Remarkable Instance of Good Fortune.

We exact the following little story from Miss Bremer's 'Northern Loves and Legends': "Certainly, you have observed how strangely, sometimes, the clouds, at morning and evening, ground themselves round the sun and are lighted up by it, and you have thought sometimes—'If this should be represented in printing, people would say, it is unnatural, it is not true!'"

London Living.

As the present season will see ten times the number of Americans in London than were ever there before, at the same time, the following extracts from a letter to the New York Commercial Advertiser, will be read with interest:

A Lament.

Once in the season of childhood's joy, Dreaming never of life's great ill, Hand in hand with a happy boy, I walked about on my native hills.

A Touching Incident.

We extract the following touching incident from a letter in the New York Mirror, written by a passenger in one of Collin's steamers to Europe:

Thrilling Incident.

On Tuesday last, during the height of the storm, a washer-woman residing in the basement of a house, corner of London and Deatur streets, East Roston, went to another section of that part of the city, to do some work, leaving behind her an infant and another child only four years of age, whom she locked in her room.

Jenny Lind and Little Jimmy.

Mr. Handington, who is attached to the Jenny Lind troupe, to arrange and number the seats, they were found surrounded with the rising water, and with all possible haste, they broke open the door of the basement, where they found the two children safe in the cradle, the eldest sitting up in one end, and the infant lying down in the other.

What Ear-rings Indicate.

The custom of wearing ear-rings is said to have originated in this way—Originally among the Hebrews Arabs, and other nations, the ears of the servant to bearken to the command of his master Rings were afterward invented, to denote the perpetuity of his bonds, as the servants forever. Thus, ear-rings were the badge of slavery.

THE BASTINADO IN ITALY.

Exactly a week ago, this is, on the 28th of last month, the stick was restored to that favorite instrument of Austrian eloquence, in the prisons of Santa Palagia, at Ancona, as a mode of extracting evidence, thus reviving, in fact, the atrocious middle age system of judicial torture. The bastinadoing operation took place at five o'clock in the afternoon, on the persons of two countrymen, against whom for three months previously, the papal police had been compiling a series of accusations without ever being able to bring forward any satisfactory proof of their guilt.
