

DAD ROYALE'S LUCKY DAY

Old Man Had Reason to Be Thankful That His Pig Developed Quality of Enterprise.

One of the most important applications of geological science is the pointing out of places likely to yield stores of mineral wealth. And yet, where copper is concerned, the really great discoveries in this country have been made by pure luck.

It was Old Man Royale's pig that located, according to the story, the richest copper mine in the world—the famous Calumet lode.

Old Man Royale was not interested in mining; he kept a boarding house. But his pig was gifted with the valuable quality of enterprise. Grubbing in the back yard, it "snooted up" a prehistoric Indian cache.

The cache contained a large quantity of copper, a fortune in itself. But examination of the rock beneath disclosed veins of the metal, and mining operations thereupon undertaken developed the Calumet lode, which has since paid $145,000,000 in dividends and $500,000,000 in wages.

"Native" copper was used to a considerable extent by the Indians in pre-Columbian days, for ornamental purposes chiefly. Ancient aboriginal skeletons have been dug up wearing copper masks. In Michigan they got copper out of rocks by building fires against them; and huge nuggets of "mass" copper weighing hundreds of pounds have been found in the Lake Superior region which showed signs of unsuccessful attack. The Indians had no tools with which to cut up such great lumps, and they could not carry them away bodily.

Copper is the American metal par excellence, and of all the metals is the most useful to mankind, iron alone excepted.

Plan to Irrigate Egypt.

For many years projects have been under consideration for obtaining such a complete control of the waters of the upper Nile as will enable Egypt to develop its agricultural resources to the utmost and to secure the country against the dangers of excessive floods, while permitting the Sudan also to develop to some extent its own vast resources.

The works contemplated will extend over a generation and involve the expenditure of tens of millions of dollars, affecting the entire future of irrigation throughout the Nile basin.

The commission, it is reported, will consist of three members: An irrigation engineer nominated by the government of India as president and a British physicist nominated by the University of Cambridge, while to draw on the wide experience available in America on questions of irrigation and water supply, and still further to strengthen the independence of the commission, an irrigation engineer nominated by the government of the United States will constitute the third member.

Aerial Game Laws.

Modern inventions beget new manners and new laws to govern the changed customs. The man who nets fish wholesale seems about to be outclassed by the airplane operator who gathers in wild birds by means of a net. So, apparently, think the sportsmen in one locality of Canada. As a consequence, an association of them are sponsoring a request to the government to prohibit the flights of airplanes over marsh lands, and the use of flying machines in pursuit, shooting, or netting of wild fowl. When warned of anything approaching these birds do not seek cover, but rise immediately into the air and obviously become open at once to the ingenious contrivances of airplane pilots. Rapid-firing guns, and nettings attached beneath the body of the machines, would seem to be an easy means of possible extermination of the birds, and this it is sought to avoid.

Had to Look the Part.

A perpetually unshaven fellow who runs a news stand near the winter garden was haled into court the other day for some trivial charge. He pleaded his own case and was dismissed. The magistrate was interested in his excellent address and his knowledge of the law. He explained that he had been admitted to the bar and was a graduate of a big eastern college. "I could only make $1,000 a year with my law," he said, "and I make about $12,000 a year selling newspapers. It may surprise you to see how unkempt I am, but it is business psychology. If I dressed in good clothes people would not purchase from me."—New York Times.

Taking the Sting Out.

"It seems to me," said the old-fashioned man, "that $75 is a lot of money to pay for a ready-made suit of clothes."

"Perhaps it is," replied the purchaser, "but the salesman made the transaction as painless for me as possible."

Sense of Delicacy.

"Are you not aware," said the heartless friend, "that a presidential boom will not be of the slightest practical service to you?" "Yes," replied Senator Sorghum, "then why do you insist on cultivating one?" "As a matter of courtesy. I don't want to seem to be trying to court publicity by being different from everybody else."

Probably First Moving Pictures.
America is not the original home of the moving picture. This assumption is disproved by an apparatus of ancient Siamese civilization recently rediscovered. The apparatus consists of a number of ancient movie machines unearthed at the National museum in New York, where they had been hidden away in boxes since their presentation to this country by the king of Siam in 1875.

The cinematic art as practiced hundreds of years ago in Siam was carried on as follows: The proper number of figures, designed from leather by hand, were mounted on rods and projected on the screen by the hand of the operator. The screen was a white cloth hung between the audience and the light. The shadows were manipulated by the operator's pushing the manikins along in a trough. As action advanced through climax and anti-climax, the operator recited in a singsong voice five-reel dramas of the love and wrongs of the kings and queens represented.
