MRS. MCKIM GETS DIVORCE.

Mrs. Margaret Emerson McKim, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Isaac E. Emerson, of Baltimore, was granted an absolute divorce in Reno, Nev., Saturday, from her husband, Dr. Smith Hollins McKim, formerly of Baltimore, after her legal residence of six months had been established. The trial lasted two hours and twenty minutes, and Mrs. McKim's story of the alleged drunkenness and cruelty on the part of her husband occupied just 25 minutes.

Nervously laughing all through her testimony and agitatedly twirling a rubber band around her finger, Mrs. McKim told clearly and distinctly the story of her marital troubles. She said that she was married on December 30, 1902, in Baltimore, and that she had lived at Irvington, summering at Newport, and that she had gone to New York in October, 1908.

The decree granted Mrs. McKim is an absolute one.

She will not resume her maiden name, and stated that no money settlement had or would be made with Dr. McKim.

The action at Reno precludes Dr. McKim from further litigation there, but it is believed he may resort to the courts of New York.

In her testimony she charged her husband with cruelty and drunkenness, and stated that she had left him six times. Continuing she said:

"At a dinner party, he swore at me because I spoke to a gentleman friend in the party, and grossly insulted me in the presence of all. He told me that I lied and used other more awful words. I could not attend other parties given in our honor because of his drunkenness. Once he swore at me about his fancy breed of chickens, and threw me on the floor. My father heard my cries and came to my rescue. I remained with father that night. In January, 1908, my husband insisted that I leave a dinner party, and return at 8:30 o'clock. I refused, and he threw me across the room on to a sofa, breaking the arm of the furniture. When he insisted that I be alone with him in a closed room, I, in fear, refused, and he sunk his nails into my arm, and I had to lock myself up for protection. I feared for my life, he was so drunk."

Mrs. Emerson denied the rumor that her daughter intended to marry Alfred G. Vanderbilt, or any other man.

Dysentery is a dangerous disease but can be cured. Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy has been successfully used in nine epidemics of dysentery. It has never been known to fail. It is equally valuable for children and adults, and when reduced with water and sweetened, it is pleasant to take. Sold by W. F. Creighton and Richard Gibson.

HORSES IN DEMAND.

Twenty or 25 years ago street railway companies were the largest purchasers of horses. When electric power was adopted the stables were used for other purposes, and the world was informed that the market for horses was killed by the trolley and that horse dealers must find other occupations. A few years later bicycles appeared in countless thousands, and the horse received another death blow. In 1900 the motor car began to take practical form and the horse was again declared to be an encumbrance on the earth. But the predictions were false; the horse survived every onslaught, and the more the people used trolley cars, bicycles and automobiles the more insistent was the demand for horses; the establishment of new horse shoe factories after the automobile made a place for itself appears to afford conclusive testimony as to the popularity of the horse. Prices also have been maintained; desirable horses sell readily for from $250 to $500. The statement that last year their value was over $350,000,000, or three times the increase of the value of American automobiles built during the same period, is calculated to impress upon the average observer the fact that this is by no means a "horseless age" described in the motor car catalogues—[Providence Journal.

Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets gently stimulate the liver and bowels to expel poisonous matter, cleanse the system, cure constipation and sick headache. Sold by W. F. Creighton and Richard Gibson.

BURGLAR USES A CLEAVER.

A burglar broke into the bedroom of John Crutti, a New Orleans merchant, early Saturday, and while Crutti lay sleeping beside his wife, the intruder, using a butcher's cleaver, crushed his victim's skull, then compelled Mrs. Crutti to give up money secured in the residence safe. It is presumed he got about $800.

Crutti will die. His wife is hysterical and as yet has been unable to tell a connected story of the burglary and probable murder.

The burglar has not been caught.

Chloroforming the children the intruder went to the room occupied by Crutti and his wife. He smashed the merchant's skull, then placing a revolver to Mrs. Crutti's head compelled her to open the residence safe, in which there was about $800. This Mrs. Crutti gave the burglar. Then he left, went to the street corner, smoked a cigarette while waiting for a car, and all the time the wife of the victim was so paralyzed with fright that she did not cry for the police. The burglar had 15 minutes start before an alarm was given.

Mrs. Crutti says she was awakened by the smashing of the cleaver against her husband's skull. She looked up, and saw the weapon poised above her head. Observing that the woman was awake the burglar threw down the cleaver and compelled her to open the safe.

Wire in Cow's Heart.

Doylstown, Pa., Aug. 15.—An interesting veterinary case exists at Wycomb, where Dr. John N. Rosenberger was called to treat a cow belonging to Lester Smith. The first symptoms indicated acute indigestion, but upon the doctor's second visit the condition of the cow had so changed that Dr. Rosenberger advised Mr. Smith that some foreign object, as for instance, a piece of bailing wire, was probably in her heart and that she was likely to fall over dead at any moment. Just a few moments later, while the men were still looking at her she actually fell dead, and, to verify his diagnosis, Dr. Rosenberger opened the cow in the presence of Mr. Smith and extracted a piece of bailing wire, as he had anticipated.

William Wadsworth, of Youngstown known professionally as "Dare Devil Dash" died Saturday night at a Fall River, Mass. hospital of injuries sustained when he fell a distance of 70 feet while performing at an amusement park near Fall River. Wadsworth's act was to coast on a bicycle down a steep incline with his clothing a mass of flames. Last week while appearing his machine collapsed just after he had started on his downward flight and he fell to the ground.
