

DODGE BROTHERS BUSINESS SEDAN

With this car, Dodge Brothers have literally created a new type of sedan.

They have combined open car ruggedness with closed car protection and smartness.

They have demonstrated, once for all, that a sedan can be as practical and almost as inexpensive as an open touring car.

The body is built of hand-welded steel because steel is sturdy, and will take a permanent, oven-baked finish, eliminating forever the cost of repainting.

The seats are upholstered in attractive, genuine Spanish blue leather, because leather will wash and wear.

To further enlarge the car's usefulness, the rear seat, back and side cushions, seat frame and foot rest are quickly removable, giving sixty-four cubic feet of flat loading space in the rear compartment. The manifold uses made possible by this unique feature are readily imagined.

The top and rear quarters are of non-rumble, fabric construction, conforming with the present attractive vogue. From cord tires to curtain cords, the fittings, inside and out, are distinctive and complete.

In fact, every detail of the car emphasizes its striking adaptability to business as well as social use.

TAX MONEY FOR PROPAGANDA

The taxpayers of Kansas have again been called upon to pay for Governor H. J. Allen's propaganda to put over in the national congress the Kansas industrial court law. In last Saturday's issue of the Kansas City, Mo., Star, there appeared the following item:

"A new pamphlet on the industrial court's work in Kansas was issued today by the state printing plant. The pamphlet is the material gathered by Governor Allen and submitted to Homer Hoch, representative in congress from the fourth district."

Why should the tax-burdened people of Kansas be called upon to pay for the printing and publishing of material about the industrial court for Homer Hoch, a member of congress? If Mr. Hoch wanted the material, he should get congress to pay for it. And if he could not get congress to pay for it, then he should do without it.

After more than a year of attempting to get some one to introduce a bill in congress to give the nation a law similar to the "Kansas fizzle," Governor Allen finally persuaded Homer Hoch to introduce a bill patterned after the Kansas bill. This gave Governor Allen a little more national advertising. And the governor proposes to cash in on this advertising opportunity.

After Hoch had introduced the bill, the governor wrote him a long letter, approximately 5,000 words, purporting to tell how the Kansas industrial court had proved a great success, how it had been invaluable to the people of Kansas in the great strikes and how it had demonstrated that the nation should get Governor Allen's ideas into the national government at once.

The Republican newspaper ring gave wide publicity to this letter. Columns were devoted to it in all the big papers. Senator Capper's Capital carried it in full. The Wichita Beacon carried it and the Kansas City Star and the Kansas City Journal gave columns to it.

Now the people of Kansas have been compelled to pay for the printing of a large number of copies of this letter, so that Governor Allen and his pet court can get some more national advertising.

Granting that the industrial court had proved a success, which it certainly has not, why in Heaven's name should the people of Kansas be required to pay for the printing of literature telling the people of other states about it? If it were such a success would not the people of other states find out about it, and would not they be willing to pay for finding out? If the industrial court of Kansas was a remedy for industrial evils the national congress and the people of the nation would be willing to pay any price necessary to learn about it and to make it a national law. But the people of the nation do not believe it has proved a success and so Governor Allen uses the money of the people of Kansas to try to convince them that they are wrong.

Thousands and thousands of dollars of the people's money have been spent in giving national publicity to this law since it was put on the statute books. Thousands of dollars have been spent in other ways in advertising Allen and his law. But requiring the people to pay for publishing Governor Allen's letter to Congressman Hoch is the last straw. If the people of Kansas do not show their resentment of this waste of their tax money at the November election then they will deserve to be tax-ridden the rest of their days.

And the people should remember that if they vote for W. Y. Morgan for governor they will be voting for a man who has pledged himself to carry out the Allen policies relating to the industrial court.

By voting for Farmer Jonathan Davis is the only way the people can stop this shameful waste of their tax money.—Democrat News.

AMARILLAN MISSING BLOOD STAINS IN CAR

Amarillo, Texas, Sept. 27.—The mysterious disappearance of Arthur E. Stinson of the Stinson Cattle Company Monday morning, and the finding of his automobile Tuesday morning near the Rock Island crossing east of the Great West Mill & Elevator Company, with considerable blood on the seat cushion, gives rise to the belief that there has been foul play, according to information given out at the Sheriff's department Tuesday afternoon.

Texas Rangers, members of the Sheriff's and Police departments and citizens of Amarillo are scouring the country in search of the missing man, but up to a late hour Tuesday afternoon, he had not been located.

Mr. Stinson, who is 26 years old, left his home early Monday morning to feed his hogs near the dairy. He did not return Monday night and Tuesday morning the family became alarmed, instituting an immediate search.

Stinson is the son of J. D. Stinson and has been working at the dairy business for the past few months. He was formerly with the Amarillo Grain Exchange.—Dalhart Texan.

HUNTING CHICKENS

The local sportsmen are putting in good time this week in hunting the elusive prairie chickens. Reports given by hunters state that chickens are numerous this year, and it is possible to scare them up in most any part of the sand hills. A number of hunters from Colorado, Oklahoma and eastern Kansas have been here to try their luck at bagging the limit. Hunters with dogs have not met with any better luck than the fellow hunting without a dog, as the country is so dry it is hard for a dog to work with any results, and then the chickens are not standing for the dogs as quail do. The dog may locate his bird, all right, but about that time the bird starts moving and by the time the hunter gets up to the dog the bird is out of gunshot.

Duck shooting is not very promising as there are so few water holes this year, due to the long, dry spell. Some of the hunters report having killed very good bags, but at present there are very few ducks in this country.—Garden City Telegram.
