Friends Were Alarmed-Advised Change of Climate

Miss Mildred Keller, 718 13th street, N. W., Washington, D. C., writes:
"I can safely recommend Peruna for catarrh. I had it for years and it would respond to no kind of treatment, or if it did it was only temporary, and the chicklet revocation the traphle on the slightest provocation the trouble would come back.

"I was in such a state that my friends were alarmed about me, and I was advised to leave this climate. Then I tried Peruna, and to my great joy found it helped me from the first dose I took, and a few bottles cured me.

"It built up my constitution, I regained my appetite, and I feel that I am perfectly well and strong."—Mil-dred Keller.

If you are suffering from impure blood, thin blood, debility, nervousness, exhaustion, you should begin at once with Ayer's Sarsaparilla, the Sarsaparilla you have known all your life. Your doctor knows it, too. Ask him about it.

You must look well after the condition of your liver and bowels. Unless there is daily action of the bowels, poisonous products are absorbed, causing headache, biliousness, nausea, dyspepsia, and thus preventing the Saragarilla from doing its best work. Ayer's Pills are liver pills. Act gently, all vegetable. The dose is only one pill at bedtime.

In his testimony before the Senate ommittee on Interstate Commerce at Washington on May 4th, Prof. Hugo R. Meyer of Chicago University, an expert on railroad management, made this statement:

tests of the farmers of New York and Ohio and Pennsylvania (in the seventies when grain from the west began pouring to the Atlantic seaboard) and cted upon the doctrine which the Interstate Commerce Commission has enunciated time and again, that no man may be deprived of the advantages accruing to him by virtue of his geographical position. We could not have west of the Mississippi a population of millions of people who are prosperous and are great consumers. We never should have seen the years when we built 10,000 and 12,000 miles of railroad for there would have been no farmers west of the Mississippi river who could have used the land that would have been opened up by the building of those railways. And if we had not seen the years when ve could build 10,000 and 12,000 miles of railway a year, we should not have oday east of the Mississippi a steel and iron producing center which is at once the marvel and the despair of Europe, because we could not have built up a steel and iron industry if there had been no market for its pro

We could not have in New England a great boot and shoe industry; we could not have in New England a great cotton milling industry; we could not have spread throughout New York and Pennsylvania and Ohio man-ufacturing industries of the most diversified kinds, because those indus-tries would have no market among the farmers west of the Mississippi river.

And while the progress of this coun-try while the development of the agri-cultural West of this country, did mean the impairment of the agricul-tural value East of the Mississippi river that ran up into hundreds of millions of dollars, it meant inciden tally the building up of great manu facturing industries that added to the value of this land by thousands of millions of dollars. And, gentlemen those things were not forseen in the seventies. The statesmen and the pub-lic men of this country did not see what part the agricultural development of the West was going to play in the industrial development of the East. And you may read the decisions of the Interstate Commerce Commis sion from the first to the last, and what is one of the greatest character-istics of those decisions? The continued inability to see the question in this large way. The Interstate Commerce Commission never can see anything more than that the farm land of some farmer is decreasing in value, or that some man who has a flour mill with a production of 50 barrels a day is being crowded that that shifting of values is a neces sary incident to the industrial and manufacturing development of this country. And if we shall give to the Interstate Commerce Commission the power to regulate rates, we shall no longer have our rates regulated on the statesmanlike basis on which they have been regulated in the past by railway men, who really have been great statesmen, who really have been great builders of empires, who have had an imagination that rivals the imagination of the greatest poet and of the greatest inventor, and who have operated with a courage and daring that rivals the courage daring of the greatest military general. But we shall have our rates regulated by a body of civil servants, bureaucrats, whose besetting sin the world over is that they never can grasp a situation in a large way and abuses which are infinitely greater those of Canada. ******** SIR CONAN DOYLE'S FIRST CASE. *****

Conan Doyle, on being asked why he gave up the practice of medicine, re "Let us look at what might have happened if we had heeded the prothe New York Tribune. The doctor's first call took place on a cold January

The jangle of the door-bell woke me from a sound sleep, and shivering and yawning, I put my head out of the window and said:

"Who's there?"
"Doctor," said a voice, "can you ome to Peter Smith's house at once? His youngest girl has took a dose of laudanum by mistake for paregoric, and we're afraid she'll die.'

'All right; I'll come," I said. I dressed and tramped three miles through the cold and the wet to Smith's. Twice on the way I fell on the icy pavement, and once my hat blew off, and I was half an hour finding it. Finally, I reached Smith's. The house was dark-shutters all closednot a light. I rang the bell. No answer. At last a head stuck itself gingerly out of the window in the third

"Be you Doctor Doyle?" it said. "Yes, let me in."

"Oh, no need to come in, doctor," said the head. "Child's all right. Sleeping quiet."

"But how much laudanum did you give it?"

"Only two drogs, doctor. Not enough to hurt a cat. Guess I'd better take my head in now. Night air is cold. Sorry to have troubled you."

I buttoned up my coat and turned homeward, trying to stifle my anger. Suddenly the window was raised again, and the same voice cried:

"Doctor! I say, doctor!" I hurried back. Perhaps the child had taken a turn for the worse.

"Well, what do you want?" I said. The voice made answer: "Ye won't charge nothing for this visit, will ye?"

They Are Called Upon to Transport Yield of 4,000,000 Acres. It is now thirty-seven years since the federation of Canada was accomplished and about half that space of time since what was then thought the visionary prospect of spanning the continent with the Canadian Pacific railway was conceived. The Northwest was considered a wilderness of snow and ice-a vast, lone land, tenantless save by the bison and the red man. Phenomenal has been the change since then. Along the international boundary twenty years ago was an acreage of 250,000 under crop, yielding 1,200,-000 bushels of wheat. Now the acreage is over 4,000,000 and the annual yield 110,000,000 bushels, while population, acreage and output are augmenting at a rate no other country can approach. The Hon. Clifford Sifton, Canadian minister of the interior, asserts that "the wealth-producing pow-er of the individual is fully four times greater on the prairie farms of the West than in any other portion of the country," and he estimates that there is abundant room there to sustain from 15,000,000 to 20,000,000 of people.

To-day, so amazing has been the de-velopment of the Northwest, the Canadian Pacific railway is unable to serve its commercial needs. "Canada's hop-per," as Sir William Van Horne, the chairman of the Canadan Pacific railway, tersely put it, "has grown too big for the spout." The grain-production of the territory is too enormous for his road, practically double-tracked though it is with sidings and sentineled with elevators. Every fall there is an absolute congestion, with grain coming out and lumber, coal and other commodities going in. Consequently, much of the traffic has to be handled by American transportation agencies. The with the grasp of the statesman; that United States has 2,000 cargo boats on they never can see the fact that they the great lakes, while Canada has only are confronted with a small evil; except by the creation of evils and ways have working alliances with

ORTY YEARS AGO almost every mother thought her child must have PAREGORIC or laudanum to make it sleep. These drugs will produce sleep, and A FEW DROPS TOO MANY will produce the SLEEP FROM WHICH THERE IS NO WAKING. Many are the children who have been killed or whose health has been ruined for life by paregoric, laudanum and morphine, each of which is a narcotic product of opium. Druggists are prohibited from selling either of the narcotics named to children at all, or to anybody without labelling them "poison." The definition of "narcotic" is: "A medicine which relieves pain and produces sleep, but which in poisonous doses produces stupor, coma, convulsions and death." The taste and smell of medicines containing opium are disguised, and sold under the names of "Drops," "Cordials," "Soothing Syrups," etc. You should not permit any medicine to be given to your children without you or your physician know of what it is composed. ISEASES SPEAK FOR THE BLOOD Skin Diseases speak for the blood and tell of the acid-laden, poisonous condition of that vital fluid, and of its effort to throw off and rid the system of the poisons and waste matters that have accumulated in it. Eczema, Tetter, Acne, Salt Rheum, Psoriasis, Boils and diseases of this type are all caused by a weakened and polluted blood circulation, and though they may have lain dormant in the system during the cold weather, at the coming of Spring and Summer, when clog the pores and glands, and of Spring and Summer, when the blood is reacting and making extra efforts to expel all morbid and poisonous matter, they make their appearance. External remedies cannot cure; they soothe and give temporary relief, but often clog the pores and glands, and the poison causing the trouble is thus shut up in the system to break out afresh later on. S. S. S., a purely vegetable blood remedy, cures all skin diseases by going down into the circulation, driving out all poisons and waste matters, strengthening the blood, leaving the skin soft and smooth, and building up the entire system by its tonic effect. S. S. S. cures Nettle Rash, Poison Oak and all skin diseases that enter the system through the pores and glands, as well as those that have their origin in the blood. Book on Skin Diseases and any advice wished, THE SWIFT SPECIFIC CO., ATLANTA, GA. without charge.
