

RADIO DOWN ON THE FARM

Now that everybody, old and young has taken to decorating the house-tops with weird contraptions of wood and wire, and causing their necks to settle in their foundations under the weight of headphones, there seems to have come a new answer to an old problem how to keep 'em down on the farm. All of which will be explained at the International Wheat and Farm Products Exposition to be held in Wichita from September 25 to October 7.

The popularization of radio has finished what the Ford and the phonograph started for the farmer, and has done a lot that they could not even begin. It may be likened to a super-periodical, a concert hall, and a university, it gives the latest news and brings to everyone the voices of the greatest thinkers, scholars, and singers of the day.

Pa gets the news of the latest acrobatics of wheat prices; Ma learns how to make the new rutabaga fritters; Bud finds out that the Sox are still limping along; and Sis gets Polly Persimmon's latest dope on the Heart. And before long they'll be calling the stock by radio, or be lulling them to sleep with "I'm a Jazz Baby."

For new improvements are being made in the field every day. They are even considering killing flies with the magic Hertzian wave, and Signor Marconi, who made radio what it is, is now shooting radio waves in whatever direction he wills, as from a gun.

These wonders and many more will be exhibited at the Wheat Show, as a part of the district conventions of the American Radio League and the Kansas Radio League.

Around in "Back Pay" a Paramount Picture Soon to Be Seen Here.

Outdoor scenes of rare beauty are notable in "Back Pay," a Paramount picture created by Cosmopolitan Productions which will be presented at the Tucker theatre Wednesday and Thursday, September 27 and 28. The story tells of a country girl who is dissatisfied with her surroundings in a small town and goes to New York. For the rural scenes, Frank Borzage, who directed the picture, took his company to Delaware Water Gap in Pennsylvania, one of the scenic wonders of America. The gorgeous mountains, the peaceful Delaware and the lakes that abound in that region formed wonderful backgrounds for the country passages in the production. The natural advantages were fully utilized by the cameraman, Chester Lyons.
