TO ORGANIZE SEED COMPANY

give a return of from thirty-five to fifty dollars per acre, and annually thereafter. I made several experiments this year in regard to the seedling of the alfalfa, and am convinced that my plan of transplanting is absolutely commercial and that in the very near future we are going to build up a very considerable industry in the alfalfa plant business. I lost less than one per cent of the Grimm alfalfa plants that were transplanted on the station farm last summer, and this work was done by inexperienced men without any precautions being taken to insure the living of the plants, depending entirely upon the natural precipitation during the month of May. With my Case transplanter I can set 50,000 plants a day, with a spurt of water from a barrel around every plant as it is set.

"I have also been experimenting with cutting back plants, so as to retard the blooming period until after the summer rains are over and force pollination in August. I have some very nice specimens showing the feasibility of this plan, for if the plants are allowed to set during the rainy period the moisture interferes with pollination and the thing to be desired is to retard this process until the rains are over. Another point that I have also been working on is to determine the proper space between plants for the best seed production. Then accidentally I have discovered that alfalfa seed growing is about the only line of farming that a man can engage in that is 'half-proof.' My nursery at Broadview, consisting of over a hundred acres, was hauled out the first week in July until nothing but straw stood. The moisture that fell with the hail thoroughly wet the ground and the plants sent out new branches and a second growth came up from the roots and set seed, which, although not threshed as yet, looks good for three bushels to the acre. It is proposed to incorporate under the laws of Montana to grow seeds under contract and to handle them in a local seed house to be opened next spring. The seed company will also handle a full line of Dr. Sudduth's alfalfa stock feeds. Temporary arrangements have been made with the Farmers' Elevator Co. to handle these feeds.

Any one desiring to use them can order the feeds from them or from Mr. C. L. Wentworth on Fifth avenue, who is using the feed for horses, cows and calves. Mr. Wentworth is highly pleased with the ration and invites any one who is interested to visit his stables and see the results obtained, which he says are simply marvelous."

City Hall Notes

The east side sewer will be completed by Dec. 1 and the city has demanded easements from property owners for the extension of the branch for two blocks to reach Judith Place. This extension may be completed yet this season.

Meters are now being installed in residences at the request of water users and it is expected that a large number of requests will be made next year.

The firemen were busy Saturday cutting down one of the big trees almost in front of the entrance to the fire hall. Chief Bebb was reluctant to remove the tree, but with the installation of the auto truck the tree would have been a menace.

Former Chief Chamberlain, of Livingston, is in the city this week, visiting with Chief Bebb and the boys.

The report of Police Judge E. W. Mettler for October shows that the fines collected during October amounted to $1,041.50, which is a record breaker with $300 to spare. There were 150 arrests made during the month, the vast majority of these being for drunkenness, and in a great many of those cases sentence was suspended. Two fines of $100 each were imposed upon keepers of "club" saloons for failing to obey the closing ordinance. One man paid a fine of $25 for repairing a building in the fire limits without securing a permit. The collection of water rates during October amounted to $2,240. The collections for this month are expected to reach $3,000.

Behind the Footlights

The Princess.

The big feature of the week at the Princess will be tonight's program, when the world's championship series between the New York Giants and the Philadelphia Athletics will be shown in two reels. The two thousand feet of film will be crowded with the best portions of the games and all fans especially will want to witness this reproduction of the struggle between the National and American league pennant winners. Mathewson, the masterful, "Bullet" Bush, Chief Bender, Plank and the other kings of the mound will be seen in action, along with Baker—"Home Run Baker"—Doyle and the other famous players making up the two lines.

It is worthy of note that the world's series pictures will be seen only once in Montana before coming to Lewistown.

In addition to this feature, there will be two splendid moving picture photoplays, making up an exceptionally varied and interesting program.

Next Sunday evening the usual concert by the Lewistown Concert orchestra will be given, and on last Sunday night, the moving picture bill will be an all-feature one, specially selected for that night.

The Bijou.

The principal vaudeville features, Partick Miles & Company, and Miss Mizzie Admont, failed to arrive here in time to open Sunday, but they delighted three big audiences last evening. The Miles company of three talented people give a delightful one act comedy, "My Friend From Ireland," and Miss Admont, a charming comedienne, has few equals as a mimic.

What it is assumed will be the most novel of all the Selig South African features will be "A Wild Ride," which is to be shown at the Bijou tonight in connection with a complete change of the program. We have had broncho riding galore, along with elephant and camel riding, but the heroine in this feature film makes her sprint on a winged steed, an ostrich. The heroine, needless to say, is Bessie Eytan. To introduce the ostrich ride, the development of the drama brings a family of whites in South Africa under siege in their home by a lot of Zulu warriors, with no chance for escape except from the outside. To secure relief the daughter of the household slips through a window to the ostrich pen, mounts the mighty bird and flees over the veldt to the distant English military station. It takes two reels to tell this story and it is counted upon as being the biggest moving picture feature ever exhibited here.

Thursday evening Jack Golden, for many years one of America's popular stars and who is now the biggest attraction on this western circuit, and his company will open at the Bijou in a playlet that is now taking Butte by storm. Another attraction will be Eugenia Lafayette, "the musical maid." This will be the highest priced vaudeville program ever offered at the Bijou since it opened its doors.

LECTURE CLUB FEATURE.

Montville Flowers to Appear Here November 7th.

A rare treat is in store for the people of Lewistown in the coming to this city of Montville Flowers, the great Shakespearian artist, interpreter and critic. Seldom does a city of this size have an opportunity to hear such an artist. He meets the demands of all.

Montville Flowers has been secured by the entertainment committee at a high cost to appear in the city for an evening's entertainment, Nov. 7, at Culver's opera house. Tickets on sale at Phillips' Drug store at 25 cents for children and 75 cents for adults. Tickets for the balance of the season, six splendid numbers, may be secured by phoning the chamber of commerce or A. A. Franzke, for $2.50 apiece.

The Home Workers.

The Home Workers will hold their regular business and social meeting in the Sunday school room of the church on Friday afternoon, Nov. 7, promptly at three o'clock. The missionary society will also meet at this time, as was formerly the custom, a good program being arranged for the occasion. The business meeting of the Home Workers will follow the program. The hostesses will be Mrs. N. A. Hedges, chairman; Mrs. A. B. Powell, Mrs. H. A. Moulton, Mrs. F. B. Miller, Mrs. I. M. Hobensack, Mrs. J. W. Kinzel, Mrs. C. E. Jackson, Mrs. A. W. Warr, Mrs. Emily Fitzhugh and Mrs. Albert Pfau. A cordial invitation is extended to all who are not affiliated with other church organizations in this city. The Home Workers will hold a sale of Christmas articles and food, which will include home-made pickles, jellies, etc., also pies, cakes, etc., the feast week in December.

Local Sporting News.

The program for the Athletic club's show at Culver's Thursday evening promises well. It ought to be the best card of the kind ever put up here. Intense interest is taken in the 12-round contest between Paddy O'Hern, of Lewistown, and Billy Morse, the "St. Paul Kid." Both men have done a lot of hard work getting in shape and are now in the pink of condition. This will be Paddy's first real contest with a man of class. The fact that Morse has twice won draws with Maurice Thompson and holds one decision over him shows his class. The semi-wind-up of 12 rounds between Joe Uvanni and Jack McCarthy would, under other conditions, be the main event. The preliminary will be between McDonald and Cottams, two clever colored heavyweights.

George Steif gained one fall over Irslinger, European middleweight champion, at Culver's last Tuesday night, putting his man down after an hour and fourteen minutes of the fastest kind of work. Steif was not able to get a second fall in the fifty-five minutes left until midnight, when the match ended under Police Gazette rules. Under the agreement between the men, no decision was to be given unless two falls were secured, so Referee Art Baker had to call it a draw. Irslinger took off weight too fast on returning from Great Falls and was not in his best form, but Steif was the aggressor throughout and match and made a grand showing. He has shown himself to be a legitimate contender for the world's title.
