A Proposed Ordinance Which Aims to Tax Houses of Ill-Fame.

Albion, Who Will Visit Salt Lake City to Inspect the Gaylor Fire Alarm System—Other Business in the City Council.

Special Correspondence of the Standard.

Butte, Dec. 3.—An ordinance has been prepared, and it is expected will be presented at to-morrow night's meeting of the city council, which has for its purpose the taxing of Butte's houses of ill-fame. It is a well-known fact that one-third of the public expense of the city arises on account of these houses, and that they pay nothing into the city treasury. The saloons and gambling houses are taxed heavily, and the proposition now is to tax the inmates of the houses of ill-fame. The proposition is to arrest the women each month and fine them. City Attorney H. Whitacre has been preparing an ordinance to this effect. It has been submitted to some members of the council and will probably be presented for approval or rejection to-morrow night. Some of the members of the council favor a direct taxation of the women of this class, instead of the plan of arresting and fining them once a month. A direct tax of 25 cents per month would greatly increase the city's revenue; while a fine of $1 and costs would only bring $1 into the city's treasury and cost the city $10 to $20 per month. Police magistrate and city marshal. However, if the ordinance is finally passed, it will probably not be long before these women are made to pay amply toward the police expense.

H. Whitacre of the Gaylor fire alarm system this afternoon issued invitations to Mayor Kenyon and all the aldermen to accompany him on a visit to Salt Lake City, to inspect the new Gaylor system. The mayor will be unable to accompany the party, but seven aldermen have accepted to go. All expenses will be paid by the Gaylor company. The plan is to leave here Thursday evening. Alderman Touhey, however, desires a delay of another day, as he is very busy moving into his new southern hotel. It may be that the party will wait for him and not start until Friday evening. The trip will occupy at least four days.

In view of this invitation it is not likely that anything will be done at tomorrow night's meeting of the council in regard to the adoption of a fire alarm system. Another delay of two weeks will be the consequence. The fire committee agreed to inspect both systems, and having visited Helena, consider that they must also visit Salt Lake before a system is adopted. The result is likely to be that no system can be put in before spring. Although Mr. Crocker of the Gaylor system says that if the contract were given him at once he could have the whole system in operation in a short time, men are on hand ready to put up the wires at once, and the boxes and other apparatus are in readiness to be shipped immediately. A matter of much interest to come before the council to-morrow night will be in regard to the electric lights. One of the fireman had been employed to keep track of how many electric lights are out during each night, how often, and for how long a time. This duty has been carefully attended to by the fireman who has had charge of the matter and he has quite a list of lights which have not done satisfactory service during the past two weeks.

A Butte Drug Clerk Who Fell Asleep in a Saloon and Lost His Money.

Special Correspondence of the Standard.

Butte, Dec. 3.—A drug clerk, giving his name as John Doe, went to sleep in the Clipper Saloon, on East Park street, last night and when he awoke found that somebody had gone through his cash, taking $65, besides some other articles. Early this morning C. M. Tracy and A. Columbus were arrested and charged with grand larceny in stealing this money. THOUGHT TO BE A BLIND.

A Telegram From the Man Who Victim-ized the Butte Laborers.

Special Correspondence of the Standard.

Butte, Dec. 3.—A telegram was received to-day by Charles Daniels, partner of J. P. McCandless, the employment agency man, asking him to send McCandless, by express to Chicago at once, $200.

Daniels is now in jail and has been looking for McCandless, who left town on the morning of the raiding of the employment agency. Apparently McCandless does not know that the raid has been made. The telegram was sent from Chicago and informed Daniels that he should return to Butte at once. It is thought by some that the telegram is a blind.

There is $114 in the possession of the police which was taken from the till of McCandless' agency. Attorney O'Donnell for Daniels laid claim for $42 of this money, Daniels claiming that to be his private property. Attorney Haldorn levied an attachment this afternoon for $95, rent claimed by P. D. Sprague, owner of the office where McCandless carried on his nefarious business. This left little for the 380 working men who put $2 each into the agency's till. The case was settled up this afternoon. The sum of $42 was returned to Daniels, whose claim was filed first. The balance of $72 was paid back at the rate of $2 each to the first 36 working men who presented their claims. Daniels has been a rascal since he was a boy, and he has been a rascal for eleven years, came to Butte a few weeks ago for a job and was given a situation by McCandless. He worked as clerk for $28 a week, and says he had no suspicion that things were not right. Daniels is going to Miles City, where he is a witness in a murder trial.

AN APPEAL FOR JUSTICE

Reviewing the Evidence for the Prosecution in the Cronin Case.

Judge Wing's Argument for the Suspects Torn into Fragments by the Subsequent Attorney for the State—What the Evidence Proves.

CHICAGO, Dec. 3.—In the Cronin case to-day Mr. Ingham, for the prosecution, spoke at length of the killing of Cronin, the disposal of the body, and defined and illustrated the application of the law of conspiracy. Addressing himself to the question of the value of circumstantial evidence, he cited legal opinions to the effect that it may be stronger than any direct evidence. Judge King, he said, had taken up the evidence bit by bit and argued its weakness. This was simply the old story of a bundle of sticks. So it was in this case. Each incriminating circumstance was explainable upon the theory of innocence, but the combined conclusion to what they point was irresistible. The circumstances, from the time of the meeting in Camp 20 to the finding of the clothes of Cronin in the sewer, showed it to be a conspiracy of human design. It had its origin in hate, the foundation in the charge that Cronin was a spy, and its end in the butchery in the Carlson cottage and burial in the sewer. Then Mr. Ingham proceeded to an analysis of the evidence, and getting down to the Carlson cottage, said: "Why did Burke rent the cottage and hold possession of it uninterrupted month after month? He was a day laborer and working only at odd times. Where were the brothers and sister who sister was to occupy the cottage with him and why did they not appear and testify in his behalf? Four or five people were to live in this cottage, yet it did not contain a single article of kitchen furniture. It was to attend one of O'Sullivan's men that Doctor Cronin was called. The cottage was close to O'Sullivan's house. Burke told O'Sullivan about it as soon as he rented it, subsequently O'Sullivan vouched for him."

The speaker dwelt at length on the suspicious character of Burke, the man's contract for Cronin's services, the hiring of the white horse, Coughlin's suspicious actions, etc. He went over the ground of the ride to the cottage, the murder, subsequent disposal of the body in the Carlson basin and Burke's flight. All this connecting chain of evidence, he said, was indisputable. He touched upon the testimony of the defense, and said that it was all by friends of the accused, while inculcating evidence was by impartial witnesses. Mr. Ingham then proceeded to trace the connection between Coughlin, Kunze and O'Sullivan. He reviewed the fight between Cronin and the triangle as the moving cause of the murder, and closed with an appeal for conviction.

BONDS AND STOCKS.

Ups and Downs in Market Values on the New York Exchange.

NEW YORK, Dec. 3.—The stock market was active to-day, especially for the unlisted department; but there was a much better tone to the dealing throughout the greater portion of the day, and advances are in the decided majority among final changes. The feature of the market to-day were the continuance of foreign purchases, heavy covering of shorts in the general list and raids on coal stocks and trusts. Lackawanna and Reading were pressed, the former extended to 3 per cent. Trusts suffered to a lesser extent, but the losses in them were not material. Another endeavor to cover shorts in the last hour resulted in a marked rally, which closed only fairly active and strong at the best prices of the day.

Government bonds dull and steady. Petroleum opened strong at 103½, and closed steady at 104½.
