Another Statement for Tilton.
CHICAGO, Sept. 18.—The Tribune this afternoon publishes Tilton's new statement in full, making four full pages of that paper. Following is a synopsis of the main points.
First portion of the statement consists of quotations from letters and other evidence, showing the friendly relations existing between Tilton and Beecher up to the time of Mrs. Tilton's confession, and of the marital felicity of Tilton and wife up to the same period, all of which is offered as a refutation of the charge of Tilton's vindictiveness toward Beecher and of his brutality toward his wife. He then relates, with great particularity, the circumstances under which Mrs. Tilton's confession was given, which he alleges was given in detail after exacting from him a solemn pledge that he was not to injure the person that implicated nor communicate the fact of her relation, as she wanted to inform him of the fact in her own way. The first criminal act between Beecher and herself, she stated, occurred Oct. 10, 1868, while Tilton was absent in New England. The next one was the succeeding Saturday, while Tilton was absent in New England. The next one was the succeeding Saturday evening, and these were followed at intervals during the winter of 1868-69, and Spring. He next inserts a portion of a letter from Susan B. Anthony to Mrs. Stanton, dated Nov. 16, 1872, which plainly indicates that Mrs. Tilton had confessed her intimacy with Beecher, as at that time she was the charge of Beecher that Mrs. Tilton thrust her love upon him, upon which she was given to prove the falsity of this assumption. Two columns are devoted to showing the fierce and passionate nature of Mrs. Morse, by quotations from her letters to Tilton, both before and after her discovery of her daughter's intimacy with Beecher. This discovery, he says, was first made by Mrs. Morse on the occasion of her daughter's liaison with a friend of Mrs. Tilton, when he said to her, in Mrs. Tilton's presence, that she must either speak respectfully of him and his guests or leave the house, whereupon Mrs. Morse turned round in her daughter's presence and cried, "Elizabeth, have you been doing wrong?" To which, receiving no reply she added, "Is it with Mr. Beecher?" Mrs. Tilton left the room, but her mother followed and repeated the question. Elizabeth bowed her head in assent. Mrs. Morse, he says, was made ill by this disclosure, and afterwards for a short time treated him better, and urged him to forgive Elizabeth for the sin of her life.

FOREIGN.
Scheme to Drive Foreigners out of Hayti.
KINGSTON (Jamaica), Sept. 15.—By the new Haytian Constitution of 1874, foreigners will be treated during the time of any future revolution, rebellion or war like Haytiens; that is, anything they may lose or have destroyed will not be repaid by the Haytian Government. On the other hand, the old Constitution still holds good, that a white man can ever acquire the rights of nationality. As almost all the foreign trade, imported and exported, is in the hands of foreigners (for Haytiens have, with very few exceptions, no credit in other countries), it is natural that foreign houses must, in supplying smaller merchants, give large credit; so, according to the new Constitution, those who owe foreigners can pay them during the next revolution, when license will be given them to rob foreigners without fear of punishment. To judge from the speeches made in the National Assembly, it is evidently the object of the speakers to get up a rebellion to drive foreigners out of Hayti.
