Careless Scribbling.

It was a wide stretch of the imagination that caused the writer in yesterday's Independent of the article headed "Mein Poor Cattle" to state so many things that never occurred and then to ascribe the authorship to "Mrs. E. K." The part of the article where Mr. Villard went to school in the native village where Mrs. Kranich lived is so far fetched that the lady's brother-in-law says there is not a word of truth in it. Villard did not come from that part of Germany. Mrs. Kranich never saw Villard; she never had but two cattle killed by the cars on the Northern Pacific Railroad; she never went out to the track and "found some dead and some with their legs broken; never had any to lick her hands; never had any that she would call by the name of "Dickey," "Susie" and "Venus;" never smoothed their faces; never cried; never had her children to cry; never had her cattle butchered, and never had the opportunity to refuse eating the beef because it came from her "pet cattle." The lady dislikes to have her name connected with the authorship of an article which so ridiculously parades before the public her private affairs, and which was written by a penny-a-liner and manufactured out of the whole cloth.

A Block of Residence Flats.

The most noticeable block of residence buildings in course of construction in Helena is that of W. H. Baker and W. R. Schults, on Warren street. It is a three story brick structure, occupying upwards of one-half block of frontage. The basements are one-half story elevation above ground, with upper full floors of ten and nine feet. The four complete houses in this handsome block are each divided by brick partition walls, and in the various conveniences are modelled after the best modern plans adopted in Eastern cities. Bay windows of full building height project from each residence and are attractive features of the building. The contractors are Messrs. Gremm & Merritt, who have a considerable force of mechanics employed. The block will be metal roofed, and completed, will cost about $15,000.

Market House for Eastern Meats.

In order to reach the consumers of good beef the N. P. Refrigerator Car Company find it necessary to open a retail market in Helena. Their agent, R. Gray, has leased a store on Bridge street, head of Main, and will open up on Saturday, May 17, with a full line of Eastern corn fed beef, mutton, pork, veal, pigs' feet, tripe, etc., as well as fresh fish and vegetables. Until our range cattle are fit to slaughter, the company will import Eastern beef. When the reverse takes place, our beef will be shipped to the Eastern markets. This gives our people the opportunity of acquiring good beef to eat the year round. Being wholesalers as well as retailers, butchers, hotels, section houses and camps will find it to their interest to confer with agent Gray.

Heel and Toe.

J. S. Herriman, the pedestrian, who is now on a walk of 5,000 miles, from Duluth, Minn., to San Francisco, which he expects to accomplish in 118 days, is now plodding away in the Yellowstone region, and expects to reach Helena about Monday next. He will probably give an exhibition of the heel and toe profession at the Skating Rink. Although a walker of some note, he is not the Harriman who has appeared in the great six-day matches in Madison Garden, New York, and other large cities. Harriman has done some good walking in rinks at Bismarck, Miles City, Billings and other places along the Northern Pacific, and would undoubtedly draw a large audience in this city, especially if some local pedestrian could be found to tramp against him.

Marshall & Co.

Dan W. Marshall, our urbane fellow-citizen, who has had a successful business experience among the people of Helena for some time, has moved the office of Marshall & Co. to the Paynter Block, up stairs, over Paynter & Comstock's drug store. The location is one of the best in Helena, and the office itself one of the finest in the city. Their business under the head of real estate, embraces everything therewith, and includes loans, the selling of properties, renting houses, and selecting eligible locations for persons wanting building lots. The firm is one of the reliable, energetic business associations of Helena, and has the fullest confidence of the public.

Our Citizen Soldiers.

The interest that has been stirred up within a day or two for the increase of our Helena Light Guards, has added thirty new members to the organization. To-night there will be an enthusiastic meeting of the old and new members that will put the company on a permanent footing. The election of the new members will take place to-night, and provision be made for sufficient drilling before Decoration Day to perfect the members in the manual of arms. Sergeants Hyer, Vesey and Comstock have been very successful in their mission as recruiting officers, and have thirty new names for the company, which will be mustered in to-night.

The interest in having a handsomely equipped military organization in the city has reached the merchants and business men of Helena, some of whom have gone so far as to offer a liberal contribution from year to year to "help the boys along." There can be no doubt about the proper pride our citizens will have in our soldiers; and the material interest they will take in them; nor can there be any doubt of the feeling that exists in the breasts of the officers of the company to make it all that the people expect of it. There being a mutual pride and interest now existing between the soldiers and the citizens, there can be but little doubt that their united action will bring about the desired object—a goodly number of members to the Helena Light Guards.

HELD UP.

Road Agents Way-Lay Paymaster Whipple.

Sergeant of the Escort Killed and two Soldiers Wounded—The Major's Life Saved by a Runaway.

[SPECIAL TO THE HERALD.]
GLENDALE, M. T., May 15, 5 p. m.—Major Whipple, U. S. Paymaster, on his way from Glendive to Fort Buford, was held up by road agents last evening at a point about forty-five miles from this town. The sergeant in charge of the military escort was killed and two privates were wounded. The mules attached to the ambulance became frightened at the firing and started on a run, carrying the paymaster out of reach of the agents. Advice received state that the Major arrived safe at Buford with all the funds. No clue as to the robbers. HATHAWAY, Deputy Marshal.

A RACE FOR LIFE.
A Paymaster's Escape from Road Agents.

The account received by a special to the HERALD from Deputy Marshal Hathaway and published yesterday, giving the news of the attack by road agents upon Paymaster Whipple on the 14th inst., about forty-five miles from Glendive, is supplemented by the following from Mr. Hathaway, who arrived in Helena last night: It appears that Major Charles H. Whipple, Paymaster, U. S. A., stationed at Fort Keogh, was on the road with his ambulance, an escort wagon, his clerk, a telephone repairer, a sergeant, and a detail of six men as Paymaster's escort, en route to Fort Buford with $18,000 to pay the troops stationed there and at Poplar Agency. At about forty-five miles east of Glendive, and within twelve miles of Scott's ranch, the party was "held up," or attacked, by seven men, who were disguised and covered with black rubber coats. The Paymaster's party was not halted or ordered to throw up their hands, as has been the custom with road agents, but the firing was commenced at once by the miscreants from ambush. The sergeant, who was sitting on the seat with the driver of the ambulance, was killed and the driver wounded in the arm. The Sergeant fell down on the dashboard and was held there, while the mules, who had become frightened by the firing, were kept on the dead run by the Paymaster, who had taken the lines, while the wounded driver plied the whip, until Scott's ranch was reached, a distance of twelve miles. The escort wagon, which was in the rear, was fired on and one soldier, who had raised up to return the fire, was shot in the head and will die. At this point the wagon was stopped and the escort ordered to hold up their hands. The robbers then mounted the wagon and went through the baggage and boxes, but found nothing of value. The escort being disarmed, the robbers soon broke up all the arms and scattered the ammunition, and then told the men to drive on. The Paymaster's clerk was in the escort wagon at the time and escaped. The wagon then proceeded on its way, and soon caught up with the Paymaster at Scott's ranch. The last seen of the robbers, who were on foot, showed they were scattering, each one going a different road. It is believed by Mr. Hathaway that the robbers had their horses cached on the other side of the river. Arriving at the ranch, the telephone repairer tapped the wire and communicated with Buford. The commanding officer there sent out a detachment of cavalry at once, under whose protection Paymaster Whipple and party arrived at Buford with the money without further molestation. It was found that seven bullet holes were made through the ambulance, and that two bullets had passed close in front and rear of the Paymaster. It is believed that if the clerk had remained in the ambulance he would have been killed at the first volley. Thus far there have been no arrests, although several parties from Fort Keogh and Glendive are out after the robbers.

St. John's Hospital.

The large, heavy building known as the Hospital proper, has been successfully moved to the west a sufficient distance to enable the work on the new hospital structure to proceed. Messrs. Vaughan & Weller had the contract of moving the building, and they have performed their work so well that the house was moved along quietly upon rollers so as to not interfere with the duties of the Sisters or disturb their nerves while they and the patients were carried along day by day to their destination on the eastern side of Warren street.

So completely has the work of Messrs. Vaughan & Weller been carried out that the whole building sits upon its new blocks with but little detriment to plastering or interior finishings. The large, heavy structure was raised by thirty jackscrews, and moved along quietly upon rollers, while the Sisters kept on with their regular duties, and the patients visited the refectory for their accustomed three meals a day.

Yesterday being the time for the opening of the bids for the construction of the new hospital building, the competition was spirited and the bids close as between the following bidders: Shaffer & Welter, W. Y. Simonton, James Murphy, Nicholas Monhausen, Graham & Merritt. The bids have been forwarded to the Mother Superior at Leavenworth, Kansas, who will make the award and transmit the result to Sister Johanna, in charge at St. John's Hospital here.

The plans and specifications for the new building are elaborate and particular as to the smallest detail, and were designed and executed by Architect William Sweeney, of Baltimore, Md. They were a present to the Sisters from this fine architect, their noble-hearted friend and patron. At once upon awarding the contract, work will begin in earnest upon the new hospital, which, when completed, will be one of the handsome public buildings of Helena, which any city might be proud of.

From the Daily Herald of May 17.
Purchase of Mr. Donnell's Interest.

From a telephone message received from Deer Lodge this morning it is learned that Messrs. Clark and Larabee have purchased of Mr. Donnell, their New York associate, the one-third interest owned by him in the Butte and Deer Lodge banks, and that both institutions in the future will be conducted under the firm name of Clark & Larabee. These banks are staunch and prosperous money concerns, and to the resident partners it is particularly fortunate that the ample means at their disposal easily enables them to wholly own and conduct a business so lucrative and solid. Both Mr. Clark and Mr. Larabee are esteemed among our best financiers, and mainly through their capable and discreet management the prosperous condition and enviable reputation of the banks connected with their names have been attained. The gentlemen, with the good wishes of all Montanians, will continue in their high and useful calling, and retain the undiminished confidence and respect of the business communities in every part of the Territory.

From the Ground Up.

A bright young man last fall got a job of a Helena grocer to drive his delivery wagon and make himself generally useful about the store. Employment was of more account than wages, and he was engaged at a moderate salary. He didn't shirk service even of the most menial kind, and swept out, kept up the fires, cleaned the stable, curried the horse, faced storm and cold, and learned all the details of the business, inside and out. Some weeks ago the young man told his employer he wanted to quit—he thought of going into business for himself. The grocer was surprised, but he didn't object, as store help was in supply waiting for work. It turns out that the young man is highly connected, has means of his own and plenty of money back of him, and he is about to open a fine store, well stocked with goods, in an eligible part of the city. The new merchant has the right kind of stuff in him, and we are mistaken if he doesn't make a success of it in the business world.

A Successful Robbery.

Some time during last night the confectionery manufactory and store of W. E. Norris & Bro. was entered and the money drawer broken open and robbed of between $300 and $400 in money. The robbery was effected by an entrance by way of the back door, which was locked and the key taken home. It appears that the door was opened by a key or was picked by a wire. The combination money drawer, which contained the deposit, was pryed off from the counter and its contents taken. The drawer was found on the floor. These young, enterprising men will profit by their expensive experience and will not be set back in energy and industry by this unexpected disaster.

The Light Guards.

The acquisition to the Helena Light Guards last night of thirty-two new members is a strength to this organization that could hardly have been expected in the short time given by the officers in getting recruits. This addition to the company is highly appreciated by the officers and old members, since it brings with it such new blood and muscle as constitute the very life of the soldier. Of the number of new members many of them have seen service in similar organizations in the East, and there is no doubt now but that the company will be filled up to the maximum and that we will have the first dress parade on Decoration Day.

A Block of Granite.

The heaviest block of granite yet quarried in Montana was delivered in Helena some days since from Ten Mile. Its weight is 120,000 pounds, and its haulage into the city required the services of an eight horse team. This magnificent slab is of extra fine mother rock, and when chiseled into form by the tools of the stone cutter will constitute the cap-piece to the main entrance of the Montana National Bank building.

The Death of Mrs. Abner Adams.

We have just learned of the death of Mrs. Abner Adams, who died this morning at her residence, seven miles from Helena. Mrs. Adams was the mother of Mrs. N. H. Webster, of Helena, and of a large family of children. We have not learned any particulars.

The elegant residence of Joseph Davis on Ewing street, which has just come from under the artistic brush of D. C. Ross, house and ornamental painter, looks very stylish under the fresh coat of paint which has been put on in colors of the latest fashion. The residence has one of the most elegant and costly porches in the city, which is painted in the same colors as the trimmings of the house. The fence, which nearly surrounds the residence, corresponds in color, and is of substantial and beautiful design.

Ex-Secretary "Dick" Thompson, who participated in the Log Cabin Harrison campaign of 1840, and was chairman of the committee on resolutions in the convention that nominated Grant sixteen years ago, will attend the Republican June meeting in Chicago.

Coffee adulterations are discovered daily in New York. Dr. Edson visited the mills in Brooklyn and found that in polishing Rio and other coffees, chromate of lead, Silesian blue, burned amber, yellow ochre, Venetian red, drop black, charcoal and French chalk were used.

Death of Gen. Terrell.

INDIANAPOLIS, May 16.—Gen. Wm. H. Terrell died to-night at 9 o'clock of consumption. He was Adjutant General from Indiana during the war, and has held several prominent positions since, among them 3d Assistant Postmaster General and Pension Agent. At the time of his death he was Secretary of the Republican State Central Committee.

—John A. Hingleberg, agent for L. R. Polk Co., publishers of the Montana, Dakota and Minnesota Directory and Gazetteer for 1884 and 1885, is in the city delivering this valuable work to subscribers. The book has 1,600 pages of useful information, and would be a fine addition to the desk of every merchant in Helena as a book of reference. The agent has some copies in Helena which can be purchased at the subscription price.

—Ashley D. Hager, traveling correspondent of the Chicago Times, who arrived in Helena last night in the interest of that paper, made a professional call upon the HERALD to-day, where he found a cordial welcome from his brother journalists. Mr. Hager is enthusiastic over Montana, and in his letters to Chicago he is eloquent over the grandeur of the country. As a miner who for many years wielded the pick and shovel, he will give the readers of the Times an intelligent account of our gold and silver mines.

—Marian Wright, the enterprising agent of the New York Life Insurance Company, who became favorably known to our citizens as a straight forward business man, left on last evening's train for San Francisco, to be gone a few weeks. Mr. Wright's associations in Helena have been of the best kind, and he has succeeded so far in establishing confidence in the company he represents that he has taken hundreds of thousands of dollars in risks from the best business men in Montana. Being assured of the solvency of the New York Life Insurance Company and its reputation for doing the fair thing by its policy holders, Mr. Wright had but little difficulty with the people while canvassing among them. But his success while here may be attributed in a great measure to a polite, gentlemanly intercourse, which has made him business and friends.

TOWN AND TERRITORY.

The city tax levy of Benton is six mills. Seventy head of mares, colts, geldings and yearlings will be sold at auction in Helena on the 24th inst. by Curtis & Becker.

The 8-inch drive pipe and fixtures for the Helena artesian well have arrived, and the work of sinking will now be prosecuted vigorously.

A misunderstanding of our informant yesterday made the HERALD say Donnell, Lawson & Co. were the New York correspondent of the First National Bank of Livingston. Such is not the case.

In the Mississippi Republican delegation to Chicago there are nine white and nine colored men. There are several colored delegates from Virginia, North and South Carolina, Florida, Alabama and Tennessee.

The River Press learns that cattle in the Marias country show up well this spring. The loss during the past winter is reported very small, scarcely as much in proportion to the number of head on the range as during the mildest winters of the past. This is pretty good evidence that the Marias range is an excellent one.

One of the prominent buildings in Helena that has assumed proportions by which it may be judged, is the one now nearly ready for the roof being constructed on Ewing street by Baker & Schultz, after the style of the French flat, and is divided into four good sized dwellings, with brick partition walls, two story bay windows, and all the modern improvements. The building will cost $15,000.

Helena pocket-books and money bags are not affected by the Wall street panic in New York. And to our great credit be it said, the panic of 1873 had no effect whatever upon the people, banks or business of Montana, and nothing was known here of that great financial revulsion except what came over the wires or was read as news in the papers. It is ever such with legitimate banking and with banks remote from the stock jobbing of Wall street.
