Grantsdale will celebrate the Fourth at Rock Creek lake.

Red Lodge people will celebrate the Fourth of July 8:00 worth.

All the bodies have been exhumed from the old Catholic cemetery at Bozeman and removed to a new one.

Castle, the famous new mining camp in the Castle mountains, and White Sulphur Springs are soon to be connected by telephone.

Every available team and wagon throughout the country and the Judith basin is being pressed into service for hauling the wool clip of the surrounding country into Billings for shipment.—Gazette.

The ranchmen living west of town have all put in large fields of grain and the yield this year promises an abundant harvest. In fact, the crop prospects in this section are more flattering than ever before, as we have had plenty of rain and growing weather.—Red Lodge Picket.

Earl B. Wittich, a Livingston taxidermist, has mounted a curiosity in the shape of a spotted deer head, which he has on exhibition at his place of business. The peculiarity is that a portion of the side of the head and eye are a decided white, while the balance of the animal is the usual color of a black-tail deer.

The Northern Pacific Railroad company have commenced the construction of the stables at the stock yards adjoining the grounds of the Custer County Horse Sales and Fair association. These stables are to be 300 feet in length, built in the shape of a letter E without the middle point, being 76 feet on each end and 148 on the stem. Each of the ends will be fitted up with stalls, and the longer portion will be a closed shed with hay loft over its entire length. Water troughs will be furnished throughout with plenty of water when required. This improvement, together with the use of the stock yards, is furnished by the Northern Pacific railroad for the use of the association free of cost, the Northern Pacific people believing that the purpose for which the horse sale association is organized is of so much importance to the country that they can well afford to aid it in this way. The work to be done by the Northern Pacific company will approximate $5,000, and is quite a substantial gift to the association in its infancy.—Yellowstone Journal.

IDAHO.

Tekoa is elated over an artesian well drilled by the railroad company at the shops that flows 30 gallons to the minute. The 6-year-old daughter of John Williams, a farmer living near Douglas City, in the Big Bend, was killed recently by becoming tangled in a land roller.

Klickitat county must inevitably prove a good lumbering region, although her forests are neither as dense nor as abundant as those of the Sound. The supply would be considered, nevertheless, extensive in almost any other section.

The Thurston county school superintendent has received a communication from a young lady teacher, in one of the backwoods districts, complaining of an incorrigible pupil. The offending party is a young man 16 years of age, who goes to school barefooted, smokes cigarettes, chews tobacco, squirts the juice over the floor, and swears before the little children.

A. J. Carey, who is sinking an artesian well at Tacoma, found at the depth of 200 feet a cedar log in a perfect state of preservation. Chips, knots and quite a large piece of the wood have been brought to the surface. Mr. Carey says that he has now passed through a second distinct surface indication. The strata passed through in penetrating to the depth reached are recurring, including a second deposit of soil.

I. C. Russell, geologist of the United States geological survey, leaves Seattle on June 17 for Sitka. His plans for the Alaska exploring expedition are about perfected. From Sitka he will be taken to Yakutat bay, about fifty miles from Mount St. Elias, on the United States steamer Pinta. From Yakutat bay they will cross the St. Elias range and, if found to be practical, will ascend the giant peak of that name, but that is not so much the object of the trip as it is to cross the range and explore the unknown country lying north of the St. Elias range.

THE TWO DAKOTAS.

Aberdeen will enjoy the free delivery system after July 1.

Two hundred sheep were killed by the falling in of the roof of a shed at Appomattox the other day.

Sioux Falls aldermen have cut their own salaries down to $1 a year.

The bazar for the benefit of the Pierre firemen's fund netted over $800.

A ewe belonging to R. D. Ross of Savo the other day gave birth to a lamb with one head, eight legs and two tails. The freak is alive and gives promise of growing up to muttonhood.

Over 40 horses have been stolen from Hanson county farmers during the past few weeks. Farmers are organizing an anti-horse thief association. One thief caught says there is an organized band of them in the business. The stolen horses are taken to the Sioux reservation.

Jim Collins, alias Chow Chow, is in jail at Pierre on the charge of horse stealing. Collins is one of the most accomplished broncho riders in the West, and intended to visit Chicago during the world's fair and exhibit his proficiency as a rider, but it now looks as though a previous engagement at Sioux Falls will interfere with his plans. He was chased over Texas, Colorado, Montana, Idaho and Washington, and finally captured in the interior of Wyoming. He is a professional horse thief, and was indicted for the crime at Pierre a year ago, but managed to escape.

MISCELLANEOUS.

An Astoria census enumerator reports finding two families, in one of which the inmates numbered 17, all of one name, and in another 18, all of one name.

The faculty of the Oregon State university has made a ruling that during the graduating exercises this year no flowers will be allowed sent on the stage. If friends of the graduates wish to present them with flowers they must wait until after the exercises or send them to the ante-room.

The child of Mrs. Hugh Glencross of Astoria, born on Sunday, May 25, and which weighed barely 18 ounces when 24 hours old, died Thursday, having lived just 18 days. At the time of death the midwife measured 13 inches in length, and weighed just two pounds. It was a boy, and was christened George Washington. A common finger ring was easily slipped over the child's arm up to the shoulder, and the same could have been done on the leg if the kneecap had been smaller.

MISTAKEN IDENTITY.

Some Cases That Have Lately Happened in England.

Accounts have recently been published in England of three cases of mistaken identity. In two of these, says the New York Ledger, the errors had reference to the bodies of dead persons, whilst in the third the mistake occurred in the identifying of a living subject.

On Christmas day a woman living in Liverpool, named Catherine Reed, who had been drinking did not return home. On the following morning the body of a woman was discovered by the side of the river Mersey. This was identified by Reed's son as that of his mother. An inquest was held, and in due course the funeral took place. The money for which Mrs. Reed's life was insured was drawn by her son. On March 4, Catherine Reed returned home, and, as if to add further proof of her continued existence, claimed her share of the insurance money. During the interval that elapsed between her supposed death and her restoration to her family, she was twice admitted to the Liverpool workhouse infirmary. From there she wrote to her son, but the latter, thinking he was being hoaxed, took no notice of the communication.

The second case happened at Paris in February. A Catholic named Dorin was admitted into the Rothschild hospital, where he died on February 23. On the next day a Hebrew named Brunswick expired in the same institution. By a mistake of the hospital attendant the bodies got mixed. Although Madame Dorin had some doubts as to the body shown being that of her late husband, these were dispelled by the assurance of her relatives that the corpse shown him was not that of his father and the mistake identity was made clear. Some difficulties occurred with regard to the interment of the actual body of Dorin, both as regards expense and the procuring of clerical aid to separate the two. These were at last overcome but the body of Brunswick remained in a Catholic grave until an order for exhumation could be obtained.

On March 3 a curious case was brought to light at Hampton Petty Sessions. A woman named Watts was charged on her own confession with obtaining wearing apparel from a Mrs. Priestley under false pretences. A week previously a woman named Lawrence was committed for trial at the Middlesex Sessions for the same offense. Mrs. Priestley and another woman then swore to the identity of the woman Lawrence, who asserted her innocence. Mrs. Priestley now admitted that she might have been in error and circumstantial evidence was adduced to show that it was Watts who had really obtained the goods. Lawrence was at once let out on bail, but an order from the home secretary was necessary before she could be released from the criminal indictment.

BONDS AND STOCKS.

Ups and Downs in Market Values on the New York Exchange.

NEW YORK, June 16.—The stock market to-day was the most featureless market for months and dealings present absolutely no occasion for comment. Speculators and even investors are still waiting upon congressional action in the matter of the silver bill, and until some definite news is received stagnation is likely to be the chief characteristic in stocks. The close was very dull and steady. There was no tendency in prices shown by the final changes, which were irregular and but for small fractions only.

Governments firm. Petroleum opened strong; spot, 90; July, 91; the market sagged off 1/2¢ and then became dull and remained so until the close.

Bar silver—$1.04 1/2. Copper—Strong; Lake, June $16.00. Lead—Unchanged; domestic, $4.40. Tin—Closing steadier; Straits, $21.60.
