Poetry.

THE FARMER'S DOG. My prize-winning servant, the best of your race, Full well I remember that bright, honest face...

The two-legged ones we often hear bark. Are mischievous curs, and will bite in the dark...

And sheep-stealing rascals, curl under the tail. But manage their mischief, and manage their talk...

How oft 'er the fields have I taken a trip. While Jack on before me delighted would skip...

Each night he kept watch, as he lay in the shed; Should danger impend, he arose from his bed...

Was a pig in the garden, a cow in the corn. An unwelcome visitor come to the barn...

When 'er to the neighbors a visit I made, Or, maybe, three miles to the village I strayed...

So mild and so gentle a temper he bore, He'd sport with the children all day on the floor...

How plainly, in fancy, now I can describe. His general look, his benevolent eye...

But now I must do you my Backsley canine. Say, you that love dogs, will you not with me join...

SONS OF TEMPERANCE. I go back to the age of Jesus Christ, and I am immediately struck with the commencement...

PEASE & ROBERTS. I see a new religion, of a character altogether of its own, which bore no likeness of any past...

STEPHEN BUCKLAND & CO. I see these men beginning their work on the spot where their Master's blood had been shed...

EDWARD P. DICKINSON. I see the humbleness of Jesus winning their way, overpowering prejudice, breaking the ranks...

RALPH P. BUCKLAND. I see the humbleness of Jesus winning their way, overpowering prejudice, breaking the ranks...

JOHN L. GREENE. I see the humbleness of Jesus winning their way, overpowering prejudice, breaking the ranks...

Extracts from the Knickerbocker. Here is a very pretty 'Serenade,' from a Vermont correspondent:

From the window high, While the dew drops shone and glistened, And the stars were in the sky;

'Lady! lady! thou art fleeting, Youth will soon be passed, And the heart—its very beating Wears it out at last.'

'Listen to me, fairest maiden! By the stars above, Ere thy life with years is laden, Yield thy heart to love.'

So he sang, and so she listened To her lover's lay, And while the dew-drops shone and glistened, Laughing turned away.

CHARLES G. EASTMAN. The reader will remember the lines published in the Knickerbocker for August, 1849, entitled 'My Boy'...

Room for him to the Ranks of humanity; Give him a place in Your kingdom of vanity; Welcome the stranger with Kindly affection;

Hopefully, trustfully, Not with dejection. 'Incomprehensible, Budding immortal! Through all amazement, Under life's perils: Born to a destiny, Clouded in mystery, Wisdom itself cannot Guess at his history.'

Ab! that history was as a tale that is told; His little life was rounded with a sleep, and he is 'taken from the evil to come.'

Who has 'threw' this upon our table? It is scandalous; it is open to exception? It is not known to be 'founded'; it may be all a mistake.

Then—and now. Sir Knight, clad in arms, to my lady vowed love, And then resisted all concussions, Yet these are only cotton wool, And freely yield to slight impressions!

Our Springfield (Mass.) friend laughs at us for our 'self-confessed ignorance of mowing.'

'My Lady, not so! Our style of mowing is not the same as that of the conceded grass-cutters of Tarrytown, but that is their misfortune...
