BUTTE CURRENT NOTES.

Mrs. E. A. Hunt will leave for Minneapolis to-day.

Miss Sophia Parsons, of Brooklyn, is visiting Butte friends.

The members of the P. O. S. of A. will work the white degree to-night.

Official bonds were filed yesterday of Harry Hynes and Dennis O'Neill as constables.

Lillie, the 12-year-old daughter of James Hocking of West Centerville, died yesterday morning of heart disease.

The appraisers on the lot in East Granite street, back of the Marchesseau building, have fixed its value at $400 per front foot.

The late Louis Thayer will be buried this afternoon at 2 o'clock. The funeral will take place from Sherman's undertaking rooms.

Mary Delaney, the infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Delaney, died yesterday morning. The funeral will be held this afternoon.

Work on the new Montana Union general office is progressing rather slowly and the rooms will not be ready for occupancy before July 1.

W. W. Connors and Frank Walker have opened one of the neatest little places in town at No. 28 East Park street. It is known as the "Band Box."

P. F. Boland and R. E. Williams have been appointed the committee to sell tickets for the Miners' Union ball and are meeting with great success.

A writ of habeas corpus was made yesterday in the case of J. M. Donelson, who is held as a witness against those arrested for robbing him. The application will be heard to-morrow.

An eight days' option of $10,000 was secured yesterday on the King clay deposit placer claim, south of town. The claim embraces fourteen acres and is valuable for brick making purposes.

Notices of location were filed yesterday of the Evangeline lode by T. E. Booth et al; the Gabriel lode by the same; the Evergreen lode by C. F. Booth et al; the Adelaide lode by Stephen D. Mills; the Emma Webb placer claim by L. H. Madigan et al.

JACK PARSONS' TROUBLES.

Lucky in Being Let off With a Fine—Re-Arrested on Another Charge.

By the Standard's Special Wire.

BUTTE, June 10.—The case of John A. Parsons, who created a disturbance in his saloon on East Broadway, last Sunday afternoon, was called before Judge Newkirk this morning. Parsons failing to report either in person or through an attorney, his bonds, $250, were declared forfeited and a warrant for his arrest was issued.

Before the warrant could be served, however, his attorney, C. A. Jones, appeared in court and made affidavit that it was through no fault of the defendant that he did not appear when the case was called. The attorney deposed that he had been retained as counsel by the accused and had informed him that he, the attorney, would appear for him; that his defendant's personal appearance was not necessary; that he, the attorney, would plead guilty for him on the charge of disturbing the peace and not guilty to the other complaint of resisting an officer. In conclusion the affidavit stated that owing to peculiar circumstances the attorney had been unable to appear at the hour set for the trial.

No objection being made by the prosecution the court granted the motion to reinstate the bonds and fined the defendant $10 and costs on the plea of guilty to the charge of disturbing the peace.

A second warrant was then issued for the arrest of Parsons for resisting an officer, hearing of which complaint was set for Thursday morning at 10 o'clock. The officers interested in the case express a determination to prosecute Parsons with all possible rigor, as they say he recently threatened to shoot one of them and when Officer McLaggan attempted to arrest him Sunday "stood him off" with a revolver. It was while McLaggan was gone for assistance that Officer Waters made the arrest, but not before he knocked Parsons down for putting his hand behind him in a threatening manner.

Pianos tuned and repaired by Miss Laura Baker, of the Boston Conservatory, with Van Orton & Reinhart, 123 Main street, Butte.

ANOTHER COURT NEEDED

Silver Bow's Mills of Justice Clogged With Civil and Criminal Cases.

Important Suits That Are Apt to Remain Forever Unsettled Unless an Additional Court Is Provided.

By the Standard's Special Wire.

BUTTE, June 10.—"Whether or not it is a judgment of God, as the Burlington woman thinks," remarked a prominent lawyer to-day, "there is one thing certain, we lawyers are practically starving and there seems no chance of relief. What Silver Bow county must have is two courts. No progress is being made toward the trying of civil cases. Those lawyers whose practice is chiefly in the criminal line are doing well. But those of us who confine our practice principally to civil cases have nothing to do and the chances are that we will have nothing to do for years, or at least until the legislature provides us an extra court and judge. There are enough criminal cases in which indictments have been found to occupy the court the balance of the present month. During August this court will take a vacation. Hence it is not likely that there will be another grand jury before September 1. By that time there will be more criminal cases to be examined than were before the last grand jury. So the civil cases will be farther off than ever.

"It may be that a few civil cases will be tried during the month of July. There are certainly some that are most important. It would a great public benefit if the Blue Bird case, for example, could be tried during July. That case will probably occupy an entire month.

"This situation is not the consequence solely of the political muddle. It would have been nearly as bad in any event. It is a fact that during the past three years only 12 contested civil cases have been tried. There have been civil cases settled and disposed of, but only a bare dozen tried. Under these circumstances many causes are never put into the form of a suit, although there is good cause for action. Thus the lawyers suffer."

"Is there any prospect of relief by the legislature?"

"There would be a good prospect if there was a legisluture. Not being one there is no telling when there will be relief. The need for another court was so urgent, that at the constitutional convention I proposed the provision of two courts for Silver Bow county, but it was the opinion of the convention that the legislature could provide for an extra court whenever it should be necessary. The unforseen difficulty has made this relief now improbable and unless the two legislators can in some way agree on necessary legislation we must get along with criminal cases and let the more important civil cases go."

County Attorney Baldwin was asked his opinion as to the necessity for another court.

"The need is certainly urgent," said Mr. Baldwin. "This prolonged delay in the trial of civil cases amounts virtually to a denial of justice. We are proceeding as fast as possible, and I think we will catch up in the criminal cases early in the fall. But certainly it would be a great relief if two courts could be at work and civil cases disposed of."

"Is there any prospect of the Blue Bird case being tried during July?"

"That case can only be tried now by universal consent. There are innumerable cases ahead of it on the civil calendar, so that if we try civil cases in July there will be many cases ahead of the Blue Bird which must be tried unless their rights are all waived. It is, of course, of vital importance that that case be disposed of, but there is little prospect of it. I do not know yet whether a grand jury will be called before September 1 or not."

COWBOYS IN COURT.

"Sod" Jennings Accused of Stealing a Cow With a Singular Name.

By the Standard's Special Wire.

BUTTE, June 10.—"Old Sod" Jennings, a well-known character residing near Melrose, was tried before Judge Cantwell this afternoon for stealing a cow and a calf. The complaining witness was J. B. Reynolds, who alleged that "Sod" stole the property from him last spring and sold it to Charles Parson. That Assistant County Attorney Cotter is not familiar with the vernacular of the range was made apparent when he innocently asked one of the witnesses, who described the marks on the calf, what a "dew lap" was. Such ignorance on the part of an attorney was astonishing to several cowboys present and their looks of disgust were painful to behold. When the same witnesses began to talk of "circle jays," "flying W. S.," "lazy S. S.," etc., Mr. Cotter called a halt and handing the witness pencil and paper, asked him to kindly draw diagrams of those wonderful hyroglyphics.

The substance of the evidence for the state was that Reynolds had purchased the cow, with others, from John Jolly, who in turn had bought it of the defendant.

The defendant denied that he had sold that particular cow to Jolly, and said that when he sold the ranch to Jolly he had given Mrs. Jolly four milch cows as a present to bind the bargain. He described the cows given to Mrs. Jolly, all of which were different from the one alleged to have been stolen. He did not deny that Reynolds claimed the particular cow in controversy but said he had no right to do so, as she did not belong to him. Having an opportunity to sell the cow to Parson last month the defendant drove her off the range and disposed of her.

Some controversy as to the value of the cow arising, Parson was asked what he considered the cow worth.

"She ain't worth a cent," was the answer, "because she's dead. That's where I got the worst of it."

The next witness caused much merriment. He was called by the defense to give a description of the four cows given by Jennings to Mrs. Jolly. He described three of them and then stopped.

"Go on," said Counsellor O'Donnell, who was attorney for Jennings.

"Well," resumed the witness, "she was a pale, red one with white specks and we called her O'Donnell."

The counsellor blushed while even the court had to smile. After hearing much more testimony the case was dismissed and Jennings discharged. One of the witnesses on whom the prosecution mainly relied to make out their case failed to appear.

JACK DEMPSEY IN BUTTE.

He Tells a Good Story on His Companion Paddy Gorman.

By the Standard's Special Wire.

BUTTE, June 10.—The Utah & Northern train which pulled into this city at 4 o'clock this afternoon had on board Jack Dempsey, the middleweight champion of the world, Paddy Gorman, the middleweight champion of Australia, and Dave Campbell, the famous club swinger and athlete of Portland, Ore. At the depot ready to give the trio a warm welcome were most of the local men interested in sporting events, including Evan Morgan, Jack Hyland, Jerry Mullin, John Maguire, Louis Villemaire, and representatives of the Miner, Inter Mountain and STANDARD.

Introductions were quickly made and soon the two parties in several open carriages were driven to the city. After a brief drive about town the Dempsey party was dropped at the McDermott hotel and proceeded to wash off the dust of travel.

Later there was an informal reception in the parlors of the Southern sample room when 15 or 20 of Butte's citizens were introduced to the trio. Campbell and Gorman had never been in Butte before and confessed that they had never seen anything like Butte and did not know what to make of it.

Jack Dempsey was in Butte in December, 1886, and was asked by a STANDARD reporter to-day how the town compared with its appearance on his first visit.

"I wouldn't know it for the same place," said Dempsey. "It has changed wonderfully and seems three times as large as when I saw it before."

Dempsey said that he did not expect to get on another match with the Marine soon, since the latter is to meet Mitchell on June 29. The combination will go to Helena from Butte, then back to Salt Lake and eastward.

Jack Dempsey tells quite a yarn about a job that was put up on Paddy Gorman in Pocatello. Being from Australia, Paddy had a very indistinct idea of what an Indian was like, and gave himself away on leaving San Francisco by his frequent inquiries, betraying a tinge of anxiety. He was filled brim full of the most bloodthirsty Indian yarns, and if anything appeared in the papers in regard to Indian outrages, each member of the party showed the item to Paddy and elaborated it.

"By the time we reached Pocatello," said Dempsey, "we had Paddy pretty well worked up. The first thing we struck was a big buck Indian, over six feet tall, and we could see Paddy glancing nervously over his shoulder as he had to pass him. That evening we put up a job on him. We were in a little private room of a saloon. I had impressed on all the Indians I saw that Gorman was the strongest man on earth and that he could kill anybody with one punch. You ought to see the Indians open their eyes. We told them that we kept the great man stored away in the room, showing it to them and that they could go in and look at him, but that they must not on any condition say o word to him or answer anything he might say. We sent the big bucks one after the other.

"The first one was a giant and he squatted down right beside Paddy, who turned pale and edged up into the corner. Then another buck came in and sat at the other side of Paddy, so that the Australian was imprisoned. Paddy turned paler yet, but tried to appear composed and as I came in said:

"'They're fine built gentlemen, ain't they, Jack.'

"Then three more bucks came in and seated themselves solmenly in a row directly in front of Gorman. None of the Indians spoke, but they stared steadily at Paddy as though he was the great spirit himself.

"I slipped out and left Paddy alone with five bucks, but you can bet I remained where I could see and hear. Paddy kept glancing uneasily from the door to the Indians and from the Indians back to the door. At length he mustered up courage to say:

"'Gentlemen, will you take suthin'?'

"Not a buck moved.

"Paddy tried to think of some foreign language he could address them in, as they evidently didn't understand English. But he had had no experience in talking to any foreigners except Chinese. So he said:

"'Dlinke finee nicee whisklee?'

"Still there was no response.

"Paddy was growing more restless all the time and rang the bell violently for the waiter. The waiter came and Paddy demanded Jack Dempsey, but the waiter said he had gone to the hotel.

"'Jack, Jack, come here,' yelled Paddy at the top of his voice.

"But there was no response. We kept him in there about 20 minutes. He didn't dare move until at last we all returned and let him out.

"The exhibition was given at Pocatello last night, and to carry out the joke we announced that Gorman would spar with two Indians at once.

"'No you don't,' said Paddy, 'I'll ruin the combination, I'll let the bloody injuns knock me out first thing, sure. I wouldn't lift my hand against one of them for a dollar.'"

Dempsey and Gorman will spar at Maguire's opera house to-morrow evening and Dave Campbell of Portland and Evan Morgan of this city, will give a club swinging exhibition.

The $5,000 belt of the middle weight championship of the world is on exhibition at the Clarendon as are also Dempsey's colors. Dempsey won the belt in 1886 and has fought for it three times, with Fogarty, February 2, 1886; LaBlanche, March 14, 1886; and he won it again December 13, 1887.

THE COUNTY COMMISSIONERS.

They Will Build a Prison for Females—Walkerville's Case Overlooked.

By the Standard's Special Wire.

BUTTE, June 10.—The board of county commissioners finished their business today. It was informally agreed that the petition of Sheriff Lloyd for a jail for women should be granted, although, instead of building a separate jail, the jail for females should be placed over the boiler room which is to be built. The latter will be made of two stories, and several cells placed in the second story which will be reached from the main jail by a corridor.

Nothing was done with the petition of Walkerville people for incorporation as a city.

Joseph Hogan was appointed clerk to abstract property for the use of the assessor, taking the place of P. J. Gilligan.

The bond was received of the Metropolitan Electric Railway company and turned over to the county attorney for approval.

IT NEEDS TO BE REVISED

The Bill for Butte's Public Building Should Be Resurrected.

H. L. Frank Talks to the Board of Trade About the Matter—The Road to Champion Is Being Built.

By the Standard's Special Wire.

BUTTE, June 10.—A strong effort was made by the board of trade to-night to revive the movement for Butte's public building.

H. L. Frank was confident that the house of representatives would pass the appropriation of $150,000 for Butte, if the matter were pressed. Mr. Frank considered this sufficient. He said that a fine lot could be bought for $80,000 or $70,000 and for the balance, $75,000, the finest public building in Montana could be erected. All that is needed is a building of two stories and a basement.

"It is absolutely impossible," said Mr. Frank, "to get an apropriation of $400,000 and I think we are lucky to be offered $150,000, and we had better take it while we can get it. Let us ask our representatives, Carter, Sanders and Power to resurrect the bill.

"Another thing, we must stop paying postoffice rent. Helena charges up $4,500 a year for its postoffice, while the government pays nothing for the office here. Economically, the government would, of course, naturally desire to erect a building in Helena to save the rent there, while there is no such inducement for erecting a building in Butte.

"While I am on this subject I would say that Carter treated me well in Washington and did nothing antagonistic to the bill or to Butte."

A committee of H. L. Frank, C. W. Goodale and M. S. Holland was appointed to draft resolutions asking that the appropriation be pressed and wire them to the representatives in Washington. The inefficiency of the postoffice service in Butte was the subject of remarks by C. W. Goodale and others. Mr. Goodale declared that Postmaster Evans is doing all that a man can do with the inadequate facilities at his command. He thought the board of trade should take action toward obtaining additional help for the postoffice. A committee was appointed to invite Assistant Postmaster General Clarkson to visit Butte, that official now being on a tour of inspection in the Northwest.

The committee on a road to Champion reported that it had seen the board of county commissioners and that the board had agreed to furnish $2,000 toward the construction of the road. A surveyor will start out to-morrow morning to survey for the road and a letter has been received from Champion stating that this morning 10 men began work at the other end. A committee of the city council on the reception of the Bozeman excursionists was present, and a committee of H. L. Frank, R. D. Leggat and E. D. Aiken was appointed to confer with them. The joint committee reported in favor of receiving the Bozeman delegates on June 19, if that date shall prove agreeable to them. Committees of arrangement and reception will be appointed by President Barret.

The committee on the petition for making Butte the western and Bozeman the eastern terminus of the short line, reported that it had seen General Agent McCaig, who had assured them that this would be done and that trains would be made up at Bozeman.

A committee was appointed to solicit stock subscription for the board of trade, preparatory to purchasing a lot. The trustees were authorized to incorporate the board and to file such certificates as are required by law. The resignation of John H. Curtis as a member owing to his duties in connection with the real estate exchange was accepted conditional on the return of his certificate of membership. New certificates were issued to all members.

The following new members were elected: J. Ross Clark, C. E. Nessler, F. W. Holmes, E. S. Booth, J. A. Lewis, D. B. Vincent, J. A. Cannon, F. M. Butler, R. D. Butler, S. Strasberger, I. E. Corbett, Simon Jacobs, William McDermott and J. E. Dawson.
