hermetically sealed our gates against the importation of any more coolies was signed by Cleveland. But the present administration says that "Chinese tourists may pass through the country." "I saw 100 of these tourists arrive on the last steamer at San Francisco," said Mr. Cassidy, "and they were all Chinese. Under this administration they will be picked up and set down in Boston, but half of them will get loose in the city and catch every body by their ambiguous phrase, 'We are in favor of the use of gold and silver.' They would not say they were in favor of the coinage of all the product of the country, but they would say that every body by their ambiguous phrase, the New York gold bug construing it to mean silver halves, quarters and dimes, and the eastern man unlimited silver coinage. Mr. Cassidy gave the strongest effort of the tariff question. His arguments throughout were so clear and vigorous that the audience sat enthralled. It is seldom in one life that one hears a stronger political speech than that delivered by Mr. Cassidy last night.

W. J. Penrose, of the Butte Mining Journal, gave a speech, but an account of the lateness of the hour he declined, much to the disappointment of his friends.

NOT THE FACTS.

Stories Put in Circulation That Are Not Founded on Truth.

Dispatches sent from this city since the meeting of the Protective club, Thursday evening, present an affair in a light not in accordance with the facts. The Helena Journal prints a dispatch which says that two attempts were made by the democrats to break up the meeting and that this is the third time this disgraceful conduct has occurred. There is no truth in the statement that democrats in Anaconda have attempted to break up the meeting. The STANDARD can produce the evidence of several reputable republicans who were present. The assertion, however, that the democrats attempted to break up the meeting by any undertaking to "drive men to the polls" in October, or that they ever have engaged in that sort of business in the past has aroused a good deal of feeling among the foremen, who discussed the subject with earnestness last evening. There has not been at any time during the canvass the slightest war of the kind, and the republican papers are making. There is no shadow of ground for it.

ON THE STUMP.

Meetings to be Held in This City During the Last Week of the Campaign.

Anaconda expects to have its share of stump oratory next week. The republicans have two nights of it. On Wednesday evening Congressman Reed is to be here and the local democratic committee is arranging for the grandest rally of the campaign next Saturday night. On that occasion an open-air meeting will be held. Platforms will be built on the open lots next north of the STANDARD office, extra music will be engaged and an imposing parade is to take place. Both Mr. Toole and Major Maginnis will be at the meeting and both are announced for addresses.

At the republican meeting, to be held to-night, Col. W. F. Saunders is billed for an address. Mr. Carter's schedule announces that he will be in Anaconda next Thursday night.

PERSONAL.

M. J. Connell, lately returned from the east, is expected in Anaconda today. George W. Cassidy, who addressed the democratic club last evening, goes to Granite and Phillipsburg.

BILLINGS WIDE AWAKE

Stirring Speeches Made There By Mr. Toole and Major Maginnis.

An Enthusiastic Rally of Democrats Last Night—Mr. Toole Takes Square Issue and Puts His Record Night.

Special to the Standard. BILLINGS, Sept. 20.—The democratic rally held here to-night was by far the most enthusiastic demonstration of this place has witnessed during the campaign. Hon. Jos. K. Toole and Major Maginnis were the speakers. Ex-Governor Hauser, of Helena, was present, and occupied one of the seats on the platform. Two carloads of people came from Red Lodge and the town was filled with people. There was a brilliant display of fireworks for half an hour before the meeting opened. The band furnished music and the hall in the court house could not accommodate the number of people who were anxious to hear the speeches.

Mr. Toole was introduced by A. Campbell. The feature of his speech and, in fact, of the meeting was a complete repudiation of a clause in the Yellowstone republican platform which has been run for some time at the head of the editorial columns of the Billings Gazette. This is to the effect that when he was territorial delegate, Mr. Toole contended that the Rocky Fork railroad should have exclusive right across the Crow reservation, and that his action was in support of the interests of the Billings & Clark's Fork line.

Mr. Toole made an emphatic and telling denial of the charge, stating his position in regard to the matter at length. He said that he had requested a delay of thirty days from the house, in passage of the bill, because the Rocky Fork road had over a half a mile of line constructed and had to borrow money on bonds in the eastern markets. The other road, being parallel to this road and crossing to the same fields, would be a menace to this one and interfere with getting the necessary money to complete it. After 30 days, when the money would have been raised, he announced that he would withdraw his opposition and support the bill for the Billings and Clark's fork road. Mr. Toole read his speech in congress to that effect from the Congressional Record and denounced the writer of the article in the Gazette. His speech was received by the audience with frequent bursts of applause and evidence of spontaneous interest. This theme is the local political issue in this country.

Major Maginnis followed Mr. Toole in a brilliant speech expressing his attitude as in favor of the protection of wool, and pledging earnest support to those elected to a seat in congress. He made a strong appeal to the voters, and his address was received with unbounded enthusiasm.

Patricia Rosa as a Sourette. The Topical Times of London says of Miss Patricia Rosa: "The little lady made a pronounced and emphatic hit, keeping the entire house either in a roar of merriment or the spontaneous burst of fun or interest at her undoubted dramatic talent. The play is built on the lines of American starrings pieces, in which the chief performer lays claim to versatility of talent—that is it affords comic opportunities for its heroine, besides giving her strong dramatic situations and a firm hold on London as fully confirmed by the good things said of her; and, without entering into any comparisons between the clever lady now with us and the other American actresses who have visited these shores, it is sufficient to say that she succeeded in placing herself in the front rank of sourettes. She bubbles over with fun, her did as is charged, and in support of her irresistible and her kick captivating." Miss Rosa appears at Evans opera house on Monday and Tuesday evenings. Seats are on sale at Martin's.

Notes From Boulder. Special to the Standard. BOULDER, Sept. 20.—Work on the long talked of Boulder and Elkhorn branch of the Northern Pacific was commenced yesterday by Reid, Green & Co. A camp has been established about two miles below the town, and the small force of men now on the grade will be largely augmented as soon as some of the outfits now on the Gallatin-Butte branch can be brought to this point. The contract for the completion of the road to Elkhorn by November 15, but it is considered doubtful if this can be accomplished on account of the heavy mountain work after leaving the Boulder valley near the Ryan ranch, nine miles below Boulder. Construction will however be pushed as rapidly as possible and use of the material is now on the ground for the first nine miles of the road.

Phillipsburg Topics. Special to the Standard. PHILLIPSBURG, Sept. 20.—The Combination mine resumed work yesterday and the mill to-day. Everything is in working order again and matters are moving as of yore.

The Hon. G. W. Cassidy, of Nevada, John R. Toole and W. J. Penrose will speak at Granite on Saturday night, and at Phillipsburg Sunday night. Preparations are being made by the democrats of both places to give them a rousing reception.

The engagement of L. W. Shodair and Miss Mary DeBor, sister of Mrs. J. A. DeBor, has been made public. A definite time for the wedding has not yet been named, but it will occur in the near future. Mr. Shodair is leaving for a residence for the reception of his bride.

From Missoula. Special to the Standard. MISSOULA, Sept. 20.—It is probably that the litigation between the Washington & Idaho for right of way between Missoula and Frenchtown will be amicably settled. Judge DeWolfe to-day appointed a commission to conduct the survey of the Pacific lands as prayed for by the Washington & Idaho. It is understood that the other suits will be withdrawn.

The sheriff has telegraphed to Spokane for the apprehension of one of the train thieves. It is probable the matter will lead to the arrest of a number of persons.
