Good Habits

—and Bad

The easiest thing in the world to acquire is Habit; perhaps we should say a "bad" habit.

We may accustom ourselves to a thing until it becomes a sort of "second nature"; a part of our daily lives.

How important, then, is it that we use all diligence that the habits we acquire are good rather than bad.

The spending habit is one of the easiest, and one of the most pleasant into which we are prone to drift.

The saving habit is more difficult, for it means in most instances a certain amount of self denial.

However, the time must come in the life of every person when the habit of thrift is rewarded; the habit of spending regretted.

The person who lives from day to day is flirting with danger. Unforeseen contingencies arise and then comes the thought of how he might have prepared in times past. Why not look the future in the face and be prepared by saving a portion of your earnings and investing in the 8 per cent Gold Notes of the Liberal Light, Ice & Power Company? These notes are sold on payments anyone can meet, and provide a safe, well-paying investment, for anyone, whether he desires to invest hundreds or thousands. They are sold in denominations of $100.00 and up.
