FOR A CITIZENS' TICKET. The Board of Trade Meet and Advocate the Election of City Officers on a Non-Partisan Platform.

Pursuant to a call published over the signature of the Secretary, there was a meeting of the Helena Board of Trade held at 10 o'clock this morning, in the director's room of the Second National Members present : A. J. Davidson, Anton Members present: A. J. Davidson, Anton M. Holter, C. A. Broadwater, Morris Sands, C. K. Cole, R. H. Floyd-Jones, John B. Sanford, J. O. Briscoe, E. W. Walker.

Mr. Davidson, President of the Board of Trade, called the meeting to order and stated that the Board had been called together at the request of a number of citizens, who expressed a wish that the coming municipal election could be carried on without partisan prejudices and asked that the Board, which was composed of members of the two political parties, be got together, with a view to give its in-fluence towards inaugurating a plan by which the citizens could harmonize on candidates for the several city officers who could be found to act for the good of Helena without prejudice as to party predi-

The subject was fully discussed by the members, and there was not a dissenting voice against an effort on the part of the Board disclaiming all partisanship and acting together to influence the two political parties to act in harmony together upon a plan that would secure the best officers, aside from politics, that would serve the

Well Meant, but too Late.

The action of our Board of Trade is always entitled to respect, and in the matter of the approaching city election, beyond all doubt, it would be better to have good officers elected than to have a victory scored for either party, but we think it is too late to organize a citizens' movement that shall take the place of the political organizations altogether. Let both parties put forward their best men, and let the voters choose the best of those put forward. Let all good citizens exert themselves to secure a full, honest, clean election, free from Atlas of the World! abuse and unnecessary expense and fric-

A Test Case.

County Attorney Wallace yesterday filed a paper in the Probate Cobrt, com-plaing that the Public Administrator was violating the law in not turning in certain statements to the Probate Judge. The attorney for Mr. Yeager has agreed to have the matter thus brought into court and a test case will be made of it. The diffi-culty lies in the ambiguity of the law, the county interpreting it one way and the administrator another. The case involves the question whether the county or the administrator shall be the custodian of funds belonging to estates.

Election of Officers.

The annual meeting of the Ladies' Aid Society of the Presbyterian Church was held on Tuesday last, at the residence of Mrs. E. C. Proser. The following officers were elected for the ensuing year:

President—Mrs. E. C. Prosser.
Vice President—Mrs. T. V. Moore.
Secretary—Miss Grace C. Fisk.
Treasurer—Mrs. D. H. Cuthbert. The ladies hope for increased member-ship and assistance in the good work in which they are engaged.

REPUBLICAN CLUB.

An Enthusiastic Gathering of Republicans Meet to Form one In Helena.

Pursuant to call about one hundred Re publicans assembled last evening at Encore Hall to take steps towards organizing a Republican club. The meeting was called to order by Hon. I. D. McCutcheon who briefly stated its object. Mr. James S. Featherly was then elected chairman pro tem and Mr. C. S. Jackman temporary

At the request of the meeting Col. Mc Cutcheon arose and sketched in brief the outlines of the club movement. He said that it was the desire of numerous promi-nent party men that there should be organized in Montana a Territorial League of Republican clubs, similar to those in other states and territories, and that it was other states and territories, and that it was now proposed to organize a club in Helena. After a Territorial League should be formed it could join the National League of Republican clubs. He had been in correspondence with James P. Foster, president of the National League, with reference to the project and had received every encouragement. The prominent feature of all league clubs was active work during the campaign. tive work during the campaign.

Their constitution forbade pressing the claims of any candidate for nomina-tion, but authorized and demanded active work of the club in support of the candidate after the nomination had been made by regular party conventions.

His remarks were received with applause. A committee consisting of Messrs. McCutcheon, Weed and Casedy was then appointed by the chair to select a constitu-tion and by-laws. After a recess of ten minutes they reported a set of such docu-ments, formulated upon the character used in the National League, and the convention proceeded to consider them section by section. There was much discussion and many enthusiastic speeches were made while this work was going on. The utmost unanimity and enthusiasm prevailed, and after two hours of hard work the constitution and by-laws were amended and adopted. and the meeting adjourned to asse again Wednesday evening to sign the constitution and elect officers.

LIVELY PISTOL PLAY.

Two Hack Drivers Get into a Fight and One Pulls a Revolver---Three Shots Fired, but No One Hurt.

Jim Mann is a hack driver who handles the reins of one of Townsley's cabs. Grant is the name of an ex-hack driver, who has will be remebered as the doughty man of muscle who "did up" Mahoney and his depot ally on St. Patrick's day. Last night there was a ball at the Hot Springs, which both Mann and Grant attended. Such cccasions being usually characterized by a general absorption of liquor, last night proved no exception, and both of the men mentioned imbibed somewhat too freely. During the carousal Mann got into a fight with another man, and, it is alleged, Grant interfered. At all events Mann came back to the city this morning before seven o'clock with a badly battered visage. His first act was to purchase a calibre, self-acting revolver, which put in his pocket, and started out to hunt up Grant, avowing his intention of shooting him on sight. His search brought him to the Cosmopolitan hotel, where he found Grant standing in front of the bar. Says Mann to Grant, "What did you hit me for last night?" "I did not strike you," responded Grant. "You did, you're a liar." "You're another, you—" and then followed an interchange of profane epithets Reinig, S. H. Crounse, T. J. Davidson, Herman Richter, L. B. Wells. W. L. Steele.

Third Ward—Jake Switzer, Charles D. ing language, fetched that gentleman a blow on the frontispiece that sent him sprawling to the floor. Grant followed up his victory and was proceeding to test the callousness of his antagonist's anatomy in general, when the bottom Mann got his right arm free and pulled his pistol. Bang! went the first shot, as the bullet struck a $150 plate mirror behind the bar and cracked the glass with an ominous crash. Bang! again and this time the bullet soared upwards, perforating empty space and lodging itself in the ceiling. It is needless to say that the crowd had scattered by this time. The two bar tenders, who had rushed in to stop the fight, and a few spectators made themselves scarce in a twinkling. Grant climbed off his adversary and darted through the office into the ordinary, in the vestibule of which several men had taken refuge to get out of range of the bullets. But Mann spotted Grant and followed him towards the dining room, firing another shot as he entered the door. His arm was knocked upwards however, just as he pulled the trigger, and the third bullet buried itself in the ceiling without touching anybody. By this time an officer was on the scene and Mann was disarmed and placed under arrest. He still talked violently, however, and insisted that he bought his pistol to kill Grant and was going to do it. He was locked up in jail to await trial this afternoon before Judge O'Donnell. It is marvelous that no one was injured, and looking over the scene now, it seems almost impossible that three shots could have been fired in such a contracted space, with a good many people present, and the bullets strike nobody. However, all's well that ends well, and even Porter Mack, who his shoulder, is as smiling as ever. Mann was arraigned in court at 2 o'clock this afternoon on the charge of commit-ting an assault with a deadly weapon, and Judge O'Donnell bound him over for the grand jury in the sum of $500. Mann left the court room in charge of an officer and at last accounts was out trying to "rustle" bondsmen to go his bail.

Voted Down But Nominated Anyway.

At the Third Ward Democratic primary last night Mr. W. E. Cox was nominated a representative of the Board of Trade, and as a champion of the fusion policy en-dorsed by that body yesterday. But he found himself alone amid a crowd, and though he mounted the non-partisan platform he could get no one to accompany him, and when the meeting adjourned he found himself the only individual standing up for the fusion policy. The caucus would not fuse worth a cent, and proceeded to nominate Mr. Cox by acclamation for alderman from the Third Ward on the Democratic ticket.

An Old Timer.

The Board of Trade is in receipt of a letter from an early navigator, Mr. James Harkness, of St. Louis, who was of the firm of Labarge, Harkness & Co., who ran a line of steamers on the Missouri river to Benton as early as 1862. The names of their boats were the Shreveport and Emilie. A SPRING CHICK.

John Chick, of White Sulphur Springs, Leads Mr. Raht on a Wild Goose Chase After Stolen Bullion.

John Chick, a miner at Robinson in the Castle Mountain district, last week claimed to have found a lot of bullion secreted near there. Superintendent Raht, of the Helena Mining and Reduction company, heard of it, and at once proceeded to White Sulphur Springs, thinking that perhaps it was some bullion which had been stolen from his company. He met Chick at the Springs and had him describe the bullion. The description was so accurate that Mr. Raht thought there was no doubt about the case, and at once swore out warrante for the arrest of three men, Reynolds Hugh and Newman, who were suspected of the theft. These are the men who found some bullion in that locality last year, brought it to Helena and sold it. The parties arrested were brought into court, but the complaining witness, Chick, would not testify, claiming he had not discovered any secreted bullion, and knew nothing whatever of the whereabouts of any such find. Of course the case was dismissed, and the defendants were discharged. We omitted to state that prior to the trial the sheriff searched the locality described by Mr. Chick as the cache, but failed to find

It is a singular case and hard to explain. The description of the bullion by Chick tallied exactly with that stolen from the Wickes smelter.

The Husbandman concludes its account of the affair as follows: We learn that Mr. Raht offered to give Chick one-half of the assay value of the bullion if he would produce it, but Chick demanded more, and failing to be assured of his demand he turned about and made the affidavit stating, in effect, that he knew nothing about any bullion. No blame can attach to Mr. Raht for his proceeding, as almost any per-son similarly situated would have done the same and many would have done more. As to Mr. Chick, it is useless to say more than that his acquaintances and friends are dumbfounded and await with anxiety for an explanation or further development. He could never have described the bullion so completely had he not seen it, and why he was not willing to accept a reasonable com-pensation—about $1,200—for his services in procuring the property is a mystery.

THE REGISTRATION.

All Voters Must Register Again This Spring----Monday the Day.

The registration of voters in preparation for the annual spring election takes place on Monday between the hours of 1 and 10 p. m., and there are one or two things in connection therewith upon which citizens are apt to deceive themselves. In the first place previous registration has no effect whatever. The judges who serve as registers are not even permitted to see the previous lists, much less to copy names from them. The ordinance requires an annual registration absolutely de novo every spring before the general city election.

Again, voters must apply in person before they can be registered. The lan-guage of the ordinance is: "The board of registration so organized shall proceed to make a registry list of all persons who shall appear before them and show themselves to be qualified and entitled to vote at the ensuing election," etc. There is no doubt as to what this means or what it was intended to require. The judges cannot act on their knowledge, however certain, or upon information given to them by others. Voters must, each for himself, go before them and see that their names are entered. Readers of this article will be rendering a service if they explain these provisions to those who may otherwise be uninformed or misinformed.

The initial number will make its appearance some time next month.

-Benton Press: From M. P. Whalen, of the Marias, we learn the Manitoba Howe truss bridges across both the Marias and Teton are practically finished, and that all further trouble at the crossing of the streams will thus be avoided. The first bridges were temporary pile driven struc-tures and in high water or gorges were a constant source of annoyance

-The Butte Inter Mountain was seven years old yesterday, and brings out with its eighth year a re-enunciation of the principles that have goverened its career. These are, as everybody knows, sound Republican doctrines, and from the success of the Inter Mountain we presume there are many sturdy followers of the great political faith that take pleasure in reading and supporting such a worthy paper. The HERALD presents birthday greetings. May the Inter Mountain's shadow and circulation wax greater with advancing years.

-Inter Mountain: Asa Cornforth, who was shot a week ago yesterday on Fish creek by William Lucas, and was brought to Butte, has suffered much pain, and his broken leg is in a terrible condition, but the physicians think it can be saved. The bullet shattered the large bone below the knee, and it makes a wound not only painful but slow to heal. Cornforth was brought to Butte before his wound was dressed, the leg being merely wrapped with a blanket, and as there was nothing to hold the splintered bones in position. they grated against each other with an effect upon the sufferer which can readily be imagined.

Sewer Pipe.

Mr. Burnham, of Minneapolis, of Burnham Bros., manufacturers of cement pipe is in Helena to interview the city council on the subject of putting up works here and manufacturing on the ground all the pipe necessary for use in the Helena sewers. The pipe he makes is comp one part of Portland cement and two parts of sand and gravel, and when moulded forms solid tubes which are used with good results as sewage conduits. In St. Paul, we believe, the cement pipe and the vitrified clay pipe are about the same price, and Mr. Burnham claims that the cement pipe will be the cheapest for Helena, as only one-third of its composition (the cement) will have to be shipped, whereas, if clay pipe is used, freight must be paid on the whole. Mr. Burnham will probably submit a proposition to the city coun cil at its next meeting on this subject.

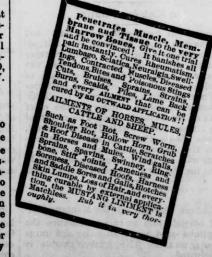

Out of the Blizzard,

A. J. Seligman and wife, who have so journed in New York the past winter, arrived here this morning on the westound Northern Pacific limited. Mr. Seligman declares what are called by courtesy or custom the cold months in Montana are really too enervating for the average human born and raised in New York, and his winter visit to the old home was to enjoy for one thing a marked change of seasons, which in the great city and state of his nativity was forcibly exemplified in the recent magnificent blizzard of about a week's duration. Mr. Seligman measures six feet in height, but he soberly assures a HERALD representative that he wasn't tall enough to keep his head above the snow drifts piled up a few days ago in the Atlantic metropolis. He waited a full week to secure uninterrupted transit out of New York on his westward journey, and during that period of detention toned the color of his coffee with milk at the modest sum of five dollars a quart. It is unnecessary to add that Mr. and Mrs. Seligman are heartily rejoiced to regain the summery climate, delicious sunshine and balmy breezes of Montana.

Tourist Rates.

The passenger department of the Union Pacific has just issued a circular announcing the summer tourists' rates on its line from Council Bluffs, Omaha, St. Joe and Kansas City. The round trip tickets to Helena, Butte and Melrose and return are days, and allow the purchasers twenty days going and ten days returning. Tourists wishing to return via the Northern Pacific can secure tickets for $75.

—R. H. Cokefair, telephone manager, returned from a trip to the West Side this morning. He visited Missoula at the time of the fire last Monday, and the inhabitants of that town now look upon him with suspicion, as every time he goes there a fire is certain to break out. They have dubbed him "Jonah" Cokefair, and will in future have him telegraph them of his arrival, so they can get the fire department ready.

Why Not?

The question is asked by a Calvin correspondent why the newsboy on the Helena, Boulder Valley & Butte railroad does not have the Helena papers for sale. The attention of Mr. Bedford, the general agent in Helena, is called to the matter, and he will probably see that the boys are furnished with papers.
