When a sly little hand you're permitted to seize
With a velvety softness about it,
Do you think you can drop it with never Well, maybe you can—but I doubt it

When a tapering walst is in reach of your arm,
With a wonderful plumpness about it,
Do you argue the point 'twixt the good and the Well, may be you do-but I doubt it

And if by these tricks you should capture a heart,
With a womanly sweetness about it,
Will you guard it, and keep it and act the good Well, maybe you will-but I doubt it.

THE GENERAL'S WARD.

Gen. Biddulph set back in his chair. looking the picture of misery, while his currie was growing cold and his henchman and trusted servant Scott was amazed and a little slarmed at such extraordinary proceedings. The cause of all this was a letter with a foreign postmark held feebly in the general's hand. It was briefly, nay, tersely, written:

The Hussars, Delhi, May 10, 18—Dear Sir.—Just received your last letter; many thanks for the budget of papers you have sent; they are most acceptable. Am anything but well, and much worried. Will you do me a favor? My girl is anxious to see England; it is simply impossible for me to get leave for the next two years, and as that state of affairs does not please her she has determined to start off by horself. Of course she will have proper chaperonage from here and bring her own people, but I thought you would like to do me a turn for "auld lang syne" and look after her. It seems altogether a most unorthodox arrangement, but she is a young woman with a will, and you know my old maxim, "Anything for a quiet life." She will arrive, I expoct, soon after you get this, and will go first to Clarges street with the woman who is taking eare of her. With much gratitude and remembrances to the old set, ever dear Dick, your affectionate friend, Druce Daly.

P. R.—Inclosed find draft on my bankers for any expense she might incur. Dessa is just 19. It certainly was an alarming prospect to a bachelor. gazed with astonishment at the specta-cle of his master, fidgeting—actually fidgeting—from the window to the arm-chair, like the veriest school-boy. The It certainly was an alarming prospect to a bachelor. A young girl untram-meled, untaught, to be thus thrown on his hands! The general felt as if an eclipse had suddenly darkened the suushine of his life; as if some heavy veil shine of his life; as it some heavy veil had dropped over the bright vista of the future. To have his days tormented by the whims and fancies of a little. by the whims and fancies of a little minx, his social joys disturbed to escort a young savage from the tower to Mme. Tussaud's-the thought was terrible. He pushed away his plate, and in his annoyanco rumpled his carefully adjusted locks of hair, whereat Scott grew more alarmed, and at last summoned up courage to ask his master if he would not like some fresh breakfast. The general woke from his dream of horror and looked gloomily at the man. "Eh, what, Scott? breakfast? No.

I think I shall stroll round to the club; I have had some troublesome news." Scott silently brought the immaculate hat, stick and gloves, and stood by while his master rearranged his locks and adjusted his hat.

The general drew a deep breath of satisfaction as he marched up St. James' street to his club. The sun was shining gloriously, the air was warm and delightful, and gradually his depressed into which he was ushered, until he respirits rose, and he felt once more him-

"After all," he mused as he walked along, "Daly used to be the best fellow in the world years ago; who knows if she may not take after him? I shall look her up in the morning, trot her about to one or two places, and then I gence that some sort of altercation was shall have done my duty. It is just like Druce Daly"—his wrath was rising again—"to put a man in my position, a bachelor, in such an awkward fix; but voices dropped and he let his eye wander tiess man possible. Wonder is how he ever married and had a daughter. Let me see, whom the duce did he mar-

Back into the far past fled his memory; but although he thought and thought, he could not recall the mother of the girl who was coming to plague

"I might ask Goodwin," he deter-"he is sure to know. Deuce take it! Why on earth am I to be trouwith another man's worries? Why did the mother die? Why did Daly marry and have a daughter?" His railings at fate were interrupted by a hearty "good morning" from hale-looking man, as he entered the club and sat down at the same table, whereon was laid a dainty breakfast. "Good morning, Goodwin," he replied gloomily, not even trying to catch a glimpse of his reflection in the mirror opposite, a sign he was greatly dis-

"Have some breakfast?" "Thanks."

Hunger was asserting itself. took the cup of coffee, pushed across the table and stirred it round and round, his thoughts flown away to his vexation

'Why, hang it all, man; you look ed feebly.
"Very," Mrs. Comyns replied dryly.
"My health is so bad I am quite incomquite worried! anything wrong?" asked Col. Godwin, in an interval of hearty eating.
"Yes," laconically; and then he un etent to manage her."
"May I not see her?" asked the gen-

Col. Goodwin looked amused. "Well. I don't see anything terrible in all this, he said, with a twinkle in his eye; "you are fond enough of women as a rule; why should you object to this one?"

This is a very different case," said the general, testily. "I admire women, it is useless to deny it, but I like them cultivated, refined, gentle, not raw, un-tutored savages as this young female is Then it is the greatest bore on earth to be tied and bound by the whims of a girl in her teens, who will lead me a life of horror before the is done! Want to eat penry ices in the street, or some such thing!"

The other laughed heartily. "I suppose having girls of one's one makes all the difference; I don't mind their chat-ter and fun; it is rather pleasant than otherwise. If this young woman is any-thing like her mother was, she ought to be the most charming creature in the

"The very thing I wanted to ask you, exclaimed Gen. Biddulph. "Whom did Daly marry?"

She was the only daughter of Brunc -vou remember him out in Cashmere. It must be—let me see," continued Col. Godwin, leaning back in his chair and musing; "it must be about twenty or twenty-one years ago since I saw her. She was the most lovely girl, with face like an angel's." The general's face brightened. "Daly fell a hopeless victim, and i return I think she loved him passion ately. He was nearly distraught when she died. The girl must be just the age her mother was when I first met

The general's hand stole unconso ly to his gray mustache. "And you say Mrs. Daly was very lovely?" he asked. glancing for the first time at the mirror. The breakfast had certainly refreshed

"Very!" emphatically.
"Ah, well, perhaps it may not be so bad. Druce Daly was a good-looking

"He was, indeed," responded Colone ne married her." Godwin. "Let me know when the girl arrives; I should like to see her, so I Mrs Comyns' soft low voice died away. The general stood silent as a statue. "Then this girl," he said, at am sure would my wife. If she gets beyond you, pack her off to Combewall to play with my girls." length, "is—is"— "Black," observed Mrs. Comyns, black as your hat on the chimney. A

"Thanks. Are you going to Spen-cer's? I will come with you; I must sound of rapid movement came from the inner room, the door was burst open, speak to him about my new mare." Somehow the news crept out. When and before the general had time to re-

Gen. Biddulph took his stroll in the park a few days later, he was greeted by sly hints and tender inquiries after his is your guardian; come and shake hands frigidity of their welcome. Every morning Gen. Biddulph engerly searched his letters in quest of some proaching when he should come face to face with the much-thought-of, much-talked-of ward, he found himself actually nervous and excited. Scott, who had received the news with stolid silence, general's mind during the unusual mi-of future success. He saw a vesta of long social triumphs in which he shared ion as fair as a lily or dusky as the pro-as the Norse daughters. One thing, at any rate, he was certain of: she would man like the general, who had lived so many years and had so much experience, could have made this mistake. Pig's beauty is all very well; but youth is more than often connected with indifferent skins, lengthy limbs and gawky forms generally desirous of wriggling out of their garments. His wishes in he ended by starting to welcome the traveler with the personification of fe-male lovliness before his eyes.

He knocked briskly at the door in Clarges street, and smiled benignly on the man who opened it and preceded him up stairs. The sun was lingering on the walls as he mounted the stair case.

and the evening air came in sweet and fresh through an open window. It had been very hot all day, and the general was surprised at first to find a bright membered that of course the travelers but from an adjoining chamber came sounds of voices, loud and almost discordant. The general shivered. Could hers be one of them? He hoped not.

It was apparent to the meanest intelliwhile parcels and small boxes were strewn around in the wildest profusion.

The hands of the clock moved slowly made her appearance. The general she said, in languid tones, extending a thin, delicate hand. "I am so sorry to keep you waiting, but I was detained by Dessa," (sighing faintly). The general hastened to push an easy chair forward. "I am really quite glad you have come," continued Mrs. Comyns, inking into the chair, and drawing the

"Are you alluding to Miss Daly?"

"She is high-spirited?" he suggest-eral, after a pause.

"She will be here in a minute.

daresay you heard some sounds general uttered an exclamation of dismay. "I think it is only right to let you know what she is." the lady coninued, holding out her hands to the fire, though to him the room was insufferably hot, "unless you are pre-pared; perhaps you are. Has Maj.

Daly told you anything about her?"
The general was reluctantly compelled to reply in the negative.

"Just as I expected; he is too lazy to rid of her for a time. I am not sur-

"But she is so beautiful?" said the general, apologetically, the picture of his visionary ward rising clearly before

Mrs. Comyns turned her head aside.

She is a trifle dark," was her reply; and somehow the general traced suppressed

"She is a brunette, then? he asked not an courant with the state of things.

May I ask if you remember the late Mrs.

turned promptly.
"That was the first wife; I mean the

"The second!" repeated the general.

"It is a most extraordinary story.

zeal worthy of a better cause, Major Daly second.'

blankly.

ng when you came in. Yes, I shawl closely around her, "for she is

"How do you do, Gen. Biddulph?"

advanced with a low bow.

altogether beyond me."

and wavs.

Waiting is always annoying, now it would be chilly. The room was empty, that evening.

sly hints and tender inquiries after his ward. Fair faces beamed on him, and pretty lips murmured kind promises to take the young stranger in hand and show her life. He began to shine with a reflected glory. Miss Daly, according to Col. Godwin's authority, must be a beauty; and—this was gently whispered—it was well known Druce Daly had dollars collected in goodly numbers. dollars collected in goodly numbers.

The ne'er-do-wells and out-of-pocket the beauty of his dreams, the heiress The ne'er-do-wells and out-of-pocket young men exhibited an extraordinary consideration for the general's welfared. They were always dropping in upon him was a promise that the street of the street consideration for the general's welfared.

They were always dropping in upon him unawares notwithstanding the grimness of Scott and the unmistakable ebony setting."

"She is shy," said Mrs. Comyns, with a smile still hovering around the corners of her mouth. "You will be better friends by and by."

dispatch informing him of the arrival of his ward, and he called twice a day re-Murmuring some incoherent fare-well, the general seized his hat, and gular at Clarges street only to receive hastily made his escape from the room. the intelligence that "Mrs. Comyns and Miss Daly had not yet arrived." and out of the house. He strode home overwhelmed with the horrible discovery. Mortification, anger and vexed pride surged in his heart, and he longed A week had elapsed since he received Maj. Daly's letter, and still no tidings had come. Contrary winds or recal-citrant engines had delayed the P. & O. at that moment for Major Daly's head, that he might have relieved his overwith its fair freight, and the general charged feelings. He would be a laughwas beginning to be uneasy. At last one morning he was gratified when he called at the house by the announcement that "the ladies were expected the club, and sought his pillow a much epressed and annoyed man. Now that the actual moment was ap-

As he sat at breakfast the next morning, carefully studying his Bradshaw preparatory to taking flight, Scott enered; marched up to his side, and tendered a tray with a card upon it. The eneral took it up mechanically. "Miss Daly." He dropped the innocent pasteboard as if it had been a scorpion.

"I am engaged, Scott," he gasped, leaning back in his chair aghast. "Say very sorry, but"-"Beg parkon, general; the young la grations presented a brilliant panorama dy was most anxious to see you."

The general groaned, "Show her in."
He turned savagely to his Bradshaw.
What was he to say to the blackmoor largely. Then he fell to thinking what the queen of all these joys would be like; tall and stately, small and fragile; blue, gray, brown, black eyes; complexwhen she appeared? He could not sub-mit to be hunted down in this way

She must be made to understand clear ly that he would have nothing to do verbial berry: a Claopatra or a Gretch-en, soft as a ball of down or sturdy with her, and to-night he would start for Paris enroute for some place, the further from England the better. The door opened. He shut the book nervously. The apparition of the night before loomed in the doorway. He was speaking.

"Gen. Biddulph," she said hesitatingly, "please forgive me for disturbthis case were father to the picture, and ing you so early, but I could not rest until I had seen you and apologized for my nonsensical rudeness last night."

> "I am Dessa Daly." "Miss Daly! But, surely-I-that is"-"Please let me explain all," said Miss begin. 1-when we landed yesterday and when they were gone I learnt from her that there was a little pass off Sunda here," drawing the smiling black maid forward, "as me. It was very, very wrong, but I hope you will forgive us."
>
> "No. 'twouldn't you all the same."
>
> Twilight of the shutting in when it huge traveling case, with labels all over don't know what papa would say it; masses of wraps vivid scarlet, a bear skin rug and an unmistakable Scotch plaid were tossed unheeded on the floor,

"but I hope-I do hope you will forgive The general thawed. He took the on. Waiting is always annoying, now it was most provoking. But just as he was debating whether to go or stay the the little hand outstretched and pressed it warmly. door of the inner room was opened, and a pale, fair, faded woman of about 40 he replied gallantly, the vision of lovliness before him dispelling his wrath.

"But-then you were not-scoldingyour maid last night?" "No, no," laughed the girl gayly; "that was part of my plot, I wanted you to think I was the most horrible creature in the world. Sunda acted that scene all alone for your benefit." "She was most successful," said the general, dryly; "but I will be even with you yet, Miss Dessa, for the trick you asked the general hastily.

"Yes," sighed the lady. out of friendship to Maj. Daly I undertook the charge of his daughter; but I was totally unprepared for her wild temper "Now-forever-always!"

The general's ward was a great suc-

Gehenna According to Boston. dox church. Recently she grew thought so; that was Dessa giving her ayah a lesson—in fact pulling out the poor creature's hair in handfuls." The fants who surrounded her the joys of er had given her when she left home. and trust in a way to deserve them.

do anything of the sort. My own opinion is that he is too delighted to get before her. "But if you are bad," and she looked relentingly into the innocent faces before her, "you won't go to heaven. October term of the Circuit Court was If you are bad," and she took a firm in session John was drawn on the jury grip on the doctrine she felt called on and had to be away for two weeks. o teach-"if you are bad, my dear children, you will go to rell, and that san?"

The Tactics of Lee and Meade,

Philadeldhia Ledger.

anxiously.

Mrs. Comyns laughed softly. "My dear Gep. Biddulph," she said, looking at him for one moment, "I see you are It was Lee's purpose when he came into Pennsylvania that he would not take a "tactical offensive"-that is, Daly?"

"I have no personal recollection, certainly; but I know her to have been a beautiful and amiable woman," he rethat he would not attack his adversary, but compel that adversary to attack him. There is evidence indeed that he made promise to that effect to his corps commanders because of the danger to him in case of failure growing out of his distance from his base of supplies and the necessity of recrossing the Potomac. But Meade knew all that, too, and it so fell out that Lee had to make the attack. Major Daly, in one of his eccentric moods, wandered up country, fell, ill, and was carefully nursed and tended by a native woman of inferior rank. that Lee had to make the attack. How fierce and persistent that was and how it was finally repulsed all may know to-day. But all do not know that, after it was so repulsed, Lee baffled and beaten, lay in wait all the following day to entice Meade into a counter attack, for which he had the treat divisions of Hood and Me. sought her out when he recovered, and the fresh divisions of Hood and Mc-Laws to give Meade just the disastrous reception that Meade had given him, and which the Philadelphia brigade had given to Pickett's charging column on the 8d of July. Meade knew his men, and he knew, too, the imminent hazard of the situation too well to imperil his own vital success

HRS. BARKER'S WOOD.

"No wood!" Mrs. John Barker's eyes wandered in lismay around the unpromising looking the silk dress. wood yard. Two or three green logs ay there, against one of which an ax

What should she do? Half impathen, with a thought of the pan of light a written line which ran! lough waiting inside, she began to "DEAR JOHN—I am going to spend the chips which lay the day over at Mrs. Carter's. Will be around, only to fling them down again. home in time to give you a late supper." "It's no use. I can't bake bread work, she had soon harnessed a horse to a light buggy.

and ached for a month to pay for it, so I'm not going to do it again," She brought out her pan of bread wrapped in a large cloth, and, setting it You will fine her there if you want her." in the bottom of the buggy, sprung in herself, and had soon driven the two here's the sewin' she's to do for mother, and her mother's. Arriving there she come and wash to our house to-morcarried in her pan and set it down with laugh.

had to do it or let it spoil. Men will sage, you young rascal?" forget, you know."
She was not going to blame him to others, nor let them imagine how often, since she had gone as a bride to John Barker's new house only last spring, she had this same trouble about wood. turned cold; it was worse by daylight than in the evening gloom. He shut his eyes for one second, and when he opened them again they fell on the sweetest, fairest face it had ever been cused for not keepin wood on his mind cused for not keepin' wood on his mind his lot to see. Before he could recover it's John Barker, if there's anything in from his surprise the owner of the face was speaking.

"Gen. Biddulph," she said hesita"Gen blood and I say there is. His father is just so—a real forehanded man, good provider, and took proper pride in havin' things spick and span about him, but never seemin' to think what a bother it was to the women folks not to have their wood handy. Many and many's The general looked mystified. "To whom have I the pleasure of speaking?" he asked hurriedly. greatest time a scrapin' up a few chips or shakin' the snow off sticks of miserable green wood."

John's wife turned her face as she Daly, quickly, her pretty face suffused with blushes. "I scarcely know how to would see in her face how nearly her in. 1—when we landed yesterday own experience was already becoming the people, friends of Mrs. Comyns, like that of John's mother.

"I used to tell her," went on her mother "that she'd ought to trained him excitement about me, and—it was very foolish of them—they wished to see as not, John takes a little after his fathwhat I was like. They told her you er-nobody could wonder at it-and I knew nothing about me, and a spirit of mischief entered our heads, we determined to play a little joke on you, and pass off Sunda here," drawing the smil
"twouldn't do—eh, Susan?"

"No, 'twouldn't do, mother; thank

Twilight of the November day was shutting in when John Barker, returnbackelor, in such an awkward fix; but voices dropped and he let his eye wander he always was the most careless and shiftless man possible. Worder is how huge traveling ease with labels all every locked decidedly grim.

The general drew himself up stiffly, and looked decidedly grim.

"What's up ? no fire! no wife! No if he knew how shockingly I had treated mis old friend," continued the culprit, out and took a view of the wood yard. her pretty head drooping gracefully; After fifteen minutes' work with his ax he carried in an armful of wood and kindling, and had a bright fire crackling and snapping in the stove by the time his wife's cheery voice was heard.

"I've had a real frolic, John," she said, tugging in a basket, from which she laid out several loaves of bread and a number of light, puffy biscuits. "I couldn't find any wood, so I just hitch ed up old Bill and went over to moth er's to bake my bread.' There was not the slightest shade o eproach in her tones, but John felt a tingle of mortification at what had oc curred, and resolved that it should not happen again, and so he assured Susan

And the next day he went vigorously have played upon me. I might have to work to keep his word. Logs, some known Druce Daly's daughter would freshly felled, others which had fallen have had a good spice of mischief in her composition. It is just the sort of thing piece of timber land belonging to the your father delighted to do when we farm, and for a week all hands sawed Dessa lifted her deep gray eyes to his. "Then you have forgiven me?" and chopped with a will. Then the results were flung pell mell into the wood shed, and John, who had never learned at home to look far enough ahead to at home to look far enough ahead to think of providing seasoned wood from year to year, felt proud at having done his duty like a man.
And Susan, as she worried through that winter with wood green or decayed, One of the best and brighest girls of the Back Bay teaches a Sunday deal of mind of her own to make up) school class in a certain famous Orthosuch another, remembering some sensivery earnest picturing to the eager in- ble advice her sensible, energetic mothheaven to be won by those who live things has to be borne in this world, and them that learns to bear 'em best's "You must love the lord," said she, the best of all. Men will be trying, "and be just as good as you know and if woman can't be patient it's apt to how to be. You must never get into make trouble. But mind—when I say tempers, you must never tell naughty | bear I mean there's reason in all things, stories, you must always mind your and I don't mean you should bear mammas, and be good in every way things that's out of all reason. If a you know how, and then you will be sure to go to heaven when you die. Wom't that be nice?"

woman'll let herself be trod on, and them that does it'll never thank her for it or look up to her for it. Bear what's it or look up to her for it. Bear what's

"Yes, ma'am," lisped all the babies reasonable, Susan, but if things go beyond reason, why then look out for yourself." It came about that when the next

"Why, what in the world's this, Suhe said, staring into the wood--that—" she groped for a word and ended eloquently, "and that would be perfectly ridiculous."

Saturday.

Saturday.

"Thet's my winter's supply of wood."

"That's my winter's supply of wood," said Susan.

"And how in thunder did it get here-and in such good shape, too!' He gazed at it in astonishment. It was in good shape. Row after row of well-seasoned, neatly sawed and split wood piled to the rafters, with a heap of pine and hemlock in kindling lengths in one corner.
"I had it putthere," said Susan, qui-

Some more questions he asked, but, with a little way, she sometimes had of asserting herself, she gave him to un-derstand she had nothing more to tell, and he was ashamed to ask any one simple gayeties in : "ountry neighporhood, in which Joan and his wife took their full share. "It seems to me, Susan," he said one evening on their return from a church sociable, "you don't fix up quite enough when you go out.

"Don't I look nice?" "Yes, of course you do; but that's a dress you had when we were married, and that's nigh on two years ago. I haven't seen anything of that silk I gave you last fall."

"Are you sure?" she said, with a smile which he could not understand.

"Yes, I am. "Taint been made up yet, is it?"

"Yes, it is. And you've seen it worn." John was puzzled, and felt sure he had not, but Susan would give him no further satisfaction on the subject of

As spring approached she made a few suggestions as to the advisability of fire word being set to season in due time. leaned in a cleft formed by a stove But John, prompt and dilligent in preplength being half chapped off. Her aration for seed time and harvest, full husband and his hired help, consisting of the best intentions regarding his busband and his hired help, consisting of a man and boy, had just gone to their work on a distant part of the farm; and the knew she should see neither of them before dark.

What should she do? Half impa.

What should she do? Half impa-ing him. The house was clean and quiet and cheerless; no wife there, but He was glad to have her go, for she with these. I know what I'll do."

She quickly washed the dinner dishes with the already cooling water, and then went to the stable, in which, with hands dextrous by practice in such work she had seen been such as the had seen been such as the hands dextrous by practice in such the hands device the had seen been such as the hands device the had seen been such as the hands device the had seen been such as the had seen such as the next week and the next and the next week and the next are the next week and the next and the next week and the next are the next week and the next are the next week and the next and the next week and the next are the next week and the next week and the next are the nex to find his woodyard, which had still remained empty, occupied by half a dozen or so cords of first class wood, "Mother and the girls will think I'm with Sol. Carter and his two big boys crazy," she said to herself, "but I busy at it, and they worked until it was can't help that. I swung an ax once stored up as before in the shed. And John felt cross, but asked no questions. "Where's Mrs. Barker?" said a small Carter boy to John, as he put up his bars one evening.

"She is over to neighbor Grant's. "It ain't no matter. You can tell her miles which lay between her own house and mother wants to know if she can

"The-old scratch she does?" exclaimed John, turning on the boy in "There, mother. I've come to bake my bread. John and the others went off without leaving me any wood, and I mean by comin' to me with such a mes-

The astonished youngster dropped his sewing and applied his knuckles to his eyes as John advanced towards him; then ran with all his might as the bundle came whizzing after him. And Su-san's lord and master strode in dignified wrath down the road to meet her. "Susan-I don't understand thisthere's been a young chap talkin' about sewin' and washin' for Mrs. Carter. What in all creation does it mean, I'd like to know?" "It's all right," said Susan, compo-

"What was the message?" "Thunderation! You don't mean to say you sew and wash for other folks, "Yes, I do."
"And for what?" Is there anything you want, Susan, that I don't give I can't saw and chop, but I can wash and sew and do anything else a woman ought to do, and there's no blame to me for changing work I can do for work I can't. I'm never," Susan spoke very firmly, but without a grain of irritation, "going to put up with poor, badly cut, green wood again as long as I can turn my woman's work into man's work. I'd rather wash for somebody every week, it's half the comfort of a woman's life. You've never had to wait for your dinner with the wood sizzling in the stove and the fire not burning since I've been providing the John was dumbfounded. "And you've been working for Sol. Carter's wife these two years!" he said, in intense disgust.

"No; my silk dress paid for last year's wood. I hated to let it go, John, because you gave it me, but Tilda Carter took a fancy to it. It was she you saw wearing it," and Susan laughed at his grunt of dissatisfaction with the whole

"You to go letting me down this way before the Carter's!" he growled. And if Mrs. John's eyes flashed a little who can blame her, as she answered: "If there's any letting down to do it's your doing, not mine!"

They finished their walk home in lence, and then John said:

"Susan, will you leave the wood business to me after this?" "I'll try you, John," she said. -- Phila-delphia Call.

The Cost of Nobility.

Brooklyn Eagle: Labouchere says that the twenty-eight dukes, thirtythree marquises and 200 earls of the House of Lords have received from the tax-payers of Great Britain since 1850 the aggregate sum of £66,000,000 and odd—in round numbers some $330,000,-000. By way of earning this handsome sum of money he says that they have opposed, rejected and mutilated every bill sent up to them in the interest of the people-obstreuting, as far as lay in their power, the enlargement of the franchise, the reformation of mu-nicipalities, the relief of Catholics, Dissenters and Jews, the promotion of edacation, the suppression of liberty at elections, the laws facilitating the transfer and distribution of land and all others designed for the good of the public, instead of the protection of their grasping and rapacious order. Adding to this sum total and cost of royalty during the same interval, it will be observed that Great Britain pays rather a heavy sum for her pageants, particularly as none of them longer represent the

How Camphor is Made. The Druggist: Camphor is made in Japan in this way. After a tree is elled to the earth it is cut into chips, which are laid in a tub or a large iron pot partially filled with water, placed over a slow fire. Through holes in the bottom of the tub steam slowly rises, and, heating the chips generates oil and camphor. Of course, the tub with the chips has a closely fitting cov-er. From this cover a bamboo pipe eads to a succession of other tubs with bamboo connections, and the last of these tubs is divided into two compartments, one above the other, the dismall holes to allow the water and oil to pass to the lower compartment. The upper compartment is supplied with a straw layer, which catches and holds the camphor in crystal in density. the camphor in crystal in deposit as it passes to the cooling process. The camphor is then seperated from the straw, packed in wooden tubs and is ready for market. The oil is used by the natives for illuminating and other

What the Baby was Thinking.

Mrs. Fogg: As I came by the station, ust now, I saw a baby in its carriage. It was amusing to see the little thing watch the locomotive as it rushed past, and until it was out of sight. I wonder what the little darling was thinking Fogg: That depends. If it was a girl, she was thinking, "splendid," "just too lovely for anything," or something of that sort. If it was a boy, he might have been mentally constructing a smoke-consumer or patent coup-ler, but probably was considering whether it was best to invest in the first, second or third mortgage bonds, its equipment sevens, land-grant eights, or car-trust thirteens.—Boston Transaction of health is to be found in Dr. R. V. Pierce's "Favorite Prescription." to the merits of which, as a remedy for the female weakness and kindred affections, thousands testify.

Rev. Dr. McGlynn, istely deposed from the priesthood he gives to the public for the first time his final summons to Rome, which was sent him in May; denounces the way in which he was addressed in it by the cardinal prefect of the Propaganda, but attributes that prelate's feelings toward him to the one-sided said numerous letters sent to Rome against the doctor by Arch-bishop Corrigan. He also attempts to prove that his case was prejudiced at Rome, and that he was called there to be disciplined rather than for trial. Speaking of his having partaken of the holy communion last Sunday, Dr. McGlynn says:

He did so because he holds that he has not been legally excommunicated. He would not enter any church and raiso s disturbance in order to partake of the eu-Rev. Dr. McGlynn, fately deposed from listurbance in order to partake of the eucharist. He would receive it from any friendly priests who believed as he in a quiet way, in order not to get a friend in trouble. If all priests refuse him, he, being still a priest, may administer it, and that he will partake of the emblems from his own hands.

The Earl of Aberdeen to Irishmen. The Earl of Aberdeen, replying to an adress presented by an Irish delegation in dress presented by an Irish delegation in New York, spoke words of hope and advice. Incidentally the encouraging words and works of the countess of Aberdeen were also touched upon feelingly. The were also touched upon feelingly. The earl in reply said:
This address will be treasured and remembered by Lady Aberdeen and myself. It indicates that the people of America are seeking to aleviate the condition of Ireland by giving it home rule by peaceful and constitutional modes, home rule is not dead, but it is to come sooner or later. Recent results in England show that voters are were very learned to have are won over. I came to America to have British minds disabused of the wrongideas British minds disabused of the wrongideas which have been formed, thereby letting them see and think for themselves. Their ideas regarding the Irish-American sympathizers with Ireland are formed by the great journals of the United Kingdom. I am satisfied that you represent a large and enlightened body which believes strictly in the polley of Mr. Gladstone's bill, and who desire only the reform asked in that bill. They need not expect to see all of the provisions of that bill revived. That bill is dead; but the principal lives, and in time will be carthe principal lives, and in time will be car-ried into effect by Gladstone, aided by Mr. Parnell and his followers, and that by conrarnell and his followers, and that by constitutional measures. I know that the Irish are great politicians and know the influence they have on the politics of this country. It is the duty of Irishmen to this great country, and that British country which is flighting home rule across the sens to be good Irishmen honorable, and eas, to be good Irishmen, honorable, and assist by honorable means alone the contest which is being waged. A Washington Weather Summary. The torrid weather which has prevailed in nearly every section of the country during the past week is not due, the signal officer says, to any exceptional causes, and no relief can be predicted at present. The weather, however, was considerably cooler on the 14th inst., in some parts of the on the 14th inst., in some parts of the UnitedStates than previously. During the past twenty-four hours the temperature has fallen from 8 to 12 degrees in Western Dakota, Wyoming, Montana and Florida. A cool wave has also made itself felt in Northeru Toxas, the Indian Territory, Arkansas and Louisians. The warm weather has also been broken in the Lake Superior region, Pennsylvania, New York and the New England states by a reduction of from four to eighteen degrees. The heat continues unabated in Kansas, Nebraska and Iowa, Minnesota, Eastern Dakota and the South Atlantic states. Fort Sully, Dakota, at Minnesota, Eastern Dakota and the South Atlantic states. Fort Sully, Dakota, at 3 o'clock to-day was the hottest place in the United States, with the thermometer at 102. Huron, Dak., and Atlanta, Ga., followed with 98 degrees, and North Platte, Neh., Dubuque, Is., Indianapolis, Ind., Lynchburg and Norfold, Va., with 96 degrees. The coolest section of the country to-day was the Lake Superior region, and Duluth, Minn., returns a lower temperature than any unelevated city in the United States, viz., 56 degrees.

Western Geological Surreys
In his proposed work the coming season Maj. Powell, of the geological survey, say of the western portion:
It is proposed to commence surveys in Iowa upon the one-mile scale, for the reason that the relief there is slight and the detailed maps are required for use in the special geological work required in the region. It is recommended that for the prosecution of the work contemplated in this section there be allotted $20,000. In Montana, subsection 2, two parties, headed by R. M. Douglass and F. Tweedy, respectively, will be employed in triangulation and the topographic work in Southwestern Montana, where it is proposed to complete the surveys required. The investigations of last year have thrown much light on the iron-hearing and copper-bearing rocks of the Lake Superior region, and it is proposed to continue the investigation of those rocks in Northern Michigan, Wisconsin and Minnesota in accordance with the Western Geological Surveysthose rocks in Northern Michigan, Wisconsin and Minnesota in accordance with the general plan already formulated. Prof. R. D. Irving will remain in charge of the work, and will have the assistance of the following: W. W. Daniels, W. A. Harrison, C. W. Ball, C. N. Van Bliss and C. H. Williams. It is recommended that there be allotted for this work $10,000.

The treasury department of state to the report of a special agent of the treasury department relative to the undervaluation of steel slabs exported from Charleroi, Belgium, and the certification of the same by the consular agent at that place. The special agent agent. place. The special agent says: The cus-toms officers can place no confidence in his certificates, and the invoice might as well be a blank piece of paper so far as givin any information of market values is con

The Panama Canal company must be in rather desperate financial straits when the next loan, which it is proposed to issu in Paris, will net, at the heavy proposed discount of 57% per cent, only 85,000,000 discount of 57% per cent, only 85,000,000 francs from the face value of 200,000,000

Hall's Vegetable Sicilian Hair Renewe s becoming a universal favorite for restor ng gray hair to its original color, an making hair grow thick and strong. The crimes bill was discussed in the hour of lords and put on its third reading.

$500 Not Called For. It seems strange that it is necessary to percuade men that you can cure their diseases by offering a premium to the man who fails to receive benefit. And yet Dr

The lollowing postmasters have been commissioned: Dakota, Tarsus, P. H. Brunel: Wisconsin, Steinthal, W. Witte.

A Wonderful Freak of Nature is sometimes exhibited in our public exhibitions. When we gaze upon some of the peculiar freaks dame nature occasionally indulges in, our minds revert back to the creation of man, "who is so fearfully and wonderful made." The mysterand wonderful made." The mysteries of his nature have been unraveled by Dr. R. V. Pierce, of Buffalo, and through his knowledge of those mysteries he has been able to prepare his "Golden Medical Discovery," which is a specific for all blood taints, poisons and humors, such as scrotula, pimples, blotches, eruptions, swellings, tumors, places, and eruptions, swellings, tumors, ulce kindred affections. By druggists.

Young Cyrus W. Feld netted $600,000 one day on the stump in Manhatten Elevated stock.

A Bonanza Mine

Ex-Secretary Mauning is still a sick man; has lost much fisch and takes little inter-est in passing events.

Two years ago a South American fodder plant was found to possess the extraordinary power of stopping the appetite for liquors, effects of dissipation and nervous uors, effects of dissipation and nervous exhaustion of women at once, without stimulation or reaction, leaving no morbid appetites or bad effects more than any ordinary food. It created so much excitentially along the church people and doctors, that a large manufactory was started, over five million quart bottles were sold the first months. The whole country are astounded at the size of the demand. The Grocers and Druggists are full of it. It is only 50 ets a quart bottle. The women swarm after it.

Thurman positively declines to be the Democratic candidate for governor of

It is so Everywhere.—E. B. Rall, drugglat at Haittsville, Kan., has this to write about Allen's Lung Balsam: It is the best selling throat and itung remedy, and gives general satisfaction. Buy the large $1.00 bottles for Lung Diseases.

Mrs. Riegel, formerly Elizabeth Nicholson, a celebrated Philadelphia belle, recently married Baron Frederic Blane of France.

An English physician observed a cat with symptoms of whooping cough in a family where there was a child with that disease. Query—Which one brought it into the house, the boy or the cat?—Dr. Foot's Health Monthly.

The lucky Canadian Pacific is to be permitted to ship goods in bond from Pacific coast seaports to Port Moody.

Heroes and Heroines. There are few who enjoy bodily troubles with out complaint. Did you ever meet among the heroes or heroines of your acquaintance-if any such there have been—one with a yellowish cast of countenance and that jaundiced aspect generally, which the most unpracticed eye recognizes as the product of a disordered liver, who did not complain, and peevishly too, of the soreness of the recalcitrant organ, of pains beneath the right shoulder blade, of dyspeptic symptoms, constipation and headache? Of course you never did, and of course the individual was not using Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, or he would not so have looked—so have complained. To purify the blood when contaminated with hile, and conduct the secretion into its proper channel, to re-establish regularity of the bowels, banish billous headache and remove impediments to complete digestion, nothing can approach in efficacy this peerless alternative and tonic. Malarial complaints, always involving the liver and kidneys and bladder inactively, are remedied by it. It is a capital appetizer.

Lord Churchill speaks in the house of commons against certain clauses of the frish land bill.

Allen's Iron Tonic Bitters is not a fancy alcoholic beverage. All genuine bear the signature of J. P. Allen, Druggist, St. Paul, Minn.

The best cough medicine is Piso's Cure for Consumption. Sold everywhere 25 cent Save your wagons, your horses and patience by using Frazer Axle Grease. FOR DYSPEPSIA, Indigsetion, Depression of Spi and General Debility, in their various forms, also a preventative against Fever and Ague, and other termittent Fevers, the "FERRO-PHOSPHORATED EL IR of CALISAYA" made by Hazzard Hazzard & New York, and sold by all Druggleis, is the best to and for patients recovering from Fever or other at ness, it has no equal.

TORTURING, DISPIGURING, ITCHING, acaly and pimply diseases of the skin, scalp, and blood with loss of hair, from infance to old age, are cured by the CUTICURA REMEDIES.

CUTICURA RESOLVERY, the New Blood Purifier, removes the blood and perspiration of disease-sustains, clements, and thus removes the cause.

CUTICURA, the great Skin Cura, instantly allays theing and inflammation, clears the skin and scalp of crusia, scales and sores, and restores the hair.

CUTICURA BOAP, an exquisite Skin Beautifier, is indispansable in treating skin diseases, baby humors, skin blemishes, chaused and oily skin. CUTICURA indispansable in treating skin diseases, baby humora, skin blemishes, chapped and oily skin, Cuticuma skin besutifiers. Bold everywhere, Price, Cuticuma, 50c; Soar, 55c; Resolvent, $1. Prepared by the POTTER Days AND CHEMICAL CO., BOSTON, MASS.

**FOR Send for "How to Cure Skin Diseases." TINTED with the loveliest delicacy is the skin

altham PATENT Dust Proof Watches

were originally made for railway men, whose service particularly required an absolutely tight closing case.

They have given entire satisfaction, and their reputation has spread so rapidly, that they have become the standard Watches for Millers, Miners, Lumbermen, Farmers, Mechanics, Engineers, Travelers and others whose occupation requires a watch which is proof against dust and moisture.

Over 150,000 WALTHAM PATENT DUST PROOF CASES are now in actual use.

The Waltham were the first PATENT DUST PROOF Cases manufactured, and are the only ones which completely exclude dust and moisture from the movement.

They are far superior to all others claiming equal advantages.

Each genuine case is plainly marked with the name and trade mark of the AMERICAN WALTHAM WATCH COMPANY.

FOR SALE BY ALL FIRST CLASS JEWELERS.

$5 TO $8 A DAY, Samples worth $1.50 RREE. Lines not under the horse's feet. Write BREWSTRE SAFETY REIS HOLDER CO., Holly, Rich.

For a woman to say she does not use Procter & Gamble's Lenox Soap, is to admit she is "behind the times."

Nobody uses ordinary soap now they can get "Lenox."

Speedily Restore Sold Everywhere.

holera ramps

Tonic, Alterative and Cathartic Properties.

Summer Complaints and all Bowel Troubles are cured by Perry Davis
Pain

All druggists sell it.

DATENTS OBTAINED by LOUIS BAGGER 4 Typewriting AND TELEGRAPHY

BEST AND LARGEST SCHOOL in the United States. Shorthand by make a specialty. Send for circumstance of the states o

FACE, HANDS, FEET.

JUSEPH GILLUI 12 STEEL PENS GOLD MEDAL PARIS EXPOSITION-1878 THE MOST PERFECT OF PENS MARLIN REPEATING

tood perfectly accurate and absolutely ease. Made in all sizes for large or small game.

BALLARD Gallery, Hunting and Target Rifes. Send for illustrated Catalogue. Marlin Fire Arms Co., New Haven, Con-

CHICHESTER'S ENGLISH PENNYROYAL PILLS The Original and Only Cenuine. particulars in letter by return mail. Naw PAPER. CHICKENTER CHEMICAL, CO., 2515 Madison Square, Philada. Pa-Beld by Brasspia. everywhere. As for "Chicken-ter's English. Pennyroyal Pilis, Take no other.

Closing out sale

ITEW ENGLAND CONSERVATORY YOF MUSIC Boston, Mass. THE LARGEST and BEST EQUIPPED in the WORLD—100 instructors, 2165 Students last year. Thorough Instructions Vocal and Instrumental Music, Fismo and Organ Tonjne, Fine Art, Orstory, Literature, French, German, and Italian Languages, English Branches, Gynnastics, etc. Tuttlen, $546 $37, board and room with Steam Hestand Electric Light, $5 00 to $7.50 per week. Fall Term begins Sept. 8, 1807. For Illustrated Calender, with full information, address E. TOURJEE, Dir., Franklin Sq., BOSTON, Mass.

TANSILLS PUNCH 54

We are selling four times as many "Tansill's Punch against any other cigar and have only had them in the case a week. J. A. TOZIER, Druggist, Brockport, N. Y. Address R. W. TANSILL & CO., Chicago The oldest medicine in the world is probably Dr. Isaac Thompson's ELEBRATED EYE WATE This article is a carefully prepared Physicians pre-cription, and has been in constant use nearly a cen-tury, and notwithstanding the many other prepara-tions that have been introduced into the market, the sale of this article is constantly increasing. If the di-rections are followed it will never fail. We particular-ly invite the attention of physicians to its merrits. JOHN L. THOMPSON, SONS & CO., TROY, N. T.

The BUYERS GUIDE to issued Sept. and March, each year. 43 313 pages, 8½x11½ inches, with over 3,600 illustrations — a whole Picture Gallery. GIVES Wholesale Prices city of to consumers on all goods for personal or family use. Tells how to order, and gives exact cost of every-thing you use, out, drink, wear, or have fun with. These invaluable. BOOKS contain information glouned from the markets of the world. We will mail a copy FREE to any ad-dress upon receipt of 10 cts. to definy arpense of mailing. Let us hear from you, Respectfully,

MONTGOMERY WARD & CO.