Seventh Congressional District.
 FOR CONGRESS,
 JOSEPH A. WRIGHT.
 FOR COMMON PLEAS DISTRICT PROSECUTOR,
 JAMES H. MOORE.

The Draft.
 After this week no more volunteers will be received for either the nine months service, or the three years service. Indiana will very nearly fill her quota of the draft for 300,000, with volunteers. Volunteering is going on rapidly, and by the close of the week, we believe, there will not be more than two or three regiments lacking to make her quota of the draft for 300,000.

The draft to fill up the old regiments will be made soon after the 1st of September. It requires about 22,000 men to fill the old regiments up to their maximum standard. When the entire quota is filled, the Government will have the enormous force of 1,250,000 soldiers. With good generalship, this immense army ought to sweep the rebel government from existence in a very short time. But if we are to have a continuation of the military operations in Kentucky and Tennessee, as they now exist, the government will need a half-million more men in the course of the coming year. But let us hope that matters will improve in those localities, as well as elsewhere.

The Voorheesers.
 The supporters of this gentleman in this locality in this District, were so impressed with the conviction that he could not draw a respectable crowd, that they posted large bills stating that Gov. Wright would be present to discuss the questions of the day with Mr. Voorhees. These bills were extensively circulated for that purpose. The object was to get a large crowd to hear Mr. Voorhees, and not to have Gov. Wright meet him, as that kind of an arrangement would not suit the friends of the "young chief." Mr. Voorhees has no desire to meet Gov. Wright in debate at this time. It would not be safe for him to do so, and he is well aware of the fact. He is evading everything which looks like meeting his competitor in public discussion, and is determined to succeed without regard to the means used for that purpose. He exaggerates and calumnies in the most gross and dishonest manner. The first part of his speeches are devoted to abusing the Administration and denouncing the people of the North as being abolitionists, and as having caused the war by the agitation of the slavery question. When he becomes tired of finding fault with the people of the North and the Administration, he then bestows a few feeble remarks upon the prosecution of the war.

The position of Mr. Voorhees on the war is well understood. The first word he ever uttered in favor of the war, has been uttered since his return from Congress, and public opinion with a world-wide desire to be re-elected have extorted from his unwilling heart, a feeble support of the war. The Government has been engaged in this struggle for nearly eighteen months and during all this time Mr. Voorhees has said nothing to aid it, until within the last six weeks or two months. It has required all this time for him to determine whether he was for or against the Government. It has required nearly eighteen months for him to decide which side of the question he supports. To say the best for Mr. Voorhees is a recent convert to the war sentiment, and an approaching election, has been the prime cause of his conversion. This kind of patriotism, the voters of this District will not support. Had Mr. Voorhees supported the Government in the prosecution of the war since the struggle first commenced, and gave it the labor which he has given the other side no opposition would have been made to his election in the District. But he has supported the enemies of a country and opposed the institutions of his Government until so short a time before the election that the people regard him as being forced to the position he now assumes, and his professions as being insincere. And as a consequence he will lose his election.

Gov. Wright, his opponent, has favored the policy of coercion for the rebels ever since the commencement of the rebellion. He has allowed no occasion to pass without giving the weight of his influence in behalf of his Government and against the rebel leaders. The rebel newspapers do not claim him as being their most devoted friend as they did Mr. Voorhees. They can see nothing in his actions, nor can they read anything in his speeches, which they publish and comment as being favorable to their cause. The Mobile Register a violent rebel organ, published a sketch of Mr. Voorhees' life, and also his portrait in full size. That paper must have had some admiration for the man. It must have admired his virtues. It could not be that the paper did all this through hatred. It must have been a passion of another kind. The rebel organ does not sketch the Gov. Wright, nor publish his portrait. They have no words of commeulation and praise for him, because he has been true to his country and an enemy to all rebels. He has no friends among those who are battling to overthrow the Republic. None of them will write his biography or present his portrait to the people. All the praise of rebellion has fallen alone upon Messrs. Voorhees, Vallandigham, Jesse D. Bright and Ben. Wood, and the people think it has fallen on the right men.

They Know Their Friends.
 The Richmond correspondent of the Grand Appeal, speaking of the aid and comfort rendered the rebels by Northern sympathizers, says:
 "The number of these Southern sympathizers in the North is evidently on the increase. Another series of such victories as those gained by Jackson in the valley, another excursion of Jack Morgan into Kentucky, another such capture of his base line as that effected by McClellan in the week ago, will inaugurate a considerable peace party in the North, of which it is just as likely as not the New York Herald will be the organ. Last year, such an article as that recently headed by the New York Herald, and which would not have been tolerated by the mob, nor by the Cabinet. The Exchange of Baltimore, or the Daily News of New York, both suppressed by Seward, never spoke out more boldly than this speech, and it is a real patriot. Last year, such a speech as that lately made in the treason case of the Gordon's in Boston, would have secured for the speaker a lodging in Fort Warren. Mr. Sumner, who delivered this speech, was once in high favor with the Abolitionists. He came to Richmond as their paid attorney to prosecute the cause of John Brown before the Legislature of Virginia, was respectfully heard at the bar of the Senate, and returned to get his fee. But he had the boldness, after reaching Boston to publish a card declaring that the utmost freedom of speech was tolerated in Virginia, the defamers of the State to the contrary notwithstanding, and that he had been treated with a courtesy which he should not forget, and this lowered Mr. Sumner very much in the opinion of the 'friends of freedom.' His speech in the Gordon case is significant of a growing discontent with the war at the North. Let us be true to ourselves; let us relax no effort in our struggle for independence; and we shall ere long secure it without foreign intervention."

Gen. Andrew Jackson's Proclamation to the Free Negroes, in 1811.
 HEADQUARTERS, SEVENTH MILITARY DIST., Mobile, Sept. 21, 1814.
 To the Free Colored Inhabitants of Louisiana:
 Through a mistaken policy, you have been heretofore deprived of a participation in the glorious struggle for national rights in which our country is engaged. This no longer shall exist.
 As sons of freedom, you are now called upon to defend our most inalienable blessing. As Americans, your country looks with confidence to her adopted children for valiant support, as a faithful return for the advantages enjoyed under her mild and equitable government. As fathers, husbands, and brothers, you are summoned to rally round the standard of the eagle to defend all which is dear in existence.
 Your country, although calling for your exertions, does not wish you to engage in her cause without remunerating you for the services rendered. Your intelligent minds are not to be led away by false representations. Your love of honor would cause you to despise the man who should attempt to deceive you. With the sincerity of a soldier and the language of truth I address you.
 To every noble-hearted freeman of color volunteering to serve during the present contest, I call you to my arms, and no longer will be paid the same bounty, in money and lands, now received by the white soldiers of the United States, viz: $124 in money, and 160 acres of land. The non-commissioned officers and privates will also be entitled to the same monthly pay, daily rations, and clothes, furnished to any American soldier.

On enrolling yourselves in companies, the Major General commanding will select officers from your regiment from your white fellow citizens. Your non-commissioned officers will be appointed from among yourselves.
 Due regard will be paid to the feelings of freemen and soldiers. You will not, by being associated with white men in the same corps, be exposed to improper comparison or unjust sarcasm. As a distinct, independent battalion of colored troops, pursuing the path of glory, you will, undivided, receive the applause and gratitude of your countrymen.
 To assure you of the sincerity of my intentions, and my anxiety to engage you in reliable service to our country, I have communicated my wishes to the Governor of Louisiana, who is fully informed as to the manner of enrollment, and will give you every necessary information on the subject of this address.

ANDREW JACKSON.
 Maj. Gen. Commanding.
 December 13, 1814, Gen. Jackson issued, in the French language, the following address to the colored members of his army.
 "Soldiers: When, on the banks of the Mobile, I called you to my arms, inviting you to partake of the peril and glory of your white fellow-citizens, I expected much from you, for I was not ignorant that you possessed qualities most formidable to an invader. I knew with what fortitude you could endure hunger and thirst, and all the fatigues of a campaign. I knew well you loved your native country, and that you, as well as ourselves, had to defend what man holds most dear—his parents, wife, children and property. You have done more than I expected. In addition to the previous qualities I before knew you to possess, I found among you a noble enthusiasm, which leads to the performance of great deeds.
 "Soldiers! the President of the United States shall hear how praiseworthy was your conduct in the hour of danger, and the representatives of the American people will give you the praise which exploits entitle you to. Your General anticipates them in applauding your noble ardor.
 "The enemy approaches; his vessels cover our lakes; our brave citizens are united, and all attention has ceased among them. Their only object is to see that they shall win the prize of glory, or who the most glory, its noblest reward."
 By order, THOMAS BUTLER, Aid-de-Camp.

POOR JIM GREENS.—Jim Green's troubles, caused by whisky and secession, have not been few nor very far between. His ups and downs a year ago are to-day familiar to our readers. It is said that recently, while at Washington, he received a safe conduct from Secretary Seward, and that he reached home with his old friends. He was then nabbed him as a Union man. They put him astride of a bare backed horse, and forced him to ride at a brisk trot. When his caprice stopped to take meals, they would rudely take him a piece of bacon and bread, accompanied by the coarsest epithets and jeers. He was constantly mocked at for his faithlessness to the secession cause, and turning to the Union. Have you intended to keep him or what they proposed to do, he does not know. After being held prisoner for ten days, the gang who had him in charge was attacked by Col. McNeil, and in their retreat the ex-Senator was left behind. He improved the opportunity, and made his escape on foot to Monticello—Quincy Wiley.

The day when President Lincoln was inaugurated—March 4, 1861—United States 44 percent stock sold at 92 1/2. After increasing the public debt, which then stood at $16,435,000, to $350,000,000, the stock is now selling in the market at 94.

To the Union Men of Vigo County.
 Believing that the present crisis in our National affairs, call for the laying aside of all party issues and party feelings, and that all should unite for the support of the Government in suppressing this Rebellion. We would invite all Union men of Vigo County, to join in a Mass Convention to be held at Terre Haute, on Saturday August 30, 1862, for the purpose of nominating Candidates for the various County offices to be filled at the approaching election.
