COME AND TAKE A DRINK .- The Cincinnati Gazette remarks this is often heard an almost as often complied with, but the comitant question, "What will you take" far more easily answered than the query, "What did you drink." In these latter days when almost everthing and everybody is a sham and humbug, it belooves drinkers to b very cautious in responding to the invita tions of their friends. Liquors are now not merely adulterated, they are utterly spuriou containing, in a begshead, not a single drop | they scattered without firing a shot of the fluids whose names they bear. A l tle reflection will show the truth of this a sertion. The enormous duties on all impor ed wines, brandies and other liquors offers a premium for scoundrellem, and it "follows as canters, demijohns, barrels and casks con taining what purports to be these articles are absolute and unmigated lies. A good quality of French brandy is worth $20 per gellen; divide this into forty dri-ks. which is a moderate estimate, and judge from this what you get when you pay twenty conts for a glass of liquor which cost at least fifty cents. Make, if you please, the same calculation in regard to Bourbon whisky, gin, rum, imported wines, and domestic liquers of all kinds, and see how much your ten, fifteen and twenty cent dripks are flavored with the genuine article. Tipplers, there is nomech under any of your vests, no perve in any of your bodies, no portion of brain it any of your skulls, that will escape excoriation, destruction or softening if you continue to pour this "wet damnation" down your broats. Drink if you choose, no one will prevent you; but If you desire to die, which by the way, will certainly result from th deadly decoctions that are sold as "tipple, permit us to suggest hydrocyanic soid.
