> The Bisbee Orb says that the Roy mine in the Pilares district, has been sold to Denver parties. The Roy property consists of 114 pertenencias. It is a very high silver proposition, a chloride ore. Pieces of ore are often found which are held together by the horn silver in them. There is no second class ore. The ore is in pockets and is taken out of a forty-foot tunnel which taps it at 150 feet deep. It is proposed to go in farther down the mountain and tap the ore at 1,200 feet. McKim & Fenton have been working the mine about eighteen months and have taken out $200,000 in gold in that time. It has cost $60,000 to develop and operate the mine, leaving the owners a net profit of $140,000 two tons of ore a day. The purchase price is said to be $200,000 in gold.

A Question for the Grand Jury.

NOGALES, July 19th, 1899.

Now that the grand jury has adjourned I would like a little space in your paper to ask the members of that body why they did not investigate the Flewelling jail building contract, which the board of supervisors let without advertising for bids as required by law?

My understanding is that it is the duty of a grand jury to inquire into such matters. Every member of that body knew that it had been publicly charged that Mr. Flewelling had been paid four hundred and ninety dollars, with one hundred dollars additional for putting up an adobe building with a corrugated iron roof. Beside that five hundred and ninety dollars he was given the material in the old jail which I am told he has sold at a price which will bring him more than one hundred dollars-making a total of more than six hundred and ninety dollars. The grand jury knew that three reputable contractors had declared that they would fill Flewelling's contract for three hundred and fifty, three hundred and sixty and three hundred and seventy-eight dollars respectively. Why did not the grand jury take up the matter and investige it?

And I want to say right here that for the consideration given Mr. Flewelling to put up that adobe jail building I would have erected a substantial brick building of the same dimen-

Now Messrs. Grand Jurymen I am a taxpayer and a contractor. I am gines, smelters and concentrators. All doubly injured by that Flewelling contract. It was your duty to investigate the reasons wby such injury was done me and other taxpayers and contractors. I would like particularly to have the chairman of the grand jury, Mr. Overton, and its secretary, Mr. Perkins, reply to these inquiries. W. N. LESTER.

"The Oasis" Editor Indicted,

Saturday night it was noised about the streets that the grand jury had voted to report two indictments against the editor of THE OASIS, and before Monday it was kown all over the county. Monday morning several substantial citizens came in from Calabasas and Crittenden, with an avowed intention of going upon the bail bonds. They waited in town all day expecting the indictments to be reported. But they were not brought into court until late Tuesday mo ning. Mr. Bird was on hand with several gentlemen all ready and willing to qualify as bondsmen. But Attorney Satterwhite, who appeared for him, thought it better to present only two securities, so Mr. R. R. Richardson of Crittenden, and J. T. Brickwood were offered to qualify and were accepted. But a dozen more were ready to qualify in any amount.
