

HOUSE AGREES TO IT

Adopts the Compromise War Revenue Measure.

The Bill Almost Certain to Become a Law—An Abstract of Its Most Important Features of Taxation.

Washington, June 10.—The house agreed to the conference report on the war revenue bill. The bill, which was passed by the house on June 8, is now in the hands of the conference committee. The bill is expected to become a law within a few days.

The bill is a compromise between the two houses. It provides for a tax on the sale of real estate, and on the sale of personal property. It also provides for a tax on the income of corporations, and on the income of individuals. The bill is expected to raise $1,000,000,000 for the war.

The bill is a compromise between the two houses. It provides for a tax on the sale of real estate, and on the sale of personal property. It also provides for a tax on the income of corporations, and on the income of individuals. The bill is expected to raise $1,000,000,000 for the war.

The bill is a compromise between the two houses. It provides for a tax on the sale of real estate, and on the sale of personal property. It also provides for a tax on the income of corporations, and on the income of individuals. The bill is expected to raise $1,000,000,000 for the war.

The bill is a compromise between the two houses. It provides for a tax on the sale of real estate, and on the sale of personal property. It also provides for a tax on the income of corporations, and on the income of individuals. The bill is expected to raise $1,000,000,000 for the war.

The bill is a compromise between the two houses. It provides for a tax on the sale of real estate, and on the sale of personal property. It also provides for a tax on the income of corporations, and on the income of individuals. The bill is expected to raise $1,000,000,000 for the war.

The bill is a compromise between the two houses. It provides for a tax on the sale of real estate, and on the sale of personal property. It also provides for a tax on the income of corporations, and on the income of individuals. The bill is expected to raise $1,000,000,000 for the war.

The bill is a compromise between the two houses. It provides for a tax on the sale of real estate, and on the sale of personal property. It also provides for a tax on the income of corporations, and on the income of individuals. The bill is expected to raise $1,000,000,000 for the war.

The bill is a compromise between the two houses. It provides for a tax on the sale of real estate, and on the sale of personal property. It also provides for a tax on the income of corporations, and on the income of individuals. The bill is expected to raise $1,000,000,000 for the war.

The bill is a compromise between the two houses. It provides for a tax on the sale of real estate, and on the sale of personal property. It also provides for a tax on the income of corporations, and on the income of individuals. The bill is expected to raise $1,000,000,000 for the war.

The bill is a compromise between the two houses. It provides for a tax on the sale of real estate, and on the sale of personal property. It also provides for a tax on the income of corporations, and on the income of individuals. The bill is expected to raise $1,000,000,000 for the war.

The bill is a compromise between the two houses. It provides for a tax on the sale of real estate, and on the sale of personal property. It also provides for a tax on the income of corporations, and on the income of individuals. The bill is expected to raise $1,000,000,000 for the war.

The bill is a compromise between the two houses. It provides for a tax on the sale of real estate, and on the sale of personal property. It also provides for a tax on the income of corporations, and on the income of individuals. The bill is expected to raise $1,000,000,000 for the war.

The bill is a compromise between the two houses. It provides for a tax on the sale of real estate, and on the sale of personal property. It also provides for a tax on the income of corporations, and on the income of individuals. The bill is expected to raise $1,000,000,000 for the war.

The bill is a compromise between the two houses. It provides for a tax on the sale of real estate, and on the sale of personal property. It also provides for a tax on the income of corporations, and on the income of individuals. The bill is expected to raise $1,000,000,000 for the war.

The bill is a compromise between the two houses. It provides for a tax on the sale of real estate, and on the sale of personal property. It also provides for a tax on the income of corporations, and on the income of individuals. The bill is expected to raise $1,000,000,000 for the war.

A THEATER TYRANT.

Queer Title Bestowed on the Reigning Princess of Waldeck.

Amusing Picture of Art and Dramatic Life in the Capital of One of Germany's Ducal States.

[Special Berlin Letter.] One of the most interesting and peculiar features of German life is the society and the manners in the "residences" of duodecimal states. It is there, in fact, where alone in the young and pushing empire the German of 50 and 60 years ago still survives. Of course, it has always been the case in Germany that its art and literary life has been highly centralized. The classical period of German literature, with its Goethe, Schiller, Herder, Wieland and Lessing, all enjoying the mild impetus of patronage exerted by small courts and enlightened rulers of petty states—in that respect but typical. Even today, with all the strong hegemony which Berlin and Prussia exert in the political life of the nation, the intellectual life of Germany is by no means centralized in the empire's capital, as any surface observer may notice.

The capitals of the smaller states of Germany furnish an exceptionally interesting field for the observer. Many amusing illustrations of this can be given. One of the most interesting in the field of the theater is that of the city of Waldeck. The theater in Waldeck is a small affair, but it is a very interesting one. It is a small affair, but it is a very interesting one.

The theater in Waldeck is a small affair, but it is a very interesting one. It is a small affair, but it is a very interesting one. It is a small affair, but it is a very interesting one.

The theater in Waldeck is a small affair, but it is a very interesting one. It is a small affair, but it is a very interesting one. It is a small affair, but it is a very interesting one.

The theater in Waldeck is a small affair, but it is a very interesting one. It is a small affair, but it is a very interesting one. It is a small affair, but it is a very interesting one.

The theater in Waldeck is a small affair, but it is a very interesting one. It is a small affair, but it is a very interesting one. It is a small affair, but it is a very interesting one.

The theater in Waldeck is a small affair, but it is a very interesting one. It is a small affair, but it is a very interesting one. It is a small affair, but it is a very interesting one.

The theater in Waldeck is a small affair, but it is a very interesting one. It is a small affair, but it is a very interesting one. It is a small affair, but it is a very interesting one.

The theater in Waldeck is a small affair, but it is a very interesting one. It is a small affair, but it is a very interesting one. It is a small affair, but it is a very interesting one.

The theater in Waldeck is a small affair, but it is a very interesting one. It is a small affair, but it is a very interesting one. It is a small affair, but it is a very interesting one.

The theater in Waldeck is a small affair, but it is a very interesting one. It is a small affair, but it is a very interesting one. It is a small affair, but it is a very interesting one.

The theater in Waldeck is a small affair, but it is a very interesting one. It is a small affair, but it is a very interesting one. It is a small affair, but it is a very interesting one.

The theater in Waldeck is a small affair, but it is a very interesting one. It is a small affair, but it is a very interesting one. It is a small affair, but it is a very interesting one.

The theater in Waldeck is a small affair, but it is a very interesting one. It is a small affair, but it is a very interesting one. It is a small affair, but it is a very interesting one.

The theater in Waldeck is a small affair, but it is a very interesting one. It is a small affair, but it is a very interesting one. It is a small affair, but it is a very interesting one.

The theater in Waldeck is a small affair, but it is a very interesting one. It is a small affair, but it is a very interesting one. It is a small affair, but it is a very interesting one.

The theater in Waldeck is a small affair, but it is a very interesting one. It is a small affair, but it is a very interesting one. It is a small affair, but it is a very interesting one.

ALL HAVE HISTORIES.

The Civilians Recently Appointed Generals of Volunteers.

James H. Wilson, One of the New Commanders, Directed the Soldiers Who Captured President Jefferson Davis.

[Special Washington Letter.] Each of the civilians recently appointed to the position of major general of volunteers has a history, military as well as civil. Two of them were Confederate leaders and two of them were Union generals in the civil war.

A momentous event in our national history is recalled by the appointment of Maj. Gen. James H. Wilson, the soldier who captured Jefferson Davis, as one of the major generals of volunteers.

One of the veterans who knew him well in the days of his prime and prowess informs the writer that Gen. Wilson stood in high favor with Gen. Grant, who regarded him as a most brilliant and reliable cavalry officer; a soldier always ready to fight.

Naturally as brave as Kilpatrick or Pleasanton, and as dashing as Custer, he was highly esteemed at headquarters in the field on account of his valuable suggestions and ready ability in separating the wheat from the chaff in any military proposition.

Wilson was the capturer of Jefferson Davis, and his raid through the central south in pursuit of the president of the confederacy was one of the notable events of the war. After the suppression of the rebellion Gen. Wilson resigned his position in the regular army and engaged in railroad business.

Wilson was the capturer of Jefferson Davis, and his raid through the central south in pursuit of the president of the confederacy was one of the notable events of the war. After the suppression of the rebellion Gen. Wilson resigned his position in the regular army and engaged in railroad business.

Wilson was the capturer of Jefferson Davis, and his raid through the central south in pursuit of the president of the confederacy was one of the notable events of the war. After the suppression of the rebellion Gen. Wilson resigned his position in the regular army and engaged in railroad business.

Wilson was the capturer of Jefferson Davis, and his raid through the central south in pursuit of the president of the confederacy was one of the notable events of the war. After the suppression of the rebellion Gen. Wilson resigned his position in the regular army and engaged in railroad business.

Wilson was the capturer of Jefferson Davis, and his raid through the central south in pursuit of the president of the confederacy was one of the notable events of the war. After the suppression of the rebellion Gen. Wilson resigned his position in the regular army and engaged in railroad business.

Wilson was the capturer of Jefferson Davis, and his raid through the central south in pursuit of the president of the confederacy was one of the notable events of the war. After the suppression of the rebellion Gen. Wilson resigned his position in the regular army and engaged in railroad business.

Wilson was the capturer of Jefferson Davis, and his raid through the central south in pursuit of the president of the confederacy was one of the notable events of the war. After the suppression of the rebellion Gen. Wilson resigned his position in the regular army and engaged in railroad business.

Wilson was the capturer of Jefferson Davis, and his raid through the central south in pursuit of the president of the confederacy was one of the notable events of the war. After the suppression of the rebellion Gen. Wilson resigned his position in the regular army and engaged in railroad business.

Wilson was the capturer of Jefferson Davis, and his raid through the central south in pursuit of the president of the confederacy was one of the notable events of the war. After the suppression of the rebellion Gen. Wilson resigned his position in the regular army and engaged in railroad business.

Wilson was the capturer of Jefferson Davis, and his raid through the central south in pursuit of the president of the confederacy was one of the notable events of the war. After the suppression of the rebellion Gen. Wilson resigned his position in the regular army and engaged in railroad business.

Wilson was the capturer of Jefferson Davis, and his raid through the central south in pursuit of the president of the confederacy was one of the notable events of the war. After the suppression of the rebellion Gen. Wilson resigned his position in the regular army and engaged in railroad business.

Wilson was the capturer of Jefferson Davis, and his raid through the central south in pursuit of the president of the confederacy was one of the notable events of the war. After the suppression of the rebellion Gen. Wilson resigned his position in the regular army and engaged in railroad business.

Wilson was the capturer of Jefferson Davis, and his raid through the central south in pursuit of the president of the confederacy was one of the notable events of the war. After the suppression of the rebellion Gen. Wilson resigned his position in the regular army and engaged in railroad business.

MINNESOTA NEWS.

Sheep Skins.

The regents of the university met at the state farm and determined upon the list of graduates. This list, as completed, contains 296 names, as follows: College of science, literature and the arts, 118; higher degrees, 14; mechanical engineering, 20; mining, 11; law, 93; medicine, 14; dentistry, 14; pharmacy, 12. Degrees have been issued to two students who have died within the last three months, Edna M. Stock and Carl Hahn. During the year there have been 35 students dropped from the senior classes of the academic department, so blighting their hopes of graduation this spring. From the other departments pupils failed to gain sheepskins as follows: Medicine, 5; pharmacy, 3; law, 3; dentistry, 2.

A statue of Governor John S. Pillsbury will ornament the campus of the university. That was decided at the annual meeting of the university alumni. The movement was started a year ago when E. C. Chaffield introduced a resolution declaring that a statue on the campus would be a fitting recognition of Governor Pillsbury's services to the university. A committee composed of Messrs. Chaffield, Partridge, Gillette and Quinn was named to investigate and report. They investigated and evidently to govern, for recently they had entered into a contract with Daniel O. French of New York to erect the statue within three years at a cost of $15,000.

Our Allotment. Minnesota's allotment under the second call for troops is 1,742, and official word to that effect was wired to Gov. Clough by Adjutant General Corbin. Of this number 990 will go to fill the shortage which exists in the regular regiments now at the front, and the remainder will probably form the nucleus of a new regiment, which will have J. C. Shandrew for its colonel. Permission will be asked to furnish the additional 250 men necessary to make up a regiment. Majors Schaeffer and Whitney, of the 13th and 14th, have been ordered to return to Minnesota and take charge of the recruiting for their regiments.

Private Elevators. Judge Bunn, of St. Paul, decides that private elevators are not amenable to the warehouse commission. In the case against the Cargill company the court finds that the elevator was used for the purpose of storing and handling the grain of the company and not that of other persons, and that, therefore, even though the elevator was the way of the railroad, the commission had no right to exact a license. In addition to the holding that the law is unconstitutional as relating to private elevators, it is also held that it is valid so far as it relates to public elevators or storehouses.

Crushed by a Tree. Four Indians from the Fond du Lac reservation at Cloquet, who were on the drive about thirty miles above Cloquet, were sleeping in a tent on the banks of the river when the wind blew down a dry tamarack tree about a foot and a half through across the tent, pinning them all to the ground. Joseph Houle Jr., William Buttle and Charles Northrup, who were lying on their side, were badly hurt; Alex McKenzie, who was lying on his back, escaped with a few bruises.

Forest Fire Record. Chief Fire Warden Andrews has issued his third annual report. The damage done by forest fires in 1907 was $23,455, and by forest fires, $14,554. Sixteen forest fires were caused from clearing land, eleven from burning brush and meadow, and eleven from camps of hunters and campers. Eight prairie and field fires were caused by threshing engines, eleven by railroad locomotives, eight from burning straw or stubble and eight from burning firebrakes.

Happy. The happiest man in the Twelfth regiment at Chicago was Chaplain Clemens when the agent of the South ern express set down before his tent a small portable organ, the gift of Everett, Aughenbaugh & Co., millers of Waseca. It was just what the chaplain had been longing for, and he did not even try to conceal his pleasure. The proverbial boy and his new boots was in it for an instant with the parson.

Corner Stone for the Capitol. The magnificent granite block which is to serve as the corner stone of Minnesota's handsome new capitol is being cut at the Baxter quarry near St. Cloud. It weighs many tons, and there is being chiseled out of the center a receptacle in which will be placed a number of documents historical of our state and its progress. Work on the granite contract is progressing rapidly.

Minnesota Briefs. Six horses stolen from F. H. Armstrong's barn in Minneapolis were recovered in St. Paul. The Great Northern railway company has recently acquired 60 acres of land at South Crookston for divisional headquarters, and will immediately commence the construction of necessary yards, round house and buildings. A Johnson was killed by falling out of the third story window of a lodging house in Minneapolis.

The Macalester college completed its thirteenth year and graduated a class of ten. The Thirteenth regiment needs 300 more men. The St. Anthony & Dakota elevator at Cokato was destroyed by fire. Joe Arkuszanski, 6 years old, fell from the second story of Korman's store at Sank Rapids, a distance of 100 feet, onto the sidewalk and struck on his side. The boy was bruised, but there were no bones broken.

Frederick Marcellon attempted suicide at St. Paul by jumping into the river, but was rescued by some boys. He was recovered from a spree. Francis Blair and his son, Narcisse, were drowned at Crookston. The boy was crossing the river on a boom with lumber for his father, who was night watchman in the lumber mill, and fell in. His father attempted to rescue him.

Mrs. Elizabeth Patch, of Minneapolis, recently celebrated her 100th birthday. Five young men are in jail at Owatonna accused of beating an old man and assaulting a woman. The house of Chas. J. Johnson, at Big Lake, was struck by lightning and partially destroyed.

HOUSE AGREES TO IT

Adopts the Compromise War Revenue Measure.

The Bill Almost Certain to Become a Law—An Abstract of Its Most Important Features of Taxation.

Washington, June 10.—The house agreed to the conference report on the war revenue bill. The bill, which was passed by the house on June 8, is now in the hands of the conference committee. The bill is expected to become a law within a few days.

The bill is a compromise between the two houses. It provides for a tax on the sale of real estate, and on the sale of personal property. It also provides for a tax on the income of corporations, and on the income of individuals. The bill is expected to raise $1,000,000,000 for the war.

The bill is a compromise between the two houses. It provides for a tax on the sale of real estate, and on the sale of personal property. It also provides for a tax on the income of corporations, and on the income of individuals. The bill is expected to raise $1,000,000,000 for the war.

The bill is a compromise between the two houses. It provides for a tax on the sale of real estate, and on the sale of personal property. It also provides for a tax on the income of corporations, and on the income of individuals. The bill is expected to raise $1,000,000,000 for the war.

The bill is a compromise between the two houses. It provides for a tax on the sale of real estate, and on the sale of personal property. It also provides for a tax on the income of corporations, and on the income of individuals. The bill is expected to raise $1,000,000,000 for the war.

The bill is a compromise between the two houses. It provides for a tax on the sale of real estate, and on the sale of personal property. It also provides for a tax on the income of corporations, and on the income of individuals. The bill is expected to raise $1,000,000,000 for the war.

The bill is a compromise between the two houses. It provides for a tax on the sale of real estate, and on the sale of personal property. It also provides for a tax on the income of corporations, and on the income of individuals. The bill is expected to raise $1,000,000,000 for the war.

The bill is a compromise between the two houses. It provides for a tax on the sale of real estate, and on the sale of personal property. It also provides for a tax on the income of corporations, and on the income of individuals. The bill is expected to raise $1,000,000,000 for the war.

The bill is a compromise between the two houses. It provides for a tax on the sale of real estate, and on the sale of personal property. It also provides for a tax on the income of corporations, and on the income of individuals. The bill is expected to raise $1,000,000,000 for the war.

The bill is a compromise between the two houses. It provides for a tax on the sale of real estate, and on the sale of personal property. It also provides for a tax on the income of corporations, and on the income of individuals. The bill is expected to raise $1,000,000,000 for the war.

The bill is a compromise between the two houses. It provides for a tax on the sale of real estate, and on the sale of personal property. It also provides for a tax on the income of corporations, and on the income of individuals. The bill is expected to raise $1,000,000,000 for the war.

The bill is a compromise between the two houses. It provides for a tax on the sale of real estate, and on the sale of personal property. It also provides for a tax on the income of corporations, and on the income of individuals. The bill is expected to raise $1,000,000,000 for the war.

The bill is a compromise between the two houses. It provides for a tax on the sale of real estate, and on the sale of personal property. It also provides for a tax on the income of corporations, and on the income of individuals. The bill is expected to raise $1,000,000,000 for the war.

The bill is a compromise between the two houses. It provides for a tax on the sale of real estate, and on the sale of personal property. It also provides for a tax on the income of corporations, and on the income of individuals. The bill is expected to raise $1,000,000,000 for the war.

The bill is a compromise between the two houses. It provides for a tax on the sale of real estate, and on the sale of personal property. It also provides for a tax on the income of corporations, and on the income of individuals. The bill is expected to raise $1,000,000,000 for the war.

The bill is a compromise between the two houses. It provides for a tax on the sale of real estate, and on the sale of personal property. It also provides for a tax on the income of corporations, and on the income of individuals. The bill is expected to raise $1,000,000,000 for the war.

The bill is a compromise between the two houses. It provides for a tax on the sale of real estate, and on the sale of personal property. It also provides for a tax on the income of corporations, and on the income of individuals. The bill is expected to raise $1,000,000,000 for the war.

A THEATER TYRANT.

Queer Title Bestowed on the Reigning Princess of Waldeck.

Amusing Picture of Art and Dramatic Life in the Capital of One of Germany's Ducal States.

[Special Berlin Letter.] One of the most interesting and peculiar features of German life is the society and the manners in the "residences" of duodecimal states. It is there, in fact, where alone in the young and pushing empire the German of 50 and 60 years ago still survives. Of course, it has always been the case in Germany that its art and literary life has been highly centralized. The classical period of German literature, with its Goethe, Schiller, Herder, Wieland and Lessing, all enjoying the mild impetus of patronage exerted by small courts and enlightened rulers of petty states—in that respect but typical. Even today, with all the strong hegemony which Berlin and Prussia exert in the political life of the nation, the intellectual life of Germany is by no means centralized in the empire's capital, as any surface observer may notice.

The capitals of the smaller states of Germany furnish an exceptionally interesting field for the observer. Many amusing illustrations of this can be given. One of the most interesting in the field of the theater is that of the city of Waldeck. The theater in Waldeck is a small affair, but it is a very interesting one. It is a small affair, but it is a very interesting one.

The theater in Waldeck is a small affair, but it is a very interesting one. It is a small affair, but it is a very interesting one. It is a small affair, but it is a very interesting one.

The theater in Waldeck is a small affair, but it is a very interesting one. It is a small affair, but it is a very interesting one. It is a small affair, but it is a very interesting one.

The theater in Waldeck is a small affair, but it is a very interesting one. It is a small affair, but it is a very interesting one. It is a small affair, but it is a very interesting one.

The theater in Waldeck is a small affair, but it is a very interesting one. It is a small affair, but it is a very interesting one. It is a small affair, but it is a very interesting one.

The theater in Waldeck is a small affair, but it is a very interesting one. It is a small affair, but it is a very interesting one. It is a small affair, but it is a very interesting one.

The theater in Waldeck is a small affair, but it is a very interesting one. It is a small affair, but it is a very interesting one. It is a small affair, but it is a very interesting one.

The theater in Waldeck is a small affair, but it is a very interesting one. It is a small affair, but it is a very interesting one. It is a small affair, but it is a very interesting one.

The theater in Waldeck is a small affair, but it is a very interesting one. It is a small affair, but it is a very interesting one. It is a small affair, but it is a very interesting one.

The theater in Waldeck is a small affair, but it is a very interesting one. It is a small affair, but it is a very interesting one. It is a small affair, but it is a very interesting one.

The theater in Waldeck is a small affair, but it is a very interesting one. It is a small affair, but it is a very interesting one. It is a small affair, but it is a very interesting one.

The theater in Waldeck is a small affair, but it is a very interesting one. It is a small affair, but it is a very interesting one. It is a small affair, but it is a very interesting one.

The theater in Waldeck is a small affair, but it is a very interesting one. It is a small affair, but it is a very interesting one. It is a small affair, but it is a very interesting one.

The theater in Waldeck is a small affair, but it is a very interesting one. It is a small affair, but it is a very interesting one. It is a small affair, but it is a very interesting one.

The theater in Waldeck is a small affair, but it is a very interesting one. It is a small affair, but it is a very interesting one. It is a small affair, but it is a very interesting one.

The theater in Waldeck is a small affair, but it is a very interesting one. It is a small affair, but it is a very interesting one. It is a small affair, but it is a very interesting one.

ALL HAVE HISTORIES.

The Civilians Recently Appointed Generals of Volunteers.

James H. Wilson, One of the New Commanders, Directed the Soldiers Who Captured President Jefferson Davis.

[Special Washington Letter.] Each of the civilians recently appointed to the position of major general of volunteers has a history, military as well as civil. Two of them were Confederate leaders and two of them were Union generals in the civil war.

A momentous event in our national history is recalled by the appointment of Maj. Gen. James H. Wilson, the soldier who captured Jefferson Davis, as one of the major generals of volunteers.

One of the veterans who knew him well in the days of his prime and prowess informs the writer that Gen. Wilson stood in high favor with Gen. Grant, who regarded him as a most brilliant and reliable cavalry officer; a soldier always ready to fight.

Naturally as brave as Kilpatrick or Pleasanton, and as dashing as Custer, he was highly esteemed at headquarters in the field on account of his valuable suggestions and ready ability in separating the wheat from the chaff in any military proposition.

Wilson was the capturer of Jefferson Davis, and his raid through the central south in pursuit of the president of the confederacy was one of the notable events of the war. After the suppression of the rebellion Gen. Wilson resigned his position in the regular army and engaged in railroad business.

Wilson was the capturer of Jefferson Davis, and his raid through the central south in pursuit of the president of the confederacy was one of the notable events of the war. After the suppression of the rebellion Gen. Wilson resigned his position in the regular army and engaged in railroad business.

Wilson was the capturer of Jefferson Davis, and his raid through the central south in pursuit of the president of the confederacy was one of the notable events of the war. After the suppression of the rebellion Gen. Wilson resigned his position in the regular army and engaged in railroad business.

Wilson was the capturer of Jefferson Davis, and his raid through the central south in pursuit of the president of the confederacy was one of the notable events of the war. After the suppression of the rebellion Gen. Wilson resigned his position in the regular army and engaged in railroad business.

Wilson was the capturer of Jefferson Davis, and his raid through the central south in pursuit of the president of the confederacy was one of the notable events of the war. After the suppression of the rebellion Gen. Wilson resigned his position in the regular army and engaged in railroad business.

Wilson was the capturer of Jefferson Davis, and his raid through the central south in pursuit of the president of the confederacy was one of the notable events of the war. After the suppression of the rebellion Gen. Wilson resigned his position in the regular army and engaged in railroad business.

Wilson was the capturer of Jefferson Davis, and his raid through the central south in pursuit of the president of the confederacy was one of the notable events of the war. After the suppression of the rebellion Gen. Wilson resigned his position in the regular army and engaged in railroad business.

Wilson was the capturer of Jefferson Davis, and his raid through the central south in pursuit of the president of the confederacy was one of the notable events of the war. After the suppression of the rebellion Gen. Wilson resigned his position in the regular army and engaged in railroad business.

Wilson was the capturer of Jefferson Davis, and his raid through the central south in pursuit of the president of the confederacy was one of the notable events of the war. After the suppression of the rebellion Gen. Wilson resigned his position in the regular army and engaged in railroad business.

Wilson was the capturer of Jefferson Davis, and his raid through the central south in pursuit of the president of the confederacy was one of the notable events of the war. After the suppression of the rebellion Gen. Wilson resigned his position in the regular army and engaged in railroad business.

Wilson was the capturer of Jefferson Davis, and his raid through the central south in pursuit of the president of the confederacy was one of the notable events of the war. After the suppression of the rebellion Gen. Wilson resigned his position in the regular army and engaged in railroad business.

Wilson was the capturer of Jefferson Davis, and his raid through the central south in pursuit of the president of the confederacy was one of the notable events of the war. After the suppression of the rebellion Gen. Wilson resigned his position in the regular army and engaged in railroad business.

Wilson was the capturer of Jefferson Davis, and his raid through the central south in pursuit of the president of the confederacy was one of the notable events of the war. After the suppression of the rebellion Gen. Wilson resigned his position in the regular army and engaged in railroad business.