On our outside will be found a full account of the death of the President, the autopsy, the funeral preparations, and the assumption of the Presidential office by President Arthur. This is a number worth preserving. The Fair opened yesterday with an attractive programme of yegetables, stock, girls, politicians, and a few people. The morning was clear but by noon the sky was clouded over and the present outlook promises rain, which is much needed-down in Michigan. We hope still that the weather will le favorable for the rest of the week and give our fair a fair chance. To-day there is a prospect of a good att-ndance notwithstanding the fact that farmers are rushed with work. LATER.-As we go to press, it is raining with a prospect of continuing ELL, Trustees, all day. Hope it will not turn to snow again.

We understand that J. T. Smith, of Heron Lake, has finished his tow mill, and will soon be ready to go to work.— Mr. Smith is one of the lice men of Southwestern M nnesota, and will this winter press thousands of tons of hay, and manufacture endless amounts of tow. Why do not some of the business men of Windom invest in such enterprises? Thousands of tons of flax fibre go to waste every year, which could be the clergy and others, interspersed with manufactured into a marketable com-modity with profit to the maker as well were also held at the churches on Sunas the farmer. Mr. Smith is growing day. rich through the pluck and enterprise he possesses, and is making the country around him wealthy.—The resources of Windom in flax and hay are equal with those of Heron Lake, and instead of perishing as they do, the profits of far-mers ought to be increased and the country made better off by utilizing what now makes food for the fiery elements. We cannot help thinking if the business men of Windom would invest in tow and hay mills they would not only help themselves but develop the country also.-Windom Reporter. True as Gospel, Huntington, and just what the ADVANCE has been urging down this way. We said in a former article that hay can be sold at $10 a ton in Stillwater and $11 to $12 in St. Louis. The freight to St. Louis is a fraction over $4 and of course less to Stillwater. At the outside, it would not cost above $7 to put hay down in either city, leaving a profit of several dollars a ton. As to the manufacture of tow, we are not informed, but we know that flax seed is now $1.25 per bushel, that in some instances a man and a boy have this year harvested 50 acres of flax and that for two years our farmers have been saved by flax, which can be much more economically hardled than wheat. while the seed is easier to procure, and this year both the price and yield are larger than those of wheat. Add to this the sale of the straw, where there are tow mills, and it will be seen that flax at present is our best crop, excepting

From the Philadelphia Press of Aug, 15, HOW THE EMANCIPATION PROCLAMA-TION CAME TO BE ISSUED. At 1:30 the bell again announced the advent of services in the forest amphitheatre, and Col. S. P. Kase was introduced by President Wood to a congregation covering a half acre of ground. After the hymn Sweet Bye-and-Bye had een trilled forth by countless throats, Col. Kase proceeded to relate his personal experiences of Spiritualism, and gave a graphic description of the alleged conversion of President Lincoln to Spiritualism, which, the speaker asserted, led more than any thing else to the emancipation of the slaves. "In 1862," said Col. Kase, "I had an interview with President Lincoln and presented him with a letter written by J. B.
