The Hanger for Land.

The people of Kansas have never before been so hungry for land as they are this year. Men who came here at an early day, and who are now far advanced in years, are, many of them, now in the land counties, on the frontier, first exercising their preemption or homestead rights They have lived heretofore in the eastern counties, have followed different lines of business, and have not succeeded. Their fellow pioneers who took up claims and became farmers are almost universally in good circumstances; their homes are comfortable; their farms highly improved; t ey have laid something up for a ruiny day; they no longer fear an old age of poverty and want; they have the means to World. educate their children in the best of schools and colleges; the hopes of youth are realized, and they enjoy a serene and blissful old age. This sight has had, and is The Smoothest and Prettiest Coun having a marked effect upon the large class of men who are still poor, farmless and almost homeless. They have lived on our eastern border, and have distrust- line. It is 36 by 30 miles and They were in an envelope directed every movement to a new tier of western counties. "There is no rain there," they have been saying for thirty years; "the soil you will fail, and come back here disappointed and penniless." Prentis probably means to make a stock farm of his claim in Thomas county, and as we happened to know, already has a small "bunch" of cattle to begin with.

All this is well. The flag of Kansas floats over every county and protects them all. The fear of the "desert" no longer frightens men, women or children. Whatever man has ever done may be done; and the Kansas man can do lots oi things that no man has ever done before. Pioneering is rough and hard, but it is the way to get to the star. Tens of thousands are traveling the western roads this year. - Hiawatha last week with erysipelas on his left arm.
